Fists fly in South Tower brawl

By Cynthia Salinas
NEWS CONTRIBUTOR

A student was arrested early Friday morning and charged with two counts of simple assault after an incident D-floor in the South Tower.

Robert Hurd, who was released and escorted off campus, is allegedly one of 20 students to have attacked four members of the Tau Kappa Epsilon (TKE) fraternity.

One of the TKE brothers was seriously injured.

"There were about four guys punching and kicking me. I remember getting hit in the face a few times while I was conscious," said the TKE brother, who is a minor.

"I was taken to Wayne General Hospital for treatment of a multi-shattered nose, a hairline fractured jaw, a loose tooth and a mild concussion," he said.

TKE Chris Krawtschuk saw his brother lying on the floor in a pool of blood.

"There were about four to five guys fighting with each of us. When campus police finally got there and things started to settle I didn't see one of my brothers. I looked around and saw him laying on the floor with blood coming out of his nose and mouth."

The TKEs involved say the incident began between 2 and 3 a.m.

"We were coming back from a mixer and walking through the pavilion near the elevator. This guy must have thought we said something to him because he said, 'What the fuck are you looking at?' I said, 'Nothing. What the fuck are you looking at?'" said Rey Lopezzone, one of the four TKEs involved.

TKE Greg Yuter said a security guard came over and told him [Hurd] to leave or the guard would call campus police.

"The guy [Hurd] said, 'I'm not going anywhere' and then he swung at Rey and they started to scuffle," said Yuter. "We broke them up and then this guy with the ripped shirt [Hurd] walks out of the Pavilion and said, 'Yo guys, come here.'"

The next thing you know like 20 guys are coming at us," Yuter said.

Yuter said he has filed charges against Hurd with campus police.

Campus police officer Lanette Shaw is also pressing charges against Hurd after he allegedly tried to curtail the arrest.

The TKE who was hospitalized was not able to file charges, but is scheduled to do so today.

Despite its severity, he said he is not going to let the incident discourage him from continuing his education at WPC.

The TKE fraternity is looking to have all those involved in the attack expelled.

Kirkpatrick returns to DLS

Jeane Kirkpatrick

Ex-Reagan cabinet member Jeane Kirkpatrick told a filled Shea Auditorium Friday night that now is the most interesting, promising, still-dangerous moment in history.

Kirkpatrick shared her views about how much the world had changed since her last appearance in 1986.

Kirkpatrick's second appearance as a distinguished lecturer marked the first time in the series' history that a speaker has made a repeat visit.

"The world lived on the edge of war for a decade," Kirkpatrick said, noting that America spent more than $4 trillion in preparation for a cold war.

U.S. and Soviets really didn't negotiate, said. They were "frozen into a position of self defense."

The world changed, suddenly, when Mikhail Gorbachev "agreed to agree" to Hungary opening up its border with Austria, May 3, 1989, Kirkpatrick said.

Gorbachev understood that the Soviet economic and social system was not strong enough to maintain competition, she said. "He knew how far behind they were."

Gorbachev's actions unleashed pent up passions for freedom for all people in central and Eastern Europe and Russia, according to Kirkpatrick.

It was too optimistic to expect a Utopia she said, but "it was enormously exhilarating to see the turn to freedom. All of them [Eastern Bloc] turned to democracy and capitalism."

Kirkpatrick stated that there are two pathways to development: capitalistic and socialistic.

In socialist societies, "workers pretended to work and government pretended to pay them," Kirkpatrick said, adding that it's easier to teach people to work hard with a profit incentive.

Kirkpatrick cited Taiwan and South Korea as relatively new democratic countries reaping the benefits of a capitalistic economy.

China was another country with a government understanding the importance of an incentive system, Kirkpatrick said, adding, "They [China] thought they discovered it. That's fine. Gorbachev thought he discovered the law of supply and demand. That's fine too."

Kirkpatrick then injected "the well-known human tendency to violence" into the optimistic global-economy picture.

From the board meeting...

This semester's first meeting of the Board of Trustees of William Paterson College made many strides toward improving the services and facilities offered by WPC.

Eight bid waivers were approved by the board. These waivers involve improvements of the design and layout of the food service facility in Wayne Hall. Engineering services will be provided for the design of underground utility services on College Road, for the design and improvements to the College Road intersection with Hamburg Turnpike, and for improvements to Lot #5. WPC will commission a study to develop a schematic design for a master plan of the athletic and recreational fields.

Professional services for design of renovations to White and Matelson Halls will be provided for the purpose of converting them back into dormitories.

Professional services will be provided of the interior design for the library. An outside firm will review the financial aid office.

Condoms tested for viral leakage

Popular brands found ineffective in protecting against diseases

By Cynthia Salinas

NEWS CONTRIBUTOR

A recent study of condoms shows not all offer the same degree of protection against sexually transmitted diseases (STDs).

The Mariposa Foundation of Topanga, Calif. has just completed the second of two studies in which 31 brands of condoms were tested for percentage of viral leakage.

This study was conducted as a follow-up to an earlier National Institutes of Health funded research project which suggested leakage of HIV-1 occurred in some brands of latex condoms, but not in others.

