

Hobart Fails To Capture Party Post

Young Democrats Reject Grandson Of Republican VP

DOVER—Joseph O'Doherty of Dover was elected president of the Morris County Young Democrats last night in the organization's first contested election in six years. He beat out Garret A. Hobart of Morristown, the choice of the club's nominating committee in the vote held at the Dutton Hotel.

O'Doherty managed the unsuccessful campaign of Eugene Friedman for Congress last fall.

It is believed that his victory last night is the first step on the road to challenging long-time county leader John Kiser for that post. Kiser has already announced his intention to seek the county leadership again.

Hobart is a grandson of a vice president of the United States. The original Garret A. Hobart, a Republican, served during William McKinley's first term. He
