

Juniors Select Del Davis' Orchestra For Prom, Dec. 12

President Buller Announces Committees; Bids on Sale Now at $2.75; Yountakah Country Club Chosen

The Junior Class Orchestra Committee has selected Del Davis' Orchestra to play at their Junior Prom, Friday evening, Dec. 12, at Yountakah Country Club, Nutley.

After much consideration, the Orchestra Committee picked Del Davis to play for their Junior Prom. Del Davis is very well known in North Jersey, for his services are very much sought after. The Junior Class requests the support of all classes in helping to make their last affair at school a success. The class has a very fine reputation for social affairs for their Freshman Frolic and Sophomore Hop were great successes. The class has gone all out in their endeavor to make this formal dance a great success and to leave behind a mark to be bettered.

All members of the college should be intensely interested for this is also the first formal of the year, one of the two really big affairs of the season.

President Announces Committees

John Buller, president of the Junior Class, has announced the members of the class who will work on committees that are planning the dance.

The place committee consists of Jennie Casey, chairman; George Reilley, Dorothea Bundy, Alice Pasinska, Evelyn Foote, Beatrice Hart, and Patricia Reid. Ernest Meuller is chairman of the bid committee. Members of the committee are Jane Christopher, Rose Urato, Betty Lamond, Sam Berliner, and Rose Edelman.

Victor Christie, chairman of the orchestra committee, is being assisted by Lillian Johnson, Helene Beam, Ruth Stoffer, and Marion Peck. The publicity for the affair is being taken care of by Malcolm Briethaupt, Dave Ebner, and Frances Tacionis.

Large Attendance Expected

The class is confident that this event will be as successful an affair as the Prom held last year by the Class of '42. The Prom last year was a dinner-dance held at

Teachers Attend State Convention

Addressed by Mr. Lindeman And Governor Edison

The eighty-seventh annual convention of the New Jersey Educational Association was held at Atlantic City over the week-end of November 8. At this time representatives of every educational organization in the state of New Jersey met to attend many excellent programs. Among the highlights of this year's convention were the following:

Outstanding speeches on current topics were given by Mr. Lindeman and Governor Edison.

Wythe Williams, well known radio personality of the program "When the Clock Strikes," spoke on current events.

At the banquet on Saturday evening the annual award for the outstanding contribution in the field of education in the state was presented to Mr. W. B. Patrick, superintendent of schools in Orange.

On Sunday afternoon the New Jersey All-State Orchestra and Chorus, composed of four hundred, presented a program of music.

Many worthwhile commercial exhibits displayed new ideas in materials, art techniques, school books, etc.

Paterson State was represented at the convention by the following faculty members: Doctors Clair Wightman, Edith Shannon, Kenneth B. White; Misses Christie Jeffries, Marguerite Tiffany, Alice Mihleis, Edith Jackson; Messrs. Tunis Baker and Gordon Matthews.

Federal Orchestra Plays Here Dec. 3

Next Wednesday, December 3, students and faculty of Paterson State will have the opportunity to enjoy some fine cultural music played by the Federal Symphony Orchestra of Newark. This seventy piece orchestra, which has given concerts throughout the summer at the Newark Stadium, has arranged an interesting program for the students.

The program consists of: "Prelude" from the third act of "Lohengrin"; "Dance of the Flutes," and "Waltz of the Flowers" from the "Nutcracker Suite"; "Andante Cantabile," second movement from Tchaikovsky's "Fifth Symphony"; "Headless Horseman" by Frinkaus; "Prayer" from "Hansel and Gretel" by Humperdinck; "American Fantasy" by Victor Herbert.

This program has been arranged so that the students of Paterson State may further cultivate an appreciation for the fine arts.

Mr. Cressey Is New Sociology Teacher

Has Done Much Social Work In Various Parts of Country

Because Miss Jackson has taken on some additional administrative work, it was necessary to relinquish her sociology class to Mr. Paul G. Cressey.