In the original study, those brands of condoms ranked highest in affording protection against STDs and HIV-1 were Mentor (1), Ramses Non-Lube (2), Ramses Sensitol (3), Gold Circle Coin (4), Gold Circle (5) and Sheik Elite (6).

Of the condom brands tested, those reporting the highest leakage rate and the lowest levels of protection against STDs and HIV-1 were Contracept

"I was never really aware that some condoms were safer than others."

- Crovatto

Plus (31), Trojan Ribbed (30), Trojan Naturalube Ribbed (29) and Lifestyles Nuda (28).

"I was never really aware that some condoms were safer than others," said Senior Laura Crovatto. "I feel safety is very, very important."

"We are not trying to say, 'Use one brand over another,'" said Frances Larose, spokesperson for the Mariposa Foundation. "We hope everyone uses a condom. It's better to use something instead of nothing."

A handful of WPC students indicated Trojans and Lifestyles as their preferred condoms.

"A lot of times you see them [Trojans and Lifestyles] when you first walk into a drug store. Also, they get passed out a lot," said senior Dave Lesh.

Currently, there are no strict standards for condom regulations. Students like junior Gaven Hadden hope that the medical field and the government can increase safety standards.

According to the foundation, "Given today's sexually transmitted disease and AIDS crisis, it is essential that government agencies and research organizations study the effectiveness of condoms in preventing the spread of infection."

"This is one of the first of these types of studies," Larose said.

The original study, conducted at the Nelson Laboratory in Salt Lake City, Utah, was initiated by Dr. Bruce Voeller.

"Condoms are placed for five minutes on a coital simulating instrument, you can imagine what that looks like, in order to place the condoms in situations similar to those during actual sex. The condom is filled five to six inches with viral suspension and tested for leaks," Larose explained.

"They are then suspended for 30 minutes in a virus-free culture-medium. The medium is tested for the virus and if it's there then they (the condoms) leaked."

The goal of the latest study was to evaluate viral leakage more fully through testing a sufficiently large number of replicate condoms to confirm or discount the earlier reported leakage of viruses occurring in some latex brands.

The Centers for Disease Control, in their August 6, 1993 Morbidity and Mortality Report, stated that "latex condoms are highly effective for preventing HIV infection and other STDs when used consistently and correctly."

UN regulations handcuff peace keeping efforts in Somalia, Bosnia peace is impossible unless Europe can control the ethnic cleansing against Bosnia Muslims, she said.

The ambiguity of peace keepers' roles in Bosnia and Somalia has led to unfortunate death, according to Kirkpatrick.

When providing "safe passage" for the Bosnian Vice Premier, French peace keepers declined to draw their guns when armed Serbians confronted them. After four hours of passive resistance by the peace keepers, the Serbians opened the door to the Vice Premier's car and shot him, Kirkpatrick said.

American peace keeper's deaths in Somalia was, in part, due to President Clinton's "lack of experience," she maintained. His agreement to help with political reconciliation in Somalia led to the American deaths because they were inadequately armed, according to Kirkpatrick.

Sending peace keepers into a conflict, is an invitation to war, Kirkpatrick said.

The former U.N. representative said that under U.N. rules of guns, peace keepers cannot draw unless their lives are in immediate danger and U.N. rules of peace engagement mandate peace keepers to have minimum armaments.

Kirkpatrick believes, "We know what works and doesn't work in keeping peace. We just have to apply it."

During President Reagan's term, Kirkpatrick was the first woman to be appointed to the United Nations and was awarded the Medal of Freedom, the nation's highest civilian honor. She is a prolific writer and a professor at Georgetown University.

Roundtable focuses on hate speech

By Kevin McQuade
NEWS CONTRIBUTOR

Last Friday, sixty students and several faculty members discussed William Paterson's reaction to Khalid Abdul Muhammad's speech last November at Kean College. The roundtable discussion, set up by the Office of Campus Activities, was part of its WORD (Workshops or Roundtable Discussion) series.

Discussion focused on a Feb. 10 memorandum from President Speert to the campus community regarding "Speech on Campus."

Moderator Dr. John Jordan, English professor, posed the question "What is the nature of hate? And is it really hate?"

Dr. Charley Flint, sociology professor, stated that because WPC is an institution of a state that recognizes bias-related crimes, the college has no right to limit an individual's speech. She also noted that there are precedents in which speech can be limited, like when a speech incites violence or rioting.

Flint discussed implications of hate speech by describing bias incidents against her on campus and an incident at the University of Pennsylvania in which black women were referred to as "water buffalo." According to Flint, in the Pennsylvania incident, it was determined not to be bias since the speaker was a non native speaker of English and meant something else than "water buffalo." WPC's Student Handbook defines what is and what is not considered bias.

All students agreed that mass media have distorted the facts of various speeches. One student noted that Muhammad's mention of "killing whites" was taken out of context of the whole speech.

Why is the previously small, relatively unknown Kean College now making international headlines in the wake of Muhammad's speech there? Jordan indicated that there is fear surrounding Muhammad, an individual to whom people respond to.

The next WORD seminar, "Self Defense," will be held at the end of March.

Many of the attackers are reportedly members of the football team. There is a history of friction between the TKEs and the football players. However, Ferriero said the incident came as a surprise.

