"Loss Of Individuality" Result of College Life

by Dotti Donaldson

"College has made me a nervous wreck!" was the comment from one female G.E. major, about to go on Junior Practicum next Monday. "First it was adjusting to college life, then keeping your grade point average and now I don't even know where I'm going for Junior Practicum," she gasped while devouring a B/L/T sandwich. "Some of my values have changed and I guess in general my contact with one or two of the professors have broadened my view about several things. I'm able to speak more frankly about my fears and make people understand my point of view better than before."

That was one reaction when this reporter posed the question, "What has college done to you to change your values and attitudes?" to a number of students, mostly upper classmen who have had the chance to see what life at Paterson State College is really like. From another General Elementary major, also a junior, comes somewhat of a different view. "There's no individuality. Everyone has their little group and once you become addicted to meeting them in the snack bar, it's next to impossible to break the habit. There's no kind of real school spirit except by those few individuals who participate in a number of groups. As to the question of morality, I don't think professors or college life in general will determine whether or not a person will make a wrong choice. It seems to me that many of your values are established before college and if they do change, it's due to fellow students and not professors or courses."

"The college social life has given me nothing, but it is impossible to sit in a class and not have your ideas changed in one way or another. Almost all of my classes have given me food for thought; they have changed some of my ideas and

Tickets On Sale For Mitchell Trio

Tickets for the Chad Mitchell Trio concert on October 22 at Paterson State will be on sale again beginning October 19, from 9:00 a.m. until 3:30 p.m. in the Octagonal Room. The program will be held under the sponsorship of the Evening Series Committee of the SGA.

Formed at Gonzaga University in Spokane, Washington, in 1959, the trio consists of baritone Joe Frazier, bass Mike Kobluk, and tenor Chad Mitchell. Under the musical direction of Milt Okun, the trio has received national publicity as a result of their controversial musical satire. Their lampoon, the "John Birch Society," was banned from play on several major radio stations because of its biting criticism of the right-wingers. The group's political observations are apparent in their spoof of nominee Goldwater's followers in their rendition of "Barry's Boys," and in their analysis of Billie Sol Estes' financial dealings in their "The Ides of Texas."

The members of the trio do not play musical instruments when they sing, having two accompanists, Paul Prestopino and Jacob Anders, to provide the musical background for their songs. The group obtains material from varied folk music sources, both from older arrangements of folk music and from newly-penned songs by young writers of folk songs. Although the publicity they have received results primarily from their satire, the trio focuses primary attention to traditional folk music arrangements. Some of their latest albums are "Reflecting," "Blowin' In The Wind," and "Singin' Our Mind."

Tickets for Paterson State students with I.D. cards are $1.00, and those for guests are priced at $2.00. A limited number of guest tickets are available.

THE MITCHELL TRIO will appear in concert at Paterson State on Thursday evening, October 22, at 8:15 p.m. The members of the trio are, from left to right, Mike Kobluk, Chad Mitchell, and Joe Frazier. Tickets are being sold every day from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the Octagonal Room.

Faculty Endorse '64 Bond Issue

The faculty of Paterson State College, at a regular monthly meeting on Monday, October 12, unanimously passed a resolution favoring the College Bond Issue. The resolution reads as follows:

"RESOLVED that we, the faculty of Paterson State College, strongly endorse the College Bond Issue which will be voted on by the citizens of this State on November 3rd. We believe that the need to expand the public college facilities of New Jersey is immediate and urgent. To delay the beginning of construction while the State legislature attempts to decide which, if any, new taxes should be enacted will deny the opportunity to attend college to many young people of this State. The construction of major capital facilities of this type is usually financed in this State and elsewhere by bond issues. We see no logic in the argument that these badly needed facilities should be delayed until such time as the State may be able to finance them through current revenues."

In addition to approving the resolution, the faculty members also pledged themselves individually to make contributions for the promotion of the Bond Issue.

On October 6, the Student Government Association of Paterson State approved a motion that the SGA sponsor a campaign in support of the 1964 College Bond Issue in cooperation with SGA organizations of the other state colleges.