Mr. Cressey is from Montclair, and for a number of years he has taught sociology at New York University and Montclair State Teachers College. Mr. Cressey attended Oberlin College where he received his B. S. degree. After this he went to Chicago University from which he received his master's degree in sociology. At present he is completing research work for his Ph.D. in this same field at N. Y. U.

Although he has been teaching for nineteen years, Mr. Cressey has done a great deal of social work. During the summer of 1923-1924 he was a resident at the Hull House in Chicago, the famous settlement house founded by Jane Addams. After this he held the position of Boys' Case Worker for the Juvenile Protective Association of Chicago. At present Mr. Cressey is doing some investigation on the effect moving pictures have upon children.

As for hobbies, Mr. Cressey enjoys driving his car, going to shows, and reading. His chief interests are concerned with juvenile delinquency, criminology and urban sociology. And his most noticeable characteristics are a friendly manner and a grand sense of humor.

1941-42 Edition of 'Who's Who' Lists Eleven P. S. T. C. Students

Outstanding Students From 550 Colleges and Universities Listed; Nine Seniors, Two Juniors From Paterson State Have Been Given Honor in Publication

Eleven students of Paterson State will have their biographies included in the 1941-42 edition of "Who's Who Among Students In American Universities and Colleges." This volume which is made up of the biographies of outstanding students from approximately five hundred fifty colleges is published annually.

Seniors elected this year are Loretta Driscoll, Jack Madrigan, Dolores Meulener, Margaret Patterson, Pamela Tustin and Joyce Whetham. Other seniors who were also chosen during their junior year include Barbara Stouter, Sylvia Blut and Barbara Wilder. From this year's junior class Ruth Florence and Louise Farscher were so honored.

Qualifications

In order to be elected, a student must be considered an asset to his college and be outstanding in such qualities as character, leadership, scholarship and potentialities of future usefulness to society.

"Who's Who" serves as an incentive for students to derive the fullest benefit from college life, as a compensation for student achievements, and as a recommendation of college students to the business world, for annually these books are sent to hundreds of business organizations.

Loretta Driscoll

Loretta Driscoll is president of the Student Council and a member of the inter-class basketball team. Formerly she was president of the Psychology Club, a member of the winning inter-class debating team, president of Girls' Sports Club and since freshman year an outstanding player on the girls' basketball team.

Jack Madrigan

Jack Madrigan who is employed by the Wright Aeronautical Corporation while working for his degree at college, is president of the Senior Class. Formerly he was a member of the winning inter-class debating team, Student Government Association, Assembly Committee and participant in operettas.

Sculptor Addresses State Art Club

On November 17, Gaetano Federici, a well-known sculptor, lectured to the Art Club, and then further entranced the group by displaying his ability.

As lightly as the ordinary person holds a pen or pencil, Mr. Federici went about changing a smooth piece of marble into a cameo-like figure. As he used the various tools he explained the reasons, so that we now have quite a few who know a few more of the why's and wherefore's of sculpturing.

Mr. Federici used only hand tools, stating that he preferred these since machine-operated tools ruin the finish of marble. Machines, by destroying the beautiful luster which for so many years has made marble interesting and unique, have given it a bad name.

Thanksgiving Feast Proves Big Success

Plenty of Food, Cheers and Songs Enjoyed By All Who Attended

Amidst a "gobble gobble here," and a "gobble gobble there" the annual Thanksgiving dinner started on its merry way. Through the tireless efforts of the committee, the cafeteria was transformed into a festive banquet hall with gayly colored streamers, pumpkins, turkeys, and quackers.

As soon as the gates were opened the hungry Staters (I'll bet they fasted the day before) filled the cafeteria with shouts of "Bring on the turkey," "When do we eat?" etc. Shouts of welcome were heard echoing back and forth between the out-going and in-coming seniors.

Then when all was peaceful and quiet, a choir of mixed voices joined in a song of prayer. Following this, a group of lively waitresses hustled to and fro with platters of delectable, delicious turkey. And what a grand job they did!

