Alumni Booth At Convention Acclaimed Success By Visitors

The Alumni booth at the NJEA convention at Atlantic City, November 10, 11, and 12, was acclaimed a big success this year by many visitors.

With a double space, some rented furniture, the new Paterson banner borrowed from the SGA, and some big plywood letters spelling out the name of the college so that everyone who came around the corner could see where it was, the booth was a gathering place for not only alumni, but also for friends of the college and for prospective students.

Juniors Joyce Quackenbush and Carolee Dodd, and sophomores Frances Zylstra and Virginia Rysben were the PSC students who worked at the booth.

Bill Flynn of the alumni Association managed the booth along with Dr. Lee Ellis and Dr. Charlotte Brown of the faculty, with some assistance on college information from various members of the staff. Mr. Flynn was also in charge of the arrangements for the well-attended alumni tea at the Submarine Room of the Traymore.

There were 356 who registered at the table in the booth, and many more stopped to speak and look, but did not take the time to sign the book. Many came by to take leaflets or to leave requests for catalogs or materials. The sponsoring of this project each year by the alumni is one of the services which the association renders to the college.

Alumni To Convene On PSC Campus Saturday Evening

Community singing and a talk concerning the Russian people will highlight the Annual Alumni Dinner here December 3.

After the dinner, faculty members and alumni will hear Professor Albert Resis speak about the Russian people today. Miss Diane Scholer's Physical Education dance group will perform and the Women's Choral Ensemble will provide Christmas music. Mr. David Beyer of Student Personnel will provide piano accompaniment to the program and to community singing afterward.

Citizen "Communist," "Viking of Song" To Appear Here

Hank Edelhauser and Louise Brown, co-chairmen of the assembly committee have announced the program for the remainder of the year.

Herbert Philbrick, the man who stirred the country from coast to coast with his book, I Led Three Lives, will elaborate on his experiences as a citizen "Communist" in his talk, "The Red Underground Today," January 12. Philbrick is the only non-Communist to penetrate into the highest secret councils of the Communist Party. He will tell of his dual role as supposed Communist and counter-spy, working with the FBI.

William Clausen, the "Viking of Songs," is the well-known balladeer and recording star who will appear February 7. Jessie Owens, considered by many the greatest track and field star of this century, will speak March 14.

Other assemblies in the spring semester will be a musical program, the SGA Campaign Assembly, the Kappe Delta Psi Tapping Assembly, the Spring Concert (an evening program) and the Awards Assembly.

Members of the assembly committee are: Myra Brown, Lois

PSC Hosts 160 At Conference

Paterson State played host to 160 persons attending the Secondary School Science Teachers' Conference November 17.

More than 70 science teachers and 90 guests from Passaic, Morris, Sussex, and Bergen counties were present.

After an inspection of the college science facilities, the group gathered in the Little Theatre, Dr. Paul Brandwein, general editor and educational consultant for Harcourt, Brace Publishing Company, gave the principal address.

"Do not confuse teaching with telling," stated Dr. Brandwein. He concluded that the science teacher should try to construct a meaningful conception of the world, using only related technology.

Festive Spirit To Reign At Annual Xmas Dance

The Social Committee of the Student Government Association, under the leadership of Lois Brooks and Anne Ladika, is at work on plans for the traditional Christmas dance, Dec. 17.

The dance is held traditionally on the Saturday evening following the close of classes for the Christmas recess.

Fred DiMaria's band has been contracted. The Decorations Committee is at work, the faculty and college family have been invited, and there will be refreshments. Since this dance is financed by the SGA there will be no admission charge. Admission will be student identification cards.

Books, Portraits, Old Documents Spark Exhibit

An exhibit demonstrating some of the phases of the development of educational thought has been set up by members of the education department on the main floor of Huxford Hall.

Books of all ages, reproductions of portraits, pictures, and notable reproductions of old documents comprise the exhibit.

Among the manuscript materials represented is a portion of a tract entitled "Good Order Established in Pennsylvania and New Jersey" by Thomas Budd. This tract, published in 1853, has great historical significance in educational thought because it sets forth, among other things, a plan for public education with stress on industrial or vocational education.