"There hasn't been any instance this year where either organization has provoked the other. Some of the football players have even come to our parties."

According to Coach Gerald Gallager, Hurd quit the team last year and hoped to return to the team next year.

CCMC raises funds with breakfast

By Ziva Ohayon
NEWS CONTRIBUTOR

"Be a community, not individuals," a WPC alumnus told attendees Sunday at the annual WPC Catholic Campus Ministry Communion Breakfast.

Robert Shanahan Jr., 35, a lawyer with a Livingston firm, said "being raised in a traditional Roman Catholic family, I could never ask why or question my religion and beliefs. The class, 'History of Christianity,' with Fr. Lou Scurti, helped me to understand religion and supplied me with answers for all my questions."

Shanahan is also a board member of the Advisory Committee. "It is a great chance to get together and see familiar faces", and he said, concluding with a message.

The communion breakfast was started three years ago as a fundraiser for planned renovations of the Catholic Campus Ministry Center.

"It is my dream that we expand the center to include a chapel to be used by WPC students," said Scurti. "However, because we don't have a 'giving base' population, we are dependent upon the generosity of donors, benefactors and fund-raising. I want the chapel plans to be a dream come true, not a nightmare; so no ground breaking will take place until we are guaranteed the funds!"

Shanahan resides in Bedminster with his wife, Mary and son, Kevin. He was graduated WPC in 1981 with a B.A. in history.

The communion breakfast committee also included Jean Remsen Maloney, Chairperson;

Scurti and Sr. Mary Farrell, co-chairs; alumna Danielle Bodino; Kathy Walter, Catholic Ministry club President; Tom Di Micelli, retired WPC Administrator; Peggy Thompson, Marie Vivino, Barbara Eberly, and Mary Daly, WPC staff members; and Wayne LeClair, President, Dunkin' Donuts, Haledon.

Police Blotter: Feb. 13 to Feb. 18

Breaking and Entering:

- On Sunday, Feb. 13th, police received a report that someone had broken into an office in Ben Shahn. An inside office door had been forced open but there was no report of anything stolen.

Thefts:

- A female student reported to police that on Sunday afternoon, Feb. 13th, that she had her bookbag and contents stolen after she left them unattended for 15 minutes. Value of bag and contents is $149.

- On Monday, Feb. 14th, a faculty member reported the theft of a brief case and contents stolen from an unlocked office within a period of one-half hour. Values set at $150.

Grand Theft Auto:

- On Thursday, Feb. 17th, a female student reported the theft of her 1987 Mazda, color red, from Lot #6. Theft took place between the hours of 9 a.m. and 3:15 p.m. A teletype alarm was broadcast for the vehicle.

- At 4:11 p.m., Friday, Feb. 18th, a male student reported that he had parked his 1985 Pontiac Sunbird, color blue, in the Lot #5 on Sunday, Feb. 13th. When he returned on the 18th, he found that it had been stolen. A teletype alarm was issued for the vehicle.

Miscellaneous:

- On the evening of Wednesday, Feb. 16th, at 11:20 p.m., campus police received a telephone call from a neighboring police department that they had 2 female students, one a juvenile, who told them that at about 6:30 p.m. they had been forcefully abducted from the campus by 3 or 4 males and driven around in a car for about 5 hours and at various times kicked and punched about the body. Chief Peter Ryerson and Det. Russ Stengel responded to telephone calls to their houses and worked throughout the night and the following day along with other members of the department. The investigation was continued and in the late afternoon of the 17th the 2 female students recanted their story and said they had concocted the story because they had missed a mandatory class.

They were both arrested and charged with False Reporting to Law Enforcement authorities. The female juvenile will have the case heard in the Passaic County Superior Court and the adult female in Wayne Municipal Court.

"WHERE CAN YOU GET GREAT PAY AND TUITION REIMBURSEMENT?"

"Working part-time at UPS! Their tuition reimbursement plan pays most of my tuition every semester. And, as if that weren't enough, I can borrow up to $25,000 per year for college."

"Did I mention my salary? How's almost $10,000 a year for working about 4 hours a day, 5 days a week! Most of the jobs are in Operations. But there are students working in Accounting, Industrial Engineering, Information Services and Customer Service, too."

"You need money for school? UPS has got it. You need money for you? Ditto. There isn't another company anywhere that pays more now or invests more in your future. But that's how UPS does things."

The Anatomy of the Citibank Classic card: a body of services and peace of mind for students, now with No Annual Fee.

For years, scientists could only theorize about the Citibank Classic Visa® card, unable to actually observe anything below its epidermal surface (i.e. the plastic). Surely the highly intelligent services were evidence of an advanced brain. But with the latest advances in x-ray technology, and when the light could catch the various parts just so, it was confirmed: the Scientists theorize that the mind of the Citibank Classic Visa cardmember (Fig. A) is secure because it receives superior service; the mind of the non-Citibank Classic Visa cardmember (Fig. B) is not secure because—could it be?—it has a screw loose?