Ah! but no banquet is complete without cheers, so the jolly Staters raised their voices in hearty appreciation for the splendid dinner arranged by Miss Jackson with the assistance of co-chairman Mary Williams and Lib Pardy.

The merrymaking was continued with old time songs in which the entire group made good use of their vocal chords. Maestro Earl Weidner had the folks in a dither with nursery rhymes, "Old MacDonald's Farm," and the very apropos "Someone's in the Kitchen With Dina." And when all was over, the happy collegiates made their way homeward with many thoughts of another merry Thanksgiving dinner to be stored away in their college memories.

"In the commerce of speech use only coin of gold and silver."—Joubert

Vol. 6 Monday, December 1, 1941 No. 5

WHO'S WHO

Nine years ago, a Mr. H. P. Randall and his assistants started work on an idea which would give a national means of recognition to honor students without involving them in politics, fees, or dues.

After two years of preparation the first edition of "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges" was published. It included biographies of students from all over the country who had excelled in extra-curricular activities.

Junior and senior students from more than 550 colleges and universities are chosen each year. In Paterson State the Who's Who committee consists of faculty members who select students who fulfill four definite characteristics. The student's character with his reputation among the students as well as his record, his leadership in extra-curricular activities of an athletic, social, religious, or political nature, his scholarship, which is however a minor point, and his future potentialities in business and society are qualities considered in potential candidates.

Election to Who's Who serves as an incentive for students to get the most out of their college careers; it compensates them for what they have already accomplished, and it serves as a cross-section of outstanding college students which is used when selections are made of Rhodes Scholarship winners and elections are made to Phi Beta Kappa and like honorary organizations.

Feeling that outstanding trained men and women are what they need, more than five hundred companies and businesses consult Who's Who when they are selecting their employees.

State's committee chooses about ten candidates each year. It is an honor well worth striving for, but it is an honor that once accomplished must be lived up to.

Eleven candidates from State were elected to Who's Who in 1941. They are Louise Farcher, Ruth Florence, Betty Driscoll, Sylvia Blut, Margaret Patterson, Dolores Meulener, Joyce Whetham, Barbara Stouter, Barbara Wilder, Pamela Tustin, and Jack Madrigan.

Are you going to the Junior Prom? We hope your answer is "Yes"! This year the enrollment of State along with other American colleges has dropped considerably. In order that the fine social program we have had for many years may continue we must all support all school activities of this nature.

Last year a fine crowd attended the Junior Prom. Let us all support the Juniors and make the Prom on December 12 a social event long to be remembered.

THE TALE OF A TIME SAVER'S TROTH

by RUTHANN SHAGIN

This is the tale of Mr. Exactee,
An efficiency expert of a great industry,

Whose task it was to save the company's time

In minutes and matters of every kind.

Now Mr. Exactee's theory was simple and bright,

A schedule was all that one needed to set the world right.

For if one is to succeed in any field,

Never to idling moments must he yield.

Now one fine day Mr. Exactee betook him a bride.

The fairest lass in the countryside
But alack, minutes fo her had no meaning,

For she spent her time in daydreaming.

So Mr. Exactee with clock in hand carefully mapped out the daily plan

And cautioned his bride with childish glee

To follow the schedule most rigidly.

Breakfast at seven,
No time for talking;

Seven fifteen,
You take the dog walking.

Dishes washed at ten to eight,
Leaving an hour

To set the house straight.
Shopping at nine,

Cooking at ten,
Allotting a rest period

Now and then,
Luncheon at twelve,

Sewing at one,
So easy to save time

Once you've begun.
Ironing at two,

Knitting at three,
And if you should like it,

A four o'clock tea.
Dinner at five,

Company at seven,
Followed by a bridge game

Only till eleven.
Twelve o'clock all is quiet,

And for six hours
The minutes run riot.

Now Mrs. Exactee thru fuss and tears

Followed this schedule for two whole years.

Till one fine morning she hit upon a plan

As only the wife of a time saver can.

With paper and pen she sat down and wrote

To her charming husband this little note:

"I hope with heart felt sincerity
That you can choke exactly at ten minutes to three."