A second reproduction is a plea for equal education of all classes. What makes this document so remarkable is the fact that it was produced during the early 19th century. A pre-printing press statement on reading is another reproduced manuscript.

Sharp To Meet With, Address Faculty About Outdoor Education

L. B. Sharp, Executive Director of the Outdoor Education Program at Southern Illinois University, will be on the campus of Paterson State College as a consultant in the field of outdoor education, Tuesday, December 6. He will meet with the department chairman in the morning at 10:30, and will address the faculty at their regular meeting in the afternoon.

Dr. Sharp brings to the college expert knowledge of public school outdoor education and school sampling programs as they are developing over the United States. He also knows about all of the ways in which colleges and universities in other states are making provision for outdoor education in their teacher preparation curriculums.

Dr. Sharp was the keynote speaker at the New Jersey Outdoor Education Leadership Conference in September at Stokes State Forest, when leaders from all over New Jersey gathered to study the special problems in regard to this important phase of education at the New Jersey School of Conservation. He is especially effective in communicating the theory of learning that underlies the outdoor education aspects of the school curriculum.

President Keynotes Holidays

As we enter the period between Thanksgiving Day and the Christmas holiday season, we can all afford, with the lighting of the Christmas tree on campus, to take time out to count our blessings.

Have you thought recently of what it means to be part of the great American tradition of universal education? Have you fully appreciated the freedoms and privileges we enjoy and the concomitant responsibilities we must assume as educated and responsible citizens?

Are you aware of the privilege you enjoy as one of the few who has the opportunity to further your education, to prepare yourselves for your career, to enrich the storehouse of your mind, to build the values by which men live?

In these days preceding the high holiday season of our great faiths, let us give pause to say our thoughtful thanks to our closest of kin, to our friends and colleagues and teachers. Let us give thanks for the beauties of nature about us, for the building provided for us by the citizens of New Jersey, for the quality of education available to us and for the faculty who open doors and extend our vision. Let us give thanks to the infinite power we worship each in his way and by his free choice.

This is indeed a period of thanksgiving, a time for counting blessings.

As Tiny Tim once said, "God bless us, everyone!"
Marion E. Shea, President

Why Decorate A Tree?

The traditional tree lighting ceremony will take place December 5, at the college, formally initiating the holiday season.

How many of us have ever thought about the symbolic traditions which take place in the holiday season? Why is the tree lighting ceremony a tradition? Who first envisioned the thought of this act? Today, we participate in many of these traditional events without realizing why they take place.

According to legends, the lighting of the tree at Christmas reverts back to the German people. The first mention of a tree at Christmas was made in 1605 in Strausburg, Germany. It was Martin Luther who first took an evergreen tree home and decorated it with lights, thereby introducing a custom which is performed to this day.

The story behind this act of Martin Luther came out as he was walking home through the snow covered fields one Christmas Eve. He saw the stars shining through the branches of the fir tree. The lighting of candles on the tree undoubtedly grew out of the belief that candles (stars) appeared miraculously on various trees at the time of the Christmas season.

When the Christmas tree tradition was first brought to the United States by the German immigrants, it did not receive wide popularity. Many sincere people regarded the decorating of a tree to be a pagan custom that bordered on idolatry. The charm and beauty of this custom has overcome this viewpoint, and the Christmas tree has become the happy "heart" of the holiday celebration.

Behind the Scenes Of "Ladies In Retirement"

A play does not take place totally in front of the audience. Considerable work takes place behind the scenes and at rehearsals. The stage crew must present the physical performance of the play. The audience sees the costumes, lighting, and sound effects, and has no concept of the importance of the stage crew.

There are two particular problems that the Pioneer Players' stage crew must cope with in order to present "Ladies in Retirement," this semester's offering. The scenery and property crews must build an 1880 player piano case and will attempt to have recorded music sounding from it. The period of the play is 1885 and the setting is in rural England. This requires the room to be lighted with candles and oil lamps. Because this is not permissible on the stage, electricity will have to be substituted.