Citibank Classic Visa card is head to toe more evolved than ever imagined. ¶ At its backbone are 3 services to cover the purchases you make on the card. Starting at the Lower Costal Spine, we see Citibank Price Protection can assure you of the best price. All you have to do is discover the same item advertised in print for less, within 60 days, and Citibank will refund the difference up to $150¹. Along the Oops-It-Slipped Disc, Buyers Security™ can cover those purchases against accidental damage, fire or theft, for 90 days from the date of purchase¹; and Citibank Lifetime Warranty™ allows one to extend the warranty for the expected service life of eligible products up to 12 years². So if you ever buy a walkman, a stereo, whatever, it will be reassuring to know that Citibank can bend and be flexible while still lending support. ¶ The backbone is then connected to the cranium or headbone. Look at the bottom of the page. The Citibank Photocard has the head of the cardholder, as well as his or her own signature, right on the front. That way, it will help prevent fraud. It will also make a good form of ID, since you get to choose your own photo. ¶ But what about the Nervous System? The fact is, it doesn't have one, not in the spinal cord nor in the brain. What it has is the Very Calm System. Because even if your credit card gets stolen, or gets lost, an involuntary muscle called the Extendus Anewcardeus activates the Lost Wallet™ Service which can replace your card usually within 24 hours. ¶ As suspected, there's another involuntary muscle: the heart—a beating and caring heart, big enough to give students special discounts and savings. You'll receive a $20 Airfare Discount on domestic flights³, savings on mail order purchases, sports equipment, magazines and music; a low variable interest rate of 15.4%⁴; and, No Annual Fee. (In other words, the card itself doesn't cost a forelimb and a hindlimb.) ¶ Naturally the heart of the Citibank Visa card pumps life and personalized customer service into all its parts, 24 hours a day. So no matter what the question you might have concerning your card, you need only call the 800 number. You'll find Citibank has a neck they are eager to stick out for you. They will always lend an ear. Or a hand. They will keep an eye out for you. They will put their best foot forward. Etc. ¶ So call to apply. You don't need a job or a cosigner.

And call if you'd like your photo added to your regular Citibank Classic Visa card. The number is 1-800-CITIBANK (1-800-248-4226), extension 19. ¶ If we take an overview of the whole body of services that make up the Citibank Classic Visa card, and consider that it will facilitate building a credit history, then you must shake a leg, flex your index finger and call today.

EDITORIAL

Adjuncts: No experience necessary?

Part-time paradise - this could be a legitimate advertisement for WPC's teacher recruitment ads or for the course catalogue. WPC employs a large number of adjuncts, in fact, we are second only to Kean in our use of adjuncts.

The question is: Are these people qualified to teach?

According to the department of Higher Education, in the Fall 92 semester WPC used 338 adjuncts who taught 34.6 percent of the courses offered.

In some departments as much as 50 percent of the courses are taught by adjuncts.

For example, the communication department teaches 104 sections (not including 9 graduate courses), but they only have 14 full-time faculty. With each one of those professors teaching four sections that's only 56 sections. What about the other 48 sections? Adjuncts.

The Communication department has 22 of them teaching everything from T.V. production to basic journalism.

The music department employs 45 adjuncts, in fact, there is not a single department on campus that does not employ adjuncts. Many of the basic courses on campus are taught by adjuncts.

18 percent of the adjuncts at WPC have either a Bachelors degree or NO degree at all. That is 60 section taught by adjuncts with not much more education than their students.

To teach on a high school level, teachers must have a minimum of a bachelors degree and teaching certification but to teach college classes you don't need either.

Adjuncts may be knowledgeable in their field, but some have no idea of how to present that knowledge to students.

Shouldn't adjuncts have to at least go through a four week teacher training course?

Their teaching skills are not the only problem. There is also a problem with teacher availability. Many adjuncts have only one office hour a week and some have none at all. How are students supposed to learn from people they can't even find?

Using so many adjuncts is not rare, it is the new wave of higher education.

The reason for so many adjuncts is that they are simply cheaper than full time professors and with more budget cuts, we can expect more adjuncts.

At $1,200 a semester per course these are teachers at bargain basement prices, whether they know how to teach or not!

I showed my students the recent front page newspaper articles about the announced slashing of college budgets. I asked for reactions and, of course, got none. I am retiring from my teaching position in May of 1994, but not from my concern with higher education in New Jersey.

A few facts are worth knowing. For most of my thirty years of teaching in New Jersey, this state held the record for having one of the lowest higher education budgets in the nation. With pressure from teachers and students, there was some improvement in this situation in the last decade. We are one of the richest states in the union. There are over 400 international and national corporate headquarters in New Jersey. We have a population of seven million. There is one, yes only one public state university, Rutgers. Many New Jersey students must enroll in private or out-of-state colleges and universities in order to obtain necessary degrees. It is a time for change and innovation. Here is one suggestion.

William Paterson, Ramapo and Montclair colleges should incorporate into the University of Northern New Jersey. The politicians, if they are not brain dead, should welcome such an innovation. It would create another New Jersey public university system, provide a better education for students and save taxpayers millions of dollars.

Instead of three college presidents, there would be only one, University of Northern New Jersey. Students, who are already demographically dispersed over the counties that service these three colleges, could simply attend the necessary classes at whatever campus is nearest their home. With the incorporation of courses from the three faculties, students would have an enriched listing of course offerings. For example, if micro-economics was not offered or closed at WPC, they could take it at the Ramapo or Montclair campus.