A RHAPSODY

by A. ORTMAN

The steady drip, as though the twinkling toes of fairies danced a minuet,

Is music to my ears. It has been since my childhood a thrill I can't forget.

To hear the pit-a-pat against the roof when I have not quite safely met

The sandman's arms, gently takes me o'er the brink and to a world of no regret.

At morn when daylight steals into my room, I waken without fear or mental stress

To know a new day has been granted which can bring me added happiness.

PERPETUAL VIGIL

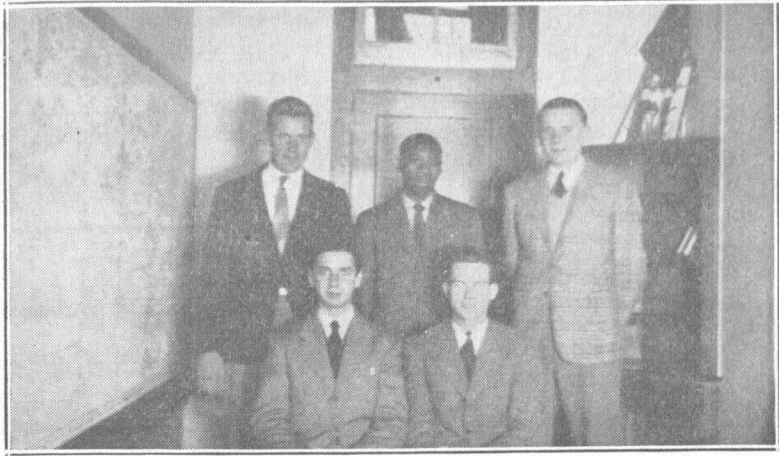

by FLORENCE MISKOVSKY

She sits by the window and waits for him each night
For her sailor husband, it's for him
she burns the light
In the little lamp, burning tirelessly, year after year,
There, too, is the flaming hope that someday he may return home.
She smiled and waved "Good-bye"
as he left that day,
And outwardly, with her lips, no
prayer did she say,
But a heavenly entreaty was written all over her face
For God to bring him back safely to this place.
Tear scarred years have slowly
had their way
And have changed ebony hair to a waxy gray,
A face once dimpled, now stares
into the night
As grim and expressionless, as the lamp's cold light.

There will be a pep assembly in ning of activity period today.

Know Your Team

(This is the first of two articles designed to acquaint the student body of State with members of the Varsity Basketball Team.)

CAPTAIN DAN JANKELUNAS is a New Milford boy and a product of Hackensack High School. Dan is a junior, training to be a teacher. Right now he is having a lot of trouble with his "do, re me's" in music. Although he has played three years of varsity baseball he still prefers softball. He says: "More action."

Baseball and basketball are his favorite sports and although he likes to play ping-pong, he isn't quite as good at that as he is at other sports. He lost in the first round of the ping-pong tournament to Charlie Fulbeck.

One of Dan's unique abilities is the holding of a basketball upside down with one hand. Try it sometime if you think it's a simple trick.

Jankelunas is treasurer of his class, a member of the Varsity Club and in last year's S.G.A. elections he polled a large write-in vote.

RAY WHITE is a newcomer to State this year and has quite an interesting history. He attended St. Mary's High School and as a member of the St. Mary's team went to Chicago to play in the National Catholic Invitation Basketball Tournament.

After working for a year or so, Ray went to Montclair Teachers College where he played baseball and basketball. Staters should take Ray to heart when they learn that a few seasons back when Montclair was playing Paterson in baseball, he struck out with the bases loaded.

Ray hopes to become a physical education instructor but if he should be called to the service he will try to work his way up to a generalship. "Red," as he is called, is fond of basketball, baseball and swimming and hopes to learn to play ping-pong while at State.

I asked Ray what he thought of the girls at Paterson State. He answered (after he realized that his remarks would be published where all girls would read them): "I think they're pretty swell."