The 40.1 million-dollar Bond Issue, if passed, would provide new facilities at the six state colleges as well as at Rutgers, the State University, and at Newark College of Engineering. The expanded capacities provided by these new facilities would accommodate 10,000 additional New Jersey students. Two new buildings would be constructed on the Paterson State campus. A classroom building costing $1,300,000 is proposed to have thirty classrooms, including lecture halls and seminar rooms. Faculty offices would be provided for the Education, English, and Social Science Departments. Also included in this building would be a faculty lounge and a student lounge. A new library, costing $1,800,000, is proposed for the campus. Accommodating 5,000 students, as compared to existing facilities accommodat-

Scale Opera Sets Show This Month

A unique opera exhibit borrowed from the Bloomfield Public Library is on display this month in the Sarah Byrd Askew Library. The idea of lighted dioramas of an opera, displayed in reproductions on the Met stage was the work of Mr. Howard Vogt, Music Librarian of the Bloomfield Public Library, in honor of the Metropolitan Opera House, New York, which is to be torn down in 1968 when the opera company moves to its new home at Lincoln Center.

Mr. Vogt enlisted the support of Mr. Fred Branch, a professional architectural model maker, who made the stage reproduction exact in every detail. Mr. Branch sculptured each section of the proscenium in clay, while Mr. Edward Diller, his business associate, made a mold of each piece from which they made numerous plaster ing about 300, the new library would also contain two library science classrooms and an audio visual aids center.

In the five years since the 1959 College Bond Issue was approved by New Jersey voters, this state's public institutions of higher education have experienced unprecedented growth. Although the expanded facilities resulting from this bond issue funds enabled the eight state-supported institutions to double their enrollment, the accelerating numbers of high school graduates seeking admission to college has brought about the 1964 College Bond Issue referendum. Paterson State's enrollment was increased to 2380 students as a result of the buildings constructed from the 1959 Bond Issue. Completed with funds from this Bond Issue is Heritage Hall. Still under construction are a music-auditorium building, a campus laboratory school, and an addition of a swimming pool to Memorial Gymnasium. Even with these additions, facilities are still limited as more New Jersey high school graduates seek admission to Paterson State and to the state colleges.

The Student Education Association will also sponsor a Speaker's Bureau Session on October 31st. It will be held at

S.G.A. President Speaks

On Tuesday, October 6, 1964, the Student Government Association held its second council meeting of the year. The main topic dealt with, which came under old business, was the 1964 College Bond Issue. After further discussion, the S.G.A. representatives voted to support the Bond Issue. This means the Student Government Association will work through a program to inform voters of the College Bond Issue. The S.G.A. Bond Issue Committee is planning various methods for educating the public about the Bond Issue.

A second important topic, which came under new business, was the announcement and confirmation of the various S.G.A. Committee chairmen. These people have already begun to make our Student Government a successful one. For example, the Public Relations Committee has already begun establishing an inter-S.G.A. communications system and is in the process of planning a Student Directory, and a Student Government Handbook. Also, the Social Committee is in the process of planning regularly sponsored dances and pep rallies. If any students are interested in helping to build the S.G.A. programs and make them successful, contact the respective chairmen whose names are listed in an accompanying S.G.A. Public Relations Committee article.

Sincerely yours,
S.G.A. President

casts. This step by step procedure is also on display.

Mr. Vogt and Mr. Branch decided that "Aida" should be the opera they would stage, since "Aida" was a masterpiece of universal appeal. They also wished to pay tribute to its composer, Giuseppe Verdi, whose 150th birthday anniversary was celebrated on October 10, 1963. A moment of action to be depicted in each set was decided upon and, with the help of James O'Toole and Robert Toth, students at Newark School of Fine and Industrial Arts, the sets were designed and constructed along with the figures for each of the seven scenes made. These scenes include a hall in Pharaoh's Palace, the Temple of Vulcan, a hall in the apartments of Amneris, an avenue in the city of Thebes, and a bank of the Nile. This exhibit will be on display until the end of the month.

SEA Plans College-Wide Convention Trip

On November 12 the Student Education Association and the Association for Childhood Education will sponsor a bus trip and luncheon to the Atlantic City Teacher's Convention. The combined cost will be $3.00. The bus will leave from Hunziker Hall promptly at 8:00 a.m. and will arrive at the Madison Hotel at 11:00. Those who are Student Education Association members will proceed to Convention Hall and receive maps and a schedule for the day's events at the registration desk.

The bus trip is open to all students of Paterson State (day and evening divisions) and faculty members. Tickets may be purchased in the Octagonal Room until November 10.