The faculty should welcome such an innovation. The combined faculties of the new three-campus university would be much more powerful. If university status could be arranged, many faculty members could teach at the graduate level.

Will this happen? I would guess the answer is no!!! Why not? As a notable American poet recently wrote, "American society seems to be like a dying frog hooked up to an electrical wire." We see problems, and inject a jolt of electricity. The frog is energized for a moment and then dies. We are also called a band-aid society. Instead of controlling the injury, we simply apply band-aids.

Solving the problems of New Jersey's higher education system needs major surgery. There is a need for innovative change. Students, faculty and administrators should be involved in such planning. I fear that the next headline will read, "New Jersey State Legislature Cuts Millions from Higher Education Budget." What will you do then?

AIDS education is a necessity at WPC

By Yoni Greenbaum

COLUMNIST

What are we at William Paterson College are doing about AIDS? How educated a community do we have when it comes to dealing with an HIV infected and/or affected population?

Sadly, the answers I found myself arriving at were not encouraging. Yes, there have been high points. We did have screenings in September of the original HBO movie And the Band Played On, based on the best selling book by Randy Shilts, about the history of the AIDS epidemic. These screenings were followed by a panel on "AIDS Education and the Mass Media."

We also observed World AIDS Day on December 1, with a range of programs that received media recognition statewide and there will be AIDS testing again this April. Sadly, though the list does not go much further.

What is the college itself doing about permanent AIDS programming and education one may ask? We do have an AIDS Awareness Committee, a dedicated and concerned group of faculty, students and staff who meet monthly and try to work without a budget or official recognition.

What programs do we have for HIV/AIDS infected students, faculty and staff? "Sadly," an administrative representative told me "we handle them on a case by case basis." Sadly indeed! How prepared are we if the only preparation we are doing is on a case by case basis.

With Passaic County one of the hardest hit areas in the nation by AIDS and our heterosexual age-group one of the fastest growing groups affected by AIDS, how much longer can we expect case-by-case management to be enough.

As for those who say "What about our AIDS/HIV policy?" The college is to be commended because it was one of the first colleges in the nation to develop such a policy. However, this policy, created in 1986, recommends to those infected that they tell as few individuals as possible about their status? What benefit does this have for people who may already feel isolated and alone? What about the faculty or staff member who is caring for a child, family member or friend who may be sick from AIDS related conditions? What are we doing for them? Where are we offering them to turn?

What about education and prevention? Are we training our resident directors, faculty and staff members for dealing with possible HIV infected students?

As for safe-sex, how many members of our community fully understand what it is and what it includes? Where else on campus but the bookstore can students purchase or obtain condoms? Where can they find water-based lubricants, or dental dams? Where can they comfortably turn for advice?

These are pressing issues. AIDS is infecting and affecting the best and the brightest of our generation. For those who think it has not hit our community at WPC, they are wrong. If we haven't been touched yet, the figures say, we will be.

Recently, a small group of faculty and students gathered to create a number of videos about AIDS related issues.

One video would be of the panel held in September; another would be a retrospective of the events that occurred on campus on World AIDS Day and the last would be the talk given by Dr. William Darrow of the Centers for Disease Control about prevention of AIDS and sexually transmitted diseases (one of the only three talks he gives yearly).

These videos, when completed, would be available not only to WPC students, faculty and staff but to schools, libraries and individuals statewide. They could be used for both education and awareness purposes and would show how committed we at WPC are towards educating members of our community about this epidemic. These videos could be a step in the right direction.

All three videos could be completed for under $4,000. Who would fund this project was the next question.

Approaching the college itself, was out of the question; the AIDS Awareness Committee had already spent $500 out of $1,000 they had received from an off campus consortium. Where else could the money be gotten from? A decision was made to approach the Student Government Association. An initial request for $2,500 was deemed too expensive at this point in the school year. Discussion about possible involvement continued, although at times conversations were confused and the issues muddled.

The Executive Board of the SGA led by President Danny Cimmino, saw the importance of the issue and pledged $1,250 toward the completion of this project. In doing so, the SGA set itself as an example for the rest of the campus community to follow.

There is still a remaining balance of $2,750 left to find for this project but discussions are underway with SAPB and Greek Senate.

The final cost of this project breaks down to as little as 20 cents per student. Considering how much is spent on other things, I would like to think that 20 cents is not too much to spend on AIDS awareness and education.

I'm sure that eventually funding will be found, but remember, this is only one project dealing with AIDS. As for the rest, the others that haven't been developed, I guess I'm back to my original question....

Are we at William Paterson College doing enough about AIDS?

Thief asked to come forward

On Tuesday morning at 7:50 a.m. the campus police received a complaint from a female student. This person keeps a motorized wheel chair in an office in the student lounge. The chair is charged via a charger that is plugged into the chair. This charger is black in color and measures 12 by 8 by 8. The power cord is grey in color with four clips on the end. The face of the charger has an amp meter and also has red and yellow dials. There is no use for this unit other than charging this wheel chair.