TOM OLIVER is a sophomore and a graduate of Paterson Eastside where he did NOT play Varsity basketball. Tom says he would rather forget about his athletic career at Eastside; but I think it should be the Eastside coach who would like to forget about overlooking a swell player like Tom. Last year Oliver moved up to the varsity in midseason and became a leading factor in the compiling of such a fine record by the team.

Oliver's favorite sports are baseball and ice skating but he says he isn't very good at either. He hopes to become an elementary school teacher. Tom was elected president of the Varsity Club earlier this year.

DAVE EBNER is one of the quiet fellows around school. An outstanding tennis and ping-pong player, Dave was a varsity reserve last year and will probably see much action this year. Ebner, a graduate of Passaic High School, claims he has no hobbies except Charlotte Brown. His favorite sport is tennis. He is studying to become an elementary school teacher, but expects to be wearing khaki come next June. Ebner is vice-president of the Varsity Club.

FITZ ENGLEKEN is the happy-go-lucky character who can be depended upon to keep the team in good spirits. Fitz is a Paterson Eastside product and revels in the fact, especially last Thursday when Eastside beat Central. He should see quite a bit of action on the ribbed court this year if he continues to play heads-up basketball.

Ping-Pong Contest Nears Semi-Finals

As the third week of the ping-pong tournament rolls on into the past, there are three lads who have proven their adeptness with the paddle and ball enough to find their way into the semi-finals. Dave Kaplan, after disposing of Sy Pollock in the first round, in one of the most thrilling games ever witnessed in the boys' locker room, went on to beat Joe Hazonics, the "form" king, and Bob Morris to establish himself as a semi-finalist.

Charlie Fulbeck, a vastly improved player, pulled an upset when he beat Dan Jankelunas and then continued to upset George Reilly and Al Ayoub. The boys had figured that Jankelunas would have little trouble with Charlie, but Fulbeck is now in the semi-finals.

Tom Oliver has beaten Don Viscardi and Sid Brown and has yet one game to play before entering the semi-finals, if and when.

Coach Schmidt entered the tournament hoping to make a comeback but Bill Platt beat him in the first round, proving no doubt, that age must bow to youth.

Pioneers To Play Two New Schools

Games With Servicemen Also On Schedule

After meeting the Alumni Friday night in the annual season opener, the State basketball team will open its season against two teams who are newcomers on the Pioneers' schedule. On Tuesday night, December 2, the team will be host to the Coast Guard Receiving Station team at the College Gym, and on Saturday, December 6, the squad will make an overnight trip to Londonville, N. Y., just outside of Albany to meet Siena College, another new addition to the schedule.

Both of these games will provide real interest for local fans for the coaches of both squads are local boys. Rev. Anselm Kreiger of Siena is the former Johnny Kreiger, a local boy who won All-American honors. Howie Kammerling coach of the Coast Guard, is an alumnus of Paterson State.

Schedule Games With Servicemen

The scheduling of the game with the Coast Guard is State's contribution to the fine work of helping the servicemen to find recreation; work typified by the U. S. O. While on the subject of recreation for servicemen it might be wise to suggest to the Athletic Committee the scheduling of a baseball game for next spring with Fort Dix or some military post. Many of State Alumni are stationed at Fort Dix and they and their buddies would no doubt welcome such a game if it could be arranged.

Play University of Rutgers

Another team which the Pioneers will be playing for the first time this year is the University of Rutgers. The first game will be played at the College gym on Tuesday, December 9.

All home varsity games start at 8:30 and are preceded at 7:30 by a preliminary game between the State Junior Varsity and the J. V. squad of the visiting college or some leading local high school squad.

RIFLE CLUB BEING FORMED AT STATE

Sharpen up your eyes, boys and girls; stop drinking coffee so your nerves will be steady; for a Rifle Club is being formed. Boys and girls are both invited to join. Doctor Alteneder and Mr. Thomas have been busy organizing the club and will be supplemented as faculty advisors by Mr. Schmidt and Miss Hopper.