The Student Education Association membership drive is in progress in the Octagonal Room from 10:30 to 2:30 now until October 30. Dear Sir,

As graduating seniors we feel we possess the requisite degree of maturity and emotional responsibility necessary to compete successfully in society. With this in mind, we respectfully register the following protests in regard to the "black 43" meeting of October 8.

We protest operating within a system which requires applicants to submit a rough draft of placement literature on the grounds that we are capable of expressing ourselves intelligently without having our thoughts channeled.

We protest the use of the word "whitewash" which indicates that not only our applications but all previous applications have been misrepresented and/or slanted.

We protest being referred to as "products." Is this the culminating result of four years' striving? Is this the goal to which underclassmen aspire? Is this what we as teachers seek to achieve in our classrooms? We hope not.

Lastly, we resent the condescending tone of the entire meeting and we further resent being intimidated with loss of priority. In conclusion, while we have submitted these protests respectfully, we believe we have legitimate grounds for complaint and will stand firm on this belief.

47 names withheld on request

It is unfortunate that statements made Thursday, October 8 at the "Black 43" meeting have been misinterpreted and misrepresented. Any student who wishes to discuss or clarify job placement is invited to see Dr. Henderson or Mrs. Bolles.

The services of the Placement Office at Paterson State College are open to any graduating senior who may elect to use them. This is an optional service. Students are not required to register. Those who do choose to register are expected to comply with registration procedures.

OFFICE OF STUDENT TEACHING AND PLACEMENT

Dear Editor:

In regard to your recent editorial, and the many comments received I feel obligated to con-his true self with his false exterior removed.

In the plot are four main characters: Billy Brown, the popular boy who became a successful man; Dion Anthony, a boy with a creative nature whose life became a tortured existence; Margaret Anthony, Dion's wife, who was the perfect girl and mother image; and Cybil, a prostitute who was the physical creativity of life. The actors who portrayed the above parts were able to convey the emotions, feelings, and being of the characters. Since the settings were combined in one showing and the costumes were the same throughout the play, all attention was focused on the plot, the masks, and the acting. The play centers around the themes of the artist versus materialist, family conflicts, and people untrue to themselves.

The audience, composed mainly of freshmen from Paterson State College, showed deep interest in the production at the McCarter Theater, Princeton, on Friday, October 9. This trip was the first in a series of four that will be taken by the freshman class.

tribute my opinion on the topic of hazing.

I am one of the eight students from my high school currently enrolled as freshmen in PSC. Before you jump your gun—eight of us agree wholeheartedly with the view points expressed in your editorial.

We did not come here with the strong intention of being non-conformists, but as it turned out we were the conformists (conforming to the idea of excluding hazing from the freshman's calendar).

The last issue of the Beacon published a letter from one of my fellow freshmen stating, as I quote, "... couldn't it be that they were afraid to participate because they are not used to being an active part of a school and joining in activities with others?"

Well, there my fellow student has left himself wide open for debate! As I said, in quantity we are eight; and in quality, eight of the best—both academically and socially. I don't mean to sound like a braggadocio, but I must to illustrate my point.

Among us there are: Honorary graduates, members of the National Honor Society and Student Government, a class treasurer, a twirler, members of the F.T.A., N.J.G.A.A., Balladeer, School Spirit, and other clubs and organizations too numerous to mention.

Seeing as we live quite a great distance from the college it presented a handicap in our participation in freshmen hazing. But, as we have solved many and more difficult problems prior to this, I am sure we could have remedied this one, if we felt it necessary or beneficial in some way, but we did not.

I hope in the future more appropriate techniques will be used to acquaint in coming freshmen with the college and its students.

Thank you for taking the time to read my letter.

Sincerely,
Patty Ewell
Class of '65

The editorial staff of the BEACON should be reminded of certain positive qualities of hazing which it has overlooked. It is obvious to all that the student who is most successful in the hazing period usually becomes an elected campus leader. Another less obvious, but more intellectual, function performed by this fine tradition is the preparation it affords new students for such course activities as "role playing," where it is necessary to perform seemingly foolish tasks to the great pleasure of the non-participating group.

The apparent correlation between who can be most foolhardy and who becomes most successful on this campus is too great to be overlooked.