I have been in law enforcement as a municipal police officer, retired as a captain of detectives, since 1955. I have more respect for someone who holds up liquor stores than I do the mutant low life that stole this unit from this young woman.

I would request that anyone who has any type of information on this theft contact me or any other police officer. Anonymous telephone calls with no strings attached will greatly appreciate.

If the person who took it wishes to return it, a telephone call or a note to either the police or The Beacon would help.

Thanking you in advance, I remain,

Sincerely, Robert J. Gordon

We are angry. Angry that at this school

COLGAF flyers are torn down. Angry that someone wrote, "a good club to belong to" under "COLGAF" on the sign on our office door (which we scribbled out). Angry that students have to be afraid to attend our meetings for fear of abuse and ridicule. Angry that people will not attend dances sponsored by COLGAF for fear of being labeled. Angry that attendance at programs in the residence halls on homosexuality is so low it's deplorable. And now, we have a new item about which to be angry. We are angry that someone defaced the sign on the door of our office, yet again. This, my friends, makes us ANGRY!

Our organization, COLGAF, is not going to hide or go away. We don't care how many times we have to replace that sign or post more flyers. Get used to it, get over it. COLGAF is open to everyone, regardless of sexual orientation. And we out number the bigots around here, too.

Blackmun opposes death penalty for practical reasons

By Gerald R. Brennan Esq.
SGA ATTORNEY

A recent bill introduced in the U.S. Senate adds the death penalty to 50 crimes. According to some polls, public support for the death penalty is measured at 75 percent. Late last month, however, in the wake of this political tidal wave, one lone voice condemning the death penalty emanated from the halls of the U.S. Supreme Court. That voice belonged to Justice Harry A. Blackmun.

The case before the court was an apparently routine capital punishment appeal. Bruce E. Callins was convicted of a barroom robbery and shooting in Texas. He was sentenced to death and his last appeal was to the U.S. Supreme Court, which decided not to hear the case, thereby affirming the death sentence.

Justice Blackmun was appointed to the court by President Nixon in 1970. Prior to that he sat on the U.S. Court of Appeals and had been in house counsel to the Mayo Foundation and Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minnesota.

In 1972 he dissented in the case of Furman v.

Georgia in which the Court declared death penalty statutes unconstitutional then, in effect, because the laws were prone to arbitrary and discriminatory application.

Unlike Justices William Brennan and Thurgood Marshall, who oppose the death penalty on moral grounds, Justice Blackmun felt the death penalty could be imposed fairly.

Over the years, Justice Blackmun joined in court opinions which tried to eliminate subjectivity from the imposition of the death penalty.

In his dissent in the Callins case, however, Justice Blackmun said that despite the best efforts of the Court, the arbitrariness of the system had not been eradicated. Rather he opined that inconsistency, subjectivity and racism still plagued the death penalty.

For Justice Blackmun, his decision was compelled by practicality. He said it was time "to concede that the death penalty experiment has failed."

Justice Blackmun's opinion was compelling because it is so unusual for a justice to issue such a personal and emotional statement in a so-called "routine" procedural rejection of an appeal.

Justice Blackmun's background only highlights the dramatic effect of his dissent. He had been appointed by a conservative president to be a strict constructionist, not a social activist. He had consistently voted to uphold the death penalty. But perhaps there is more than a touch of philosophical irony in that it was Justice Blackmun who in 1972 authored the opinion in Roe v. Wade upholding a woman's right to abortion.

Here in our own state, the death penalty has gained new momentum. According to the Bergen Record of February 27, 1994, there have been no execution in the 12 years since New Jersey enacted its current death penalty statute. Our state supreme court has reversed 31 out of 34 death verdicts which it has reviewed. This has led to the introduction of a measure in our state senate to suspend the state constitution in death penalty cases.

Justice Blackmun is probably going to retire soon. But after 24 years on the bench, he has looked into the face of the death penalty and concluded it just cannot be meted out fairly. Perhaps, before our legislators rush to the political siren call of the death penalty they should try to look at it through the eyes of Justice Blackmun.

Softball returns key players ingredient that can accomplish the ultimate goal of a national title. This year's team demonstrates that important element as the Lady Pioneers, who notched a 25-15 overall record and 2-6 in the New Jersey Athletic Conference last year, prepare for the 1994 season as one of the clear favorites to take it all.

"We have a lot back," stated Coach Gramlich-Covello, who enters her 22nd season at the helm with 307 career wins. "That'll be the key. Their leadership on and off the field will be there. I have a lot of confidence in them. They're a nice working group, who've been practicing real hard."

This season, WPC will rely on the arm of sophomore All-American candidate Dana Napoli. The right-hander had a sensational freshman year with a 14-5 record and an incredible 1.79 ERA, including 62 strikeouts, four shutouts, and 17 complete games. Napoli will be man. Shortstop duties will be handled by sophomore Karen Cecere, who batted .333 last year. Ryan and Cecere displayed tremendous athleticism as they played volleyball and field hockey, respectively, last fall for WPC.

share time at third base.

With this key blend of experienced players and a winning coach, prospects for a fifth consecutive trip to the NCAA playoffs and a seventh straight 20-win season look promising. A national championship would be a nice addition to those streaks.