The club met Wednesday, Nov. 20 and will meet again tomorrow, Tuesday, Dec. 2, at 3:15 p. m. At the Tuesday meeting the club will be addressed by Mr. Mowery, president of the Columbia Rifle Club. Mr. Mowery will speak to the members on the case of firearms. Doctor Alteneder hopes that the club will be accepted for membership by the National Rifle Association. The club will use the Columbia Rifle Range.

There are at present twenty-four members enrolled in the club.

Varsity Downs Alumni 37-32; Graduates Bow After Hard Try

Brown, Jankelunas, White Play Heads-up Ball; Sirota and Pressman Return For Alumni

The State Varsity opened the 1941-42 season Friday night, defeating a strong Alumni team by the score of 37-32. This win extended State's consecutive victory string to ten games, as they finished the season last year with nine straight wins.

With the youngest and strongest team they have ever put on the court, the Alumni came back in the third and last quarters to make it a thrilling game after the Varsity had taken a 19-9 lead in the first half.

Sid Brown, Dan Jankelunas and Ray White played heads-up ball for the Varsity while last year's stars, Sirota and Pressman, played brilliantly for the Alumni. Brown was leading scorer for the winners with nine points. Jankelunas and White each scored six. Lou Sirota was highest scorer for the Alumni with twelve points.

The Varsity played a great game and if comparisons with last year's game are valid, State should be headed for a great season.

The Junior Varsity did not fare quite as well as the Varsity, losing by a 23-9 score to St. Michael's Prep of Newark.

Assembly Speaker Is Great Success

Aloha Baker, "the world's most-traveled woman," was a huge success at the assembly program on November 19. Her program consisted of talks on India, New Zealand, China, and Australia. Motion pictures of her travels added to the interest of the program.

Miss Baker's comments about the places she has visited gave her audience an "inside view" of these countries. The human side was very well described by her lecture and motion pictures.

Of all the countries she has visited, Australia is inclined to be her favorite but in the true style of a lover of adventure, Aloha Baker always finds the country she is about to visit the most interesting.

Those who attended the assembly were very much impressed by Miss Baker as a personality and not merely as a lecturer. In appearance she is very feminine and does not look as one who had sought adventure.

The library has purchased an autographed copy of her book, "Call to Adventure."

STUDENT COUNCIL PLANS PERMANENT WRITTEN RECORDS

With the purpose of establishing permanent written records of the activities of the Student Council in mind, the Council has chosen several committees to trace back its history. The information for this project will be uncovered from past issues of the school papers, year books and other bulletins.

Three chairmen have been appointed to undertake the task. Charles Fulbeck, who has been president of his class for two successive years, has been appointed general chairman; Laura Crouch, secretary of the Student Council and secretary of the freshman class last year, will have the task of typing and filing the material. Margaret Patterson, editor-in-chief of the Beacon, will do the research work.

Van Houten Tells Teaching Assets Needed to Succeed

Pupils of Wandell School at Saddle River, nine years ago were asking each other who that young man was who was teaching the seventh and eighth grades and doing the administrative work for the school. They soon learned that it was Mr. Edward Van Houten, new principal, who had two years of teaching at Wallington in back of him after his graduation from Paterson Normal School in 1930.

At Paterson Mr. Van Houten was most interested in activities which he could apply later in teaching. With this aim in mind he participated in such clubs as the Masque and Masquers, a science club and in glee club work in the music department. He still carries out his musical interests in doing choral work. (According to Wandell school alumni, the songs that he teaches his pupils are remembered and chuckled over long after they graduate.)

Aside from music, his chief love, other interests are amateur photography, especially of his family, and cheering his favorite team to victory at the Yankee Stadium. He classifies himself as a family man whose chief interests besides his work are his wife and children.

His advice to future teachers falls into four main categories:

1. While at school, they should join as many clubs as they have time and money for.
2. They should be sure to keep abreast of the times by reading national periodicals.
3. He said, "You must remember that you're going out to teach children and your success will depend upon how well the children like you so that you must develop (if you already have them) patience and a sense of humor."
4. "If you don't like children, get out of the profession immediately because you won't be happy a minute, but if you do like them you can be as happy as you want to."