"If the future is looked upon as possibility and inevitability is rejected," stressed Dr. Lerner, "the Americans can claim the future." He used the historians' approach, feeling that what happened in the past did so because of the decisions that were made and that it is necessary for Americans and their leaders to decide the alternatives concerning the future. "Today is an age of power surplus, for America now has enough weapons to kill humanity 50 to 75 times over," stated the speaker. This is a reality Dr. Lerner has termed "the overkill factor." Lerner also predicted that some day it may be possible to speak of the abolition of war, but placed this as "an impossibility at present" since the "race today is not a weapons race, but an intelligence race." "Therefore it is necessary to re-do political thinking about the state, discard the obsolescence of national sovereignty for at present, weapons possessed by any nation feels unification should go beyond the European Common Market to a common market of ideas and decisions. Americans can survive if they follow the great art to be learned, the art of choice, involving the direction in which they are to go and also involving correct appointments of capable leaders. Quoting Thomas Jefferson Dr. Lerner said, "those who can't govern themselves can't govern others." "It is possible to prevent war and totalitarianism only when a collective will is able to guide the country," maintained the speaker. The choice for selection of leaders should come from all people without respect to income, group, religion, race or color remembering that the roots come from the soil of people.

In conclusion Dr. Lerner remarked, "I was once asked 'What is America?' and in the one word I was allowed, I said 'access, for I believe all equal and unequal people in America have access to opportunity.' "

To take the place of the opposing "camps," those of the free world and the communist world, Dr. Lerner proposed an integrated world. "The United States should integrate itself with all nations and form a transnational 'sovereignty,'" He feels unification should go beyond the European Common Market to a common market of ideas and decisions. Americans can survive if they follow the great art to be learned, the art of choice, involving the distinction in which they are to go along also involving the appointments of capable leaders. Quoting Thomas Jefferson, Dr. Lerner said, "those who can't govern themselves can't govern others." "It is possible to prevent war and totalitarianism only when a collective will is able to guide the country," maintained the speaker. The choice for selection of leaders should come from all people without respect to income group, religion, race or color remembering that the roots come from the soil of people.

In conclusion Dr. Lerner remarked, "I was once asked 'What is America?' and in the one word I was allowed, I said 'access, for I believe all equal and unequal people in America have access to opportunity.'"

In the beginning, a little struggle turns to fight. When it's over, you'll need higher education to become a leader in business, in science or in production.

College gives leadership. Give your colleges credit when they deserve it. Don't let them down by not studying hard enough to keep going, but to maintain the reputation of excellent competitive conditions call for today.

Professors have doubled in the last 10 years and will double again in a decade. Your colleges need to expand facilities and hire top teachers. Today's problem is to increase the capacity for educating more people for tomorrow's needs.

This is everybody's problem, and the solution is everybody's opportunity. So give to the college of your choice. Keep your leaders coming. College is America's best friend.

inforced others," was the answer from another junior.

At the same table another girl voiced her objections to some of those carefully set rules and regulations. "If you didn't have patience you'd go out of your mind," referring to placement for her Jr. Practicum and the registration system. "Sometimes it makes you want to cry, but you can't because you're a 'college student'." Before I came to college, an ideal student was more or less set up in my mind and I find myself trying to live up to that ideal but it is much different from what I had expected. College has changed many of my standards for a moral code. While I still remained in high school and found that some girls "had" to leave school, I would subconsciously condemn them but since I've been introduced to many of the psychological factors, my standards are much more liberal. This I can very definitely say is from the dis at college as well as the approach of higher education."

Two K.P. majors seemed to hear each others opinions out when they realized they had a much broader outlook from two years ago. "I know that this is a very over-used phrase, but you get out of it only what you put into it." Socially this particular campus is great for the 'in' groups but seems to leave everyone else out in the cold." After thinking the question over more carefully they decided that they are also quicker to rebel against an idea now instead of accepting someone else's.

A junior secondary major exclaims that "during my high school career, I can remember our community tests, that is when 'you help me and I help you'. I think college changed my thoughts about such actions. Not just that I was going to college and getting to the point that I should show some responsibility, but once I got here it just didn't seem right. The very idea that the teachers didn't sit on you until they got results, but depended on your initiative gave me a conscience. If you couldn't produce in such a capacity you didn't stay around very long."

The views and opinions that appear above are only a very small portion of this campus and if you, the reader, have anything further to add, we would appreciate hearing from you.

tired from medical practice but not from writing. He continued his amazing career and as that day in March, 1963 neared, his writings and letters sensed the event. It is from the first book of "Paterson" written in 1946 though, that comes the best representative sample of the epic and the man. This passage is concerned with the Passaic Falls which like Williams' works was the massive outpouring of a great giant.