"We have enough of the returning players to keep it all in sync and intact," Coach Gramlich-Covello said. "I think it's going to be anybody's game (to capture the national title). If we get the hits at the right time, I think we can beat any team in our conference. I can't wait to see them play. They know what it's all about."

Cathy Burke

"We have a lot back," - Gramlich-Covello

the main player on the mound for the Lady Pioneers.

"She's going to be the one," Coach Gramlich-Covello said about Napoli's role on the team. "She plays with heart and soul. The game is important to her and she plays that way. I always felt she can come in and do the job. I think she'll do just fine."

On the diamond, WPC will platoon returning junior Kerry Ludeking and senior Terry Ryan at first base. Senior Sharon Suits, who was a defensive gem last season, will return as the team's second base-country: junior right fielder Cathy Burke, junior center fielder Danielle Leitner and senior left fielder Dina Desimini. The trio was a force offensively last season. Desimini was second on the club in hitting (.410) and led in runs scored (40) and home runs (three). Leitner batted a respectable .360 (third on the team), while collecting 45 hits. Burke had 24 runs batted in and a .333 batting average.

Junior Amy Morris, who played in 11 games last season, will be the starting catcher, while freshman Dawn Finer and junior Andrea Arena will catchers Manny Perez (Jr.) and Kelbin Frias (Soph.) return from last season's NJAC regular season and tournament championship team.

Senior left-hander Tim Vinges and senior right-handers Sandy Christian and Jason Casamento, who were significant members of the national championship team, will spearhead the pitching staff. Sophomore Bill Zabolka, junior John Sangis, and Ramagli will also see time on the mound.

"We'll be right there," Coach Albies declared about the team's chances for a second national title. "We'll be in the hunt. The expectation is to get beyond the (NCAA) regionals. If we play to our potential, everything will take care of itself. I think we're going to be pretty exciting. We're going to put on a show for many people. We should be fine."

The Madness has arrived

March is here! Time to grab your partner and head over to the "Big Dance." But before our couples two-step in to Charlotte, N.C., they must warm up during rehearsal week. A week, which for some, may mean the difference between being considered a No. 1 or No. 3 seed. While for others, conference championship week might just burst their bubbles and send them NIT-picking over to Madison Square Garden.

Sixty-four teams, 63 games, heartaches, buzzer beaters, and upsets will certainly make this March memorable. But only one champion will stand after three weeks of the most maddening basketball you will ever see. So for all you college basketball enthusiasts who are anxiously waiting for the office pool to start, here is your official guide to March Madness:

The Regulars- Mike Krzyzewski and Dean Smith are perennial regulars at the top and will have Duke and North Carolina there once again. Michigan is now the Fab-4, sans Chris Webber, but the potential for Wolverine greatness still exists. Jalen Rose has proven he can play at the next level, and Steve Fisher is a regular at the Final Four. Arkansas has the deepest bench, utilizing 11 players. They might be young, but Scottie Thurman and Corliss Williamson can flat out play.

A Notch Below- Kentucky, which came back from a 31-point deficit against LSU to beat the Tigers, is a constant threat to shoot the lights out. Expect Rick Pitino to have his 'Cats ready to run. Purdue and Connecticut are surprise newcomers to the Top 10. With lottery talent like Donyell Marshall and Glenn Robinson, who can question their rankings?

the top of the heap in the talent category. But until Lute Olsen, Jim Boeheim, and Norm Stewart stop chocking on their early round meals, all three teams are merely "pretenders" to the throne.

Newcomers- Who can name the starting five for either St. Louis, Marquette, UAB, or Pennsylvania? No one. These starters, but this less-publicized Fab-4 will underachieve.

Sleepers- Jason Kidd is a "man" on the college level and might make the jump to the NBA after this season. But for now, Kidd will have California napping outside the door of the big boys. Eric Montross gets all the clippings, but the best true center in the nation is "Big Country" Bryant Reeves of Oklahoma St. If he gets hot, the Cowboys could snooze to Charlotte. Lonkrueger is an underrated coach and could bring Florida to the promise land.

Longshots- Georgia Tech and Wake Forest have beaten Duke and North Carolina this year. But in order for these teams to cause serious damage, Travis Best and Randolph Childress must lead their respective teams flawlessly. Othella Harrington is the smoothest big man in the country, but unless John Thompson can find a perimeter shooter, Georgetown will exit early.

Prediction- Smith is the most overrated coach in the history of college basketball (I could win with his talent) and, right now, North Carolina is struggling. Therefore, I expect a three-legged race for the championship: Duke, Michigan, and Arkansas will vie for the crown, with Louisville and UCLA making strong runs.

Beyond the box score with Damon DeSenzo

Louisville coach Denny Crum may take the Cardinals deep into the post-season with Clifford Rozier. These teams are definitely a lock for the Sweet 16.

Possible Contenders- UMass coach John Calipari and Kansas coach Roy Williams are two of the hottest commodities in college basketball. Both have a good shot at bringing home their first national championship. Ed and Charles O'Bannon will have to push their sibling rivalry aside to allow UCLA coach Jim Harrick a shot at the title.