The assistant director is responsible for the conduction of rehearsals. The stage manager runs the show from the moment the curtain goes up until it goes down. These officials are both students. Mr. Robert Leppert, the only faculty member connected with production, directs the Players, before, after and during each play.

Jennifer Jones Stars As "Madame Bovary"

The English department of Paterson State College will present the film "Madame Bovary" on Tuesday, December 13, at 7:30 p.m. in the Little Theater.

This film, starring Jennifer Jones, James Mason, Van Heflin, Louis Jordan, Gene Lockhart, and Gladys Cooper, is directed by Vincent Minnelli.

"Madame Bovary" is based on the novel by Gustave Flaubert. Taking place in a nineteenth century setting, the story is of a housewife who becomes involved in love affairs which she is unable to control. These leave her unsatisfied and lonely. Her tragic career is the result of her environment, her upbringing, and her childhood.

Pascack Valley Student Art Exhibit Shows "Line, Shape"

The Art Department of Paterson State College is currently showing the work of students from Pascack Valley Regional High School in an exhibition entitled "Visual Fundamentals: Shape and Line." The exhibit is set up on the second floor of Hunsticker Hall, and is open from 8:30 to 4:30, Monday to Friday.

The work exhibited represents creative solutions to problems in the "Design with Materials" class. This class, a new one on the elective level, is one of nine elective classes offered to tenth, eleventh, and twelfth graders at Pascack Valley Regional following a required ninth grade program in "Related Arts." It is organized around basic concepts involved in creating with art media — line, shape, color, texture, space, etc. Students are encouraged to experiment with new materials, as well as with new ideas. The work shown in the current exhibit represents the entire class — those with ordinary ability as well as those with exceptional ability.

The expressions on exhibit are the solutions to the problems of "line" and "shape" as presented to the class. They defined their problems as that of organizing "line" and "shape" materials within a limited area of space, keeping textural influences to a minimum, and attempting to create some third dimensional qualities.

Dr. Donald Wyckoff, chairman of the art department at Pascack Regional, teaches the class in "Design with Materials" whose work is represented in the current exhibition. The showing is under the direction of the exhibition committee of the Paterson State art department, of which John Jagel is chairman.

POETRY CORNER

Humdrum

The raging torrent
dwindled the fertile earth into furrows of mud Pools of dirty water
stagnated in the low meadows
The rain guzzled and slurped
as it opened holes and burrowed into the ground Tumultuous basins
belched their stilled steam
Weeds clung to their unwanted roots
while the undertow grasped the tender seeds
And entertained them in the brewing pot.
Budding trees
put green polka dots on a grey sky
Their soaked limbs
were sweaty arms of toil after the dormant winter
The pasture grass hung wet—limp grazing land for pregnant cows
Bursting with labor.
Farms disappeared this year
for there was no harvest to glean—
The sowing miscarried
All was quiet
a horrible solitude of desolation
poo-marked by destruction
Erosion
triumphed o'er the silt and land
Death
was there in the peaceful land.

Sports Whirl

by Kenneth Dow

On December 2, PSC will tangle with Montclair State College in the first basketball game of the season. Not only are the boys ready to show the 1960 crowd that this is the season, but coach Ken Wolf is also anxiously awaiting the first game. He has been heard saying, "The way in which our offensive and defensive patterns have been working against the scrimmage opponents, and the way John Jacone, captain-elect of the Pioneers, has been leading the boys thus far is a pretty good indication of how well we'll do this season."

Spotlight on Seniors

This season's end will bring the retirement of four varsity Pioneers: Art Bowne, George Fruhbeis, Cliff Knapp, and John Moran. They have been with the basketball team since 1958 and at long last are face to face with their last season.

Art Bowne was graduated from Princeton High School, Princeton, before coming to PSC. Art has developed into a good big man from inside or outside. He gained much experience last year. He is hard to handle defensively, and is also ranked among the twenty top rebounders in the nation for small colleges.

George Fruhbeis, a senior guard at 6'0", can shoot well from the outside, is a hard driver, and tough on defense. He is also a very fine play maker and a terrific competitor.