"Rolling in, top up, under, thrust and recoil, a great clatter: lifted as air, boated, multi-colored, a wash of seas - from mathematics to particulars - divided as the dew, floating mists, to be rained down and regathered into a river that flows and encircles: shells and animalcules generally and so to man, to Paterson."

Today, tomorrow, and yesterday all have one thing in common—the cry for more school spirit. All one has to do is go into the “snack bar” at any time of the day and invariably this problem will be discussed. Yet, where are those who make these statements when our soccer team plays a home game, when our basketball team needs their support, and when our baseball team needs their cheering to get that one run? They are the excused ones who have to go shopping or have to have their hair done or just have to be home for supper.

Too often we have seen the teams come off the field with a remark like, “so-and-so College had more spectators at last week’s game and it was raining there.” Why do they say this? Why are our representatives of intercollegiate athletics being let down in this way? How can students help?

The one thing a participant in a sport needs above all else is the knowledge that his efforts are recognized and appreciated by his fellow schoolmates. Why should he be neglected the right to a cheer when his efforts score the winning point in an athletic contest? Who can blame a squad for indifference when they feel no one cares who they are or what they’ve done. Each member of a team before a game has the feeling inside him to win. This is a basic competitive feeling. To do his best for the school is probably his first and only motive for participation. Yet when he arrives on the field and is greeted by a handful of spectators, most of whom are girl friends of his teammates, this is the beginning of a great letdown. Of course, when he is away, he doesn’t expect cheers, but when he does return he returns to a pitiful handful to “cheer” him on to do his best. How would you feel?

There were more people at Wayne Hall watching the fifth game of the World Series than were out at the last home soccer game! This shows great spirit on our part as fans! We can sit and watch the Yanks and Cards a thousand miles away, but when it comes to our own home teams the comment is—“Well, I’m busy.”

We students of Paterson State want a great school handed to us and we don’t want to help it to achieve its greatness! Even now as this column is being read, there exists a great apathetic attitude towards sports at PSC and this feeling and the achievement, in part, of a greater school spirit can only be removed by active spectator participation.

Runners Snap Streak; Down Stony Brook

by Bill Hagman

On Saturday, October 10, Paterson State’s cross-country team scored its first victory of the season Saturday over Stony Brook (N.Y.) State College, 25-33. The victory came after two losses to Jersey City State and Montclair State.

Individual winner of the race was Joe Dziezawiec of Paterson State. His winning time was slightly off that which he turned in against Montclair. However, unlike the race with Montclair he had no one pushing him Saturday. Cliff Williams took an early lead in the race only to have Dziezawiec pass him about one-half mile out. In that same stretch, Ron Simmons took a bad fall but he was able to recover and continue. A few minutes later another PSC harrier, Ron Schoppert fell and twisted his ankle. At the two and a half mile mark PSC had the first three places, but in the next quarter mile Bill Hagman tripped and fell to become the third such victim of the day. The Cardinals then moved three men up to pass Hagman and Williams. With a mile left in the race PSC only had first, fifth, and sixth places. It looked as if the race might result in a third Pioneer loss. Williams, making a great comeback, was able to regain third spot and assure the Pioneers of their first victory of the season. Paterson State’s order of finish in the top ten was Joe Dziezawiec, first, Cliff Williams, third, Bill Hagman, sixth, Jim White, seventh, Ron Simmons, eighth, and Tom Vitola, ninth.

On Wednesday the Orange harriers go to Lincoln Park in Jersey City where they will take on St. Peter’s. The Pioneers would like to even their record and also make up for an opening loss on the same course to Jersey City State.

PSC 2-0 Over St. Peter’s After Final Quarter Rally

Paterson State’s soccer team, after more than three scoreless quarters, finally wore down St. Peter’s and scored a 2-0 win at Wightman field, Wednesday, October 7.

Showing an aggressiveness which had been missing in their previous game, Paterson State was continually in range of scoring yet failed to succeed until 8:40 of the final period. Involved in a scramble in front of St. Peter’s goal, center forward Cliff Keezer slammed the ball into the net for the initial marker. This goal seemed to ignite the team and in less than two minutes, center half Hank Saxon booted one in from 40 yards out.