Probable Pretenders- Year in and year out, Arizona, Syracuse, and Missouri are at programs have achieved new found success. But, it's easy to see why these top 25 novices will not make a serious run at the championship.

Not this year- John Cheaney has Temple more ready to kill than win. Bobby Knight has a better shot at winning best supporting actor for his role in Blue Chips, than leading Indiana to the Final Four. Veshon Leonard is a prolific scorer, but Minnesota doesn't have enough. Boston College has four four-year

Egg Donors Are Needed

The Diamond Institute is Looking For A Few Very Special Women.

In the past few years a process called "Donor Egg" has made the miracle of pregnancy and having a much wanted baby possible for thousands of couples who were formerly considered "infertile". The procedure involves taking an egg from a female donor, fertilizing it "in vitro" (out of the body) with sperm taken from the husband, and implanting the resulting embryo into the uterus of the woman trying to become pregnant. We are seeking women of all ethnic & racial backgrounds between the ages of 20 to 34.

Your Donated Eggs Can Help Create the Miracle of Life for Couples Who Couldn't Otherwise Conceive.

Donors Will be Paid $2000 Per Procedure

Lady Pioneers ousted

WPC ripped by Scranton, 80-63, in first game of NCAAs

By Jeremy Singer
STAFF WRITER

The WPC women's basketball team was eliminated from the NCAA Division III tournament in the first round by the University of Scranton, 80-63, last Saturday in Scranton, Pa.

The Lady Pioneers finished their successful season with a 23-4 overall record.

"All week, I told our guys that Scranton runs," Head Coach Erin Shaughnessy said. "They did run, and they ran well against us. They were dictating that it was their game, and we should have been dictating that it was our game."

Scranton (26-2) broke the game wide open as it extended a 24-23 lead by going on a 15-2 run over an eight-minute span for a commanding 39-25 lead.

The Lady Royals' defense limited the Pioneers to just one field goal in that stretch, forcing WPC to take tough outside shots.

"Our outside shots weren't going in, and it got to a point where we couldn't get the ball inside," Coach Shaughnessy stated.

Scranton took a 47-32 halftime lead. The Lady Royals shot 55 percent from the field, while holding WPC to a dismal 38 percent field-goal shooting.

The Lady Royals held a 27-point advantage, their biggest lead in the game. But the Lady Pioneers were able to tame Scranton and cut the deficit to 17 by game's end.

"When there was about 10 minutes left in the game, and their running game was wearing us down, I knew we weren't going to come back," Coach Shaughnessy said. "We weren't going to bow down to them. I have to give our team credit for playing until the buzzer."

WPC junior guard Maureen Marz was the only

Lady Pioneer to score in double figures as she scored 21 points.

The Lady Pioneers also had foul trouble. Junior guard Alison Vetterl committed three personal fouls in the first half, limiting her playing time in the second half. Marz and Lakeisha Williams each fouled out.

"Mike Strong (Scranton head coach) was subbing people in and out, so he always had fresh legs in there," Coach Shaughnessy remarked. "I was trying to keep it to a half court game, but it wasn't working."

"There are different types of athletes on that team who can run a fast-break game," Coach Shaughnessy added. "We can't do that."

Notes:

WPC's 23-4 record marks its best record since 1973-74. Rowan was eliminated from the NCAA tournament by Upsala, dropping its first game of the season. The Lady Profs finished at 25-1.... Senior Jen Brown finished her career by scoring eight points.

WPC forward Jen Brown (22) uncorks shot between Ramapo defenders earlier this season.

Softball seeks first national crown

By Joe Ragozzino
SPORTS EDITOR

Winning seasons are customary for the WPC softball program. Head Coach Cyndi Gramlich-Covello and her squads have consistently posted 20-win campaigns and bids to the NCAA Division III tournament.

However, one thing is missing in the program's impressive track record: a national championship.

icans, the conference championships, trips to the NCAA tournament and World Series, and, of course, the 1992 national championship have brought the program to a level of excellence.

The graduation of key starters from last season's 34-10 (14-2 New Jersey Athletic Conference) Pioneer team would have been a concern for Head Coach Jeff Albies heading into the 1994 season. But this year's team is reloaded with highly-touted transfers who will contribute to the WPC pattern of success.

Coach Albies has brought in junior transfers Bill Belenger (Lyndhurst, shortstop), Dave Connolly (Lyndhurst, second baseman), and Jeff Gensheimer (Mahwah, designated hitter) to fill major voids in the lineup. Junior pitcher Matt Ramagli (Emerson) adds depth to a solid pitching corps.

"I don't think we're going to miss a step," Coach Albies said. "The prospects of replacing starters are difficult. (But) they're [transfers] legitimate baseball players. We lost a lot, but we brought some good guys. Based on what we saw in the fall, I'm very optimistic. We're waiting for the bell to ring."

Heading the list of returnees is senior center fielder Mike Lauterhahn, who led the team in hitting (.395), total hits (62), and stolen bases (20) en route to All-NJAC honors last season. Junior right fielder Eddie Mitchell provides power at the plate, while sophomores Brian Kelly and Simon Wibury will share time in left field.

Senior first baseman John D'Addetta, sophomore third baseman Paul Bumbaco, and