Cliff Knapp, also 6'0", possesses a fine jump shot and is a bear under the boards. He is the Pioneer's best defensive player and can out-hustle anyone on the court.

Jack Moran, from Pope Plus in Passaic, is a steady, hard-drawing forward with a good jump-shot, and has learned to check out well under the boards.

Let's watch these boys this season and give them all the credit that is due for the fine work they have done for Paterson in the last three years.

See you all at the Montclair game, Friday evening at 8:30 in the Montclair gym.

SPOTLIGHTING

Ken Wolf

Coach Ken Wolf came to Paterson State College at the start of the 1956-57 school year. In his five years at Paterson he has been head basketball and head basketball coach and has been instrumental in promoting the advancement of these sports. He sees it that basketball officials come from the Collegiate Basketball Officials' Association, whose members are the elite of basketball officials.

This year coach Wolf is pointing to a winning season. He has front-line strength, and hopes to get depth from his second stringers. He and his team face the toughest schedule in the school's history. Among the strongest adversaries will be East Stroudsburg, Manhattan College, and Yeshiva University.

Gabe Vitalone is in his fourth year as teacher and coach at Paterson State College. Before coming to Paterson, Mr. "V" taught in the White Plains Elementary Schools, coached Canadian football, and was an Army instructor.

In his four years at Paterson State, Mr. Vitalone has been J.V. basketball coach, assistant baseball coach, and varsity cross-country coach. His Junior Varsity basketball teams have compiled amazing records. In 1958-59 his team had an 18-4 record, winning 14 straight. In 1959-60 the squad had an 18-4 record. Overall in his four years his squads have tallied a remarkable 32-12 record.

The Intercollegiate Women's Fencing Association was founded in 1929, and in the thirty-one years since then the Association has sponsored an annual championship competition, held in April, and the invitation tournament, held in December. This is the official beginning of the year's fencing activity. Each member college is permitted five entries; other colleges are permitted two each. Undergraduate, full-time women students are permitted to represent their college even if the college does not regularly have a women's fencing team in competition. This year the championship meet will be held at Hunter College April 14-18, 1961.

January 26, 1961 the seniors will return, but on December 2, 1960, they will be on campus for a half-day review of student teaching. Whether they pass or fail will depend upon their performance in the 8 weeks, and the analysis of the co-operating teacher and supervising professor.

A microfilm of the entire tract, "Good Order . . .", has been deposited in the library as a remembrance of this exhibition.

We're Not So Bad, After All

THE STUTE — Steven's Institute of Technology
"Around the Campus"

College students as a group are extremely well-behaved, judging from a study of disciplinary action involving undergraduates at Cornell University during a six-year period. The study reveals that in an average year, there are about 25 student violations of non-academic rules per 1,000 undergraduates. Very few of these violations are of a serious nature.

The study also confirms a widely held belief that women are less apt to break rules in college than are men. Throughout this six-year period, the rate of women disciplined was less than that of men. The average showed that 26 men per 1,000 found themselves disciplined, while only 18 out of 1,000 of the fair sex broke comparable rules. Most common violations among the men during the period of study were infractions with automobiles and of a traffic nature, while the women had their major problem in returning to the dormitories at the proper time.

UPSALA GAZETTE — Upsala College

Though the silent films were produced long before my time and such names as Chaplin, Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks, and Erich von Stroheim are merely unfamiliar syllables, I have discovered a small cozy auditorium in New York where the mythical silent films become reality, and the names become faces and figures.

Every day the Museum of Modern Art presents silent films from its film library, and every day there is a gentleman who provides the dramatic verbatim to accompany the films. Arthur Kleiner is the piano-plunker at the museum; though, that is hardly a just title for one who has studied at the Vienna Academy of music and who has served as accompanist for George Balanchine and Agnes de Mille in their productions. Because of the destruction of many of the scores for the films, Kleiner has had to resort to composing his own music. In fact, he has just completed an album of silent film music for the growing number of silent film enthusiasts.

The price of admission to the films is included in the museum admission price.