Evidence of the pressure which kept PSC atop St. Peter’s are the 23 saves which the St. Peter’s goalie had to make in comparison to the 14 credited to the Pioneer goalie Mark Evangelista, who in the process recorded his second shutout of the year. This win brought the team record to 2-1.

Bloomfield Ties PSC Soccermen

In a game marked by the outstanding play of Paterson State’s defensive backfield, Paterson State was held to a double-overtime 1-1 tie by Bloomfield College, Saturday, October 10, at Bloomfield.

Engaging a team that had beaten them 4-2 last season and were carrying a highly regarded 4-1 record into this year’s game, Paterson responded positively and pressed Bloomfield throughout the game as evidenced by the 17 saves which the Bloomfield goalie had to make and the nine corner kicks taken by Paterson.

At 2:55 of the second period, Klaus Hemmert, Bloomfield’s outstanding center - forward, on a pass from his outside - right, headed the ball between the goal posts to give Bloomfield the lead. At 8:05 of the same period, Paterson came back with the scoring marker as Norm Binder scored on a beautiful twenty yard kick. The score remained tied for the rest of the game and the two overtime periods. In the overtime, Bloomfield was forced to play three fullbacks instead of the normal two because of the pressing offensive drive of Paterson State.

As shown in earlier games this year, the defensive backfield of Paterson State has played an outstanding part in the team’s ability to press and keep the opposition’s defensive running. Playing a fine game for Paterson State were Jerry Stefanacci, who has been hampered in earlier games by a pulled leg muscle and Ziegfried Krause, who again showed that he is an outstanding fullback. Giving significant help to these men were Rich Gore, Hank Saxon, and Joe Pasquariello. Goalie Mark Evangelista was credited with seven vital saves.

Soccer Coaches Heads Clinics

Paterson State College sponsors a soccer clinic on Friday, October 20, 1964. The clinic, free to all area high school coaches and interested players, is being held as a part of the National Soccer Coaches Association of America’s Intercollegiate Soccer Football Association clinic. Acting chairman of the clinic will be Wilber head soccer coach at Paterson State College. The clinic will be held in the Conference Room, Wayne Hall and all interested coaches are requested to enter by No. 4.

The program will start the registration at 7:30 and to 10:00 a.m. Dr. Charles Shaw, college coordinator of athletics, plans to welcome the area coaches. Mr. George Ammond will preview and discuss the clinic. Sound films pertaining to the skills as well as coaching methods of coaching will be shown.

Guest speakers for the evening will be Mr. John Love and Ian Naismith, talking on the topics, “Coaching and Teaching Soccer.” Mr. Love is a well known soccer coach at Montclair State and is from Carlsbad, California. He received a bachelor of science degree from Glasgow University and did post-graduate work at Jordanhill College of Education. Coach Love was in charge of the Scottish Football Club (Juniors), Glasgow, as well as president of the Lanarkshire Schools League 1948-49. Mr. Love is employed by the high school of Montclair Army. He is a native of Glasgow, Scotland and attended Glasgow University. Both Mr. Naismith and Mr. Love direct their teaching and coaching to the 14 year-old player.

The program is planned to foster practical ideas of coaching soccer which will lead to question and answer discussion among the coaches themselves.

Harriers Hand Second Straight Loss

Paterson State’s cross-country team went down to its second straight loss on October 10 to Montclair State College. The loss was the Pioneer’s first in its home course since 1962. The final score was 21-38 in favor of the Indians.

Individual winner in the race was PSC’s Joe Dziezawiec who toured the course in a time of 26:31. However, the victory was not an easy one. Throughout the race Dziezawiec was not an easy one to challenge by Montclair’s Jim Santamier. Santamier was behind until the last half mile never more than a few strides of the race. It was then that Dziezawiec made his move to defeat the Indian harrier in ten seconds. Between Paterson’s first and second wins, Montclair placed four men in the final score. Paterson State was able to place three men in the top ten in order of finish for PSC: Joe Dziezawiec, first, Bill Hagman, sixth, Cliff Williams, eighth, Ron Schoppert, eleventh, and Jim White, twelfth.

De Sopo and Witte, they were goalie Mark Evangelista, back Sigfried Krause, linemen Norm Binder and Vic Talerico. Evangelista and Krause played these positions in only one-half of con-ing at the season’s beginning. New opponents this year include St. Peter’s College and Upsala College. The Pioneers will play host to Shelton College in their first encounter.