Mr. Van Houten's success and popularity at Wandell school prove the soundness of his philosophy.

I. R. C. ATTENDS ANNUAL CONFERENCE

Interlude

by RUTHANN SHAGIN

Do you know:
That the choral group has a return engagement on December 3 over WPAT? This time the group will present James Weldon Johnson's "The Creation." Those who will participate are Sylvia Blut, Betty Driscoll, Louise Woodruff, Ruthann Shagin, Jack Madrigan, William Loveless, Frank Nugent, and Charles Fulbeck.

Who the powder puff Amazons are? You will soon see them in the "Warriors Husband," the new Masque and Masquers production. The choice of "Hamo" is really rare. When you see him garbed in that flimsy garment bedecked with jewels, and reeking with fragrant perfume, you will really appreciate him.

That all for the sake of art, Mr. Roehler and Harry Lister forged their way into the ladies' lounge amidst the ohs and ahs of our fair damsels, to rummage through the costume trunk in search of a costume for "Homo."

That the only way we of the female sex could get a word out of Frank Nugent last week was by first saying, "Frank, this is strictly business." He and Dan Jankelunas are pledging for the Skull and Poniard fraternity and for an entire week the Paterson lassies suffered the loss of some sparkling conversation.

ROBERT MURPHY GETS MARITIME COMMISSION

Robert Murphy, who attended Paterson State last year, was appointed deck cadet by the U. S. Maritime Commission. Robert attended and was graduated from St. Joseph's High School in 1939, and then came to Paterson State for two years.

Cadet Murphy, one of thirty cadets from New Jersey, is now in training under the regulations of the U. S. Maritime Commission. He has been assigned to the cadet school in New York for a course of preliminary training and basic naval science. The course will take eight weeks, after the completion of which he will be assigned to a merchant vessel. If the vessel he is assigned to should be taken over by the navy, he will be appointed as midshipman, Merchant Marine Reserve, and will serve on active duty in merchant vessels.

Taking the competitive exam on June 7, 1941, Robert passed the national examination given by the U. S. Maritime Commission for appointment to cadetship. He was one of the 190 successful candidates who took this examination.

Eight Seniors Participate In Bedside Teaching

Seniors Endeavor to Carry Over School Subjects to Crippled Children

The seniors of State are having their first independent teaching experience as bedside teachers to the crippled children confined to the Paterson General Hospital.

This program is under the direction of the Social Service department of the hospital with Mrs. Edna Sproat Martindale, assistant superintendent and Miss Mary Tuttle, social service director co-operating with Dr. Edith Shannon of the college.

Students participating in this program will endeavor to carry over classroom procedures to the bedside of the children. Academic as well as occupational therapy subjects will be taught. Knitting for the Red Cross and making Christmas gifts for patients are among the plans already underway although this program only started on November 24.

Period of Teaching

The children are visited at least three times and preferably five times a week. The length of the period is left to the discretion of the student teacher who will be able to see which is most beneficial. Dr. H. E. Reading, chief of orthopedics at the hospital, will act as consultant.

Bringing school work to the bedside is a very valuable experience both to the children and the teachers. It is a vital factor in maintaining the morale of the children since it keeps them from worrying about school as well as providing them with something practical and useful to do.

In addition to the benefits afforded the children this program will permit the students to further develop their educational experience in a way not possible elsewhere.

Bedside Teachers

Members of the bedside teaching are: Mary Williams, Abba Hutchison, Anna May Villeneuve, Margaret Patterson, Pamela Tustin, Bridget Sinaconi, Dolores Meulener and Marion DeLazier.

Members of both sections of the senior class are participating in this program. This will be helpful to the seniors since those that are in practice will be relieved by the other section of the class during this period.

ANNOUNCEMENT

The cast of "New School Of Wives" will meet in Mr. Roehler's office, room 303, at 10 a. m. Tuesday, December 2. All are expected at Garfield High School at 11 a. m. of that date.