It is Dr. Sharp who has defined the four principles underlying outdoor education as follows: first, that any activity that is done under the name of outdoor education must result in efficiency in learning to justify itself; second, that one's effort must result in the joy of living and learning in the out-of-doors; third, that the philosophy of outdoor education applies in any situation, in any organization, in any group, wherever learning takes place, because it deals directly with how well we learn, how much retention there is of what we learn, and how much appreciation and understanding come as a result of that learning; and fourth, that more contact with the out-of-doors and the land must have some effect upon our attitude toward our country and our concern and our love for it, so that better citizenship will result.

Sophomore class members are urged to join a committee and work for the success of the ball.

There will be no admission fee this year since the SGA has appropriated funds for the cost of the ball. Most of the money will be put toward hiring a band. The officers are planning to get the well-known Elliot Lawrence and his band to play that night. He now plays in "Bye Bye Birdie" and has played for proms at Princeton University and Wagner College.

The A Cappella Choir

The A Cappella Choir under the direction of Mrs. Elizabeth Stine, is busily preparing for the Christmas season. In addition to their performance at the Christmas Assembly, the choir has been invited to sing for the Kiwanis Club of Paterson, at the Alexander Hamilton Hotel. President Laurie Ernst announced recently that plans have been completed for a Christmas brunch to be held on campus. Before school closes for the holidays, the choir will spread the Christmas spirit throughout the campus with carol singing.

A full schedule of programs has also been arranged for the Spring semester. Other officers of the club for this year are: Louis Gillespie, Vice President; Nancy Stephenson, Secretary; Mathew Clarken, Treasurer; Karen Brody, Historian; and Henry Baron, Manager. Accompanist for the group is Joan Neumann, with Clarina Vander Valk assisting.

A Cappella Choir members rehearse for one of their many programs.

"E" and "I" Inquiring

Question—How can we stimulate school spirit at Paterson State?

David Spelkoman:

More publicity for inter-collegiate athletics.

Lillian Cave:

The only way we can stimulate school spirit at Paterson State is to have more social activities so that the student body can keep in closer contact. The closer the student body is, the stronger the student body will be. Thus a strong school spirit will prevail.

A recreation center at Paterson State would sufficiently provide a place for these school activities. It would be a place for sports of all kinds, an ice cream parlor, and a place for studying.

Bob Miller:

If more than a handful of students would come to the games, they would see how much fun it is, and tell others about it.

Pat Clegg:

Besides just studying, you should participate in activities.

Rich Trexler:

We are too restricted. The roots are in administration which puts greater emphasis on academic work, and hardly any on activities.

Lorraine Whitfield:

It is very difficult with a commuting school. We will probably have more school spirit when the dormitories are done. I believe we should stop worrying about it.

Roy Marshall:

We can stimulate school spirit by each student making it clear to the incoming students and to his fellow students that Paterson State is a good college, and not a glorified high school, and by showing his pride by sincerely supporting athletic teams.

Elizabeth Harris:

The dormitories will create more unity among the students.

George Crubart:

Publicity is a main factor. We should have announcements in local papers as well as in the Beacon. We should have dances after the games we win. This would bring more people out to the games.

Lou D'Amelio:

I think if we all knew the name and words to the Alma Mater, it would help our school spirit.

Virginia Minardi:

Start a football team. To stimulate further school spirit, provide transportation to the games.

Nick La Sala:

A football team would draw more boys to the college.

Diane Kirkpatrick:

When the dormitories come we'll have more trips and a greater spirit of fun and frolic throughout the school. There should be more boys!

Sophomores, Juniors Take Note

All Sophomores must fill out two cards for 1961-62 Junior Practicum. One card is a file card and the other is a process card.

Dr. Henderson announced today that all sophomores must register for Junior Practicum on the registration dates in February.

Sophomores in the Secondary Program fill out blue cards, elementary juniors fill out green cards.

Secondary Sophomores must get an approval form for a minor — if they have a minor — signed by their advisor and department chairman, and submit the form to the registrar who then sends a notice of approval.
