Reunion Set For Saturday

The Planning Committee of the college Leadership Laboratory has scheduled a workshop reunion on Saturday, December 5, for all first year participants of the May Leadership weekend at Sharpes Reservation. The committee members have been meeting since the beginning of the school year to formulate plans for the next lab weekend as well as defining long and short range goals to be accomplished.

The reunion will begin at 10 a.m. and last until approximately 2 p.m. The tentative breakdown of the morning is as follows: 10:00 - 10:30 welcome by the committee chairman and summary of the committee's accomplishments so far this year; 10:30 - 12:00 T-group sessions and feedback by Dr. Ken Herold; 12:00 - 12:45 break; 12:15-12:45 lunch; 12:45 - approximately 2:00 slides from the May weekend and a talk by Dr. Herold.

Enrollment Increases In Evening Division

The regular full-time day student may not be aware of the fact that over 1000 students attend evening classes at Paterson State. There are 1824 students enrolled in the Part-Time and Extension Division this Fall as compared with 1603 last year, a 14 percent overall increase, according to the figures released by Benjamin Matelson, Director of the Part-Time Division at Paterson. About 75 percent of these students are women, most of whom are married and have from one to seven children.

The graduate program has an enrollment of 675 and the undergraduate general elementary program (six - year - program) has an enrollment of 520 students. There are 1410 students enrolled in courses offered for teachers-in-service in Hackensack, Milton, Newton and Netcong. The largest off-campus center is located in Hackensack with 270 students enrolled. In the undergraduate program, 79 courses are offered, taught by 53 professors of the regular staff and 27 co-adjutant instructors. There are 37 courses offered in the graduate program, taught by 33 professors of the regular staff and 2 co-adjutant instructors.

The new teacher librarian certification program has 34 students enrolled. The degree program for Normal School graduates is tapering off—52 this year as against 91 last year. The elementary certification program for college graduates, holders of a bachelor's degree, has remained at the same level—431 this year as compared with 429 last year.

There are 526 men and 1298 women in the Part-Time and Extension this year. Most students come from Bergen County, while there are 530 students from Passaic County, 167 from Morris County, 119 from Sussex County, and 105 from Essex County. Some students travel from as far south as Ocean County and as far north as Warren County.

Paterson State College began in 1955, a graduate program leading to the masters degree and a program of evening studies leading to the A.B. degree with a major in elementary education (known as the six year program.) Prior to September, 1955, it was difficult for a student to obtain a degree at a state college unless he could devote full time to his studies in the regular day college. The six year program permits a student to complete his studies through the junior year by evening attendance for five years, including three summers. In the sixth year, his senior year, he changes over to the full time day

Samuel Lubell

Political Analyst Appears Tonight

"Do the Republicans Have a Future? — The Meaning of the Election will be discussed by Mr. Samuel Lubell, a specialist on political analysis, on Friday evening, December 4, at 8 p.m. in Memorial Gymnasium. He will speak at the third annual Social Science guest lecture series to be held that evening. All Paterson State faculty, students and guests are invited to attend the program, with no admission charge.

During the 1964 campaign, Mr. Lubell served as political commentator on radio station WOR in New York City.

Mr. Lubell began his career after his graduation from City College of New York and the School of Journalism at Columbia University in 1933. He was a Pulitzer Traveling Scholar in Europe in 1934. His first newspaper job was with the Long Island Daily Press. He then worked successively on the Washington Post, the Richmond Times-Dispatch and the Washington Herald.

In 1938 Mr. Lubell began writing for magazines, becoming a regular contributor to the Saturday Evening Post. During World War II he worked with the Office of Facts and Figures and later with the Office of War Information. Mr. Lubell also served as a war correspondent for the Saturday Evening Post in the China-Burma-India Theatre in 1944. In 1946 he traveled throughout Europe as a correspondent for the Providence Journal and the North American Newspaper Alliance.

The first political article written by Lubell was a post-mortem of Roosevelt's third-term victory. In it he observed that the Democrats had become the normal majority party in the country and that he "could be re-elected for a fourth and a fifth term as easily as for a third." Mr. Lubell has also done post-mortems of the 1948, 1950, 1952, 1954, 1956, and 1958 elections. In 1952, for the first time he applied the technique he had developed for post-mortems of election of reporting a preelection campaign by interviewing voters in strategic voting areas around the country. In the following elections, he applied, this same technique. In 1960, he served as a special political analyst for NBC on primaries, conventions and the election.

Mr. Lubell's first book, The Future of American Politics, was written with the help of a Guggenheim Fellowship. Appearing in 1952, it was chosen by the American Political Science Association as the best book on government and democracy for that year. Mr. Lubell is also the author of The Revolution in World Trade and Revolt of the Moderates. His latest book is White and Black-Test of a Nation, which was published this year.

PSC Cited For Savings Program

Paterson State College has been cited by the United States Treasury Department for its success in enrolling college employees in the United States Savings Bond Program. Mr. Frank Zanfino, Business Manager of the College, has been individually cited for his work as chairman of the drive here.

The members of the 564 employees of the New Jersey Department of Education enrolled in the Payroll Savings Plan represent an annual savings of $116,252.76. The enrollment at Paterson State College represents the largest increase in the Department at 51.10 percent of total employees.

SGA President Speaks

The SGA has set many goals, although for completion of organizational achievements, the first practical results were exhibited a short while ago. The SGA social committee held its first mixer. There was a good crowd and a sufficient amount of money was made. Therefore, I have been recently informed that the committee is planning on having another in the near future. During the two years I've been here I have heard many criticisms of our social life. The SGA is beginning to provide the events; it is up to you to make them a success.

There is another event that will be coming up before we know it, the Coronation Ball. This year's Sophomore Class is really adding to the spirit of "Let's begin now." The class, being the sponsor of the ball, is planning on conducting a much more elaborate and professional event this year, one which would definitely raise the image and prestige of our Campus Queen. Recently, a meeting was held concerning the preparations and possibilities for the ball. In attendance were leading figures who have participated in such events. From what I observed many felt there is much that can be done to improve our traditional system. It was pointed out how our Queen is elected and then literally discarded till the following year when it is time for the next crowning. As one who has been directly involved in conducting this event I must strongly agree there is much that can be done. Because so many are aware of the needed improvements and are willing to make them, let's give them our confidence and support. The success of the Coronation Ball is the responsibility of all of us, not just the sponsoring group.

There is one more topic I'd like to bring to your attention in hopes that you will begin to give it your full consideration. SGA elections are not far off. In the past issues of the Beacon I have stressed important aspects of a successful government. As I had pointed out, often things begun one year are often discarded by the new student officers under the disguise "I'm going to improve everything." - so they begin from scratch and end up in the same position as their predecessors. A year is a short time in which to develop ideas which take hard, and time consuming, work. We have already accomplished specific things, which combined with those we intend to have completed by the end of this year, should provide a good basis for accomplishing the ideals and long range goals we have set. It will rest upon your shoulders whether or not the long range goals we have set will develop into realities. The goals are not set anew each year, they are the results of experience, criticism and need. Now is the time for you to become aware of and start thinking about who will make the best officers and representatives for next year. There are many qualities an officer must have if he is going to succeed. Leadership isn't an overnight accomplishment, nor is it always gained through the years or amount of experience a person has had. Let's begin to give it some thought.

Thank You
Lon Lawson

An informal panel discussion will be hosted by Kappa Delta Pi, December 10, 1964, in GL at 8:00 p.m. involving those ambassadors who participated in this year's Experiment in International Living. Members of the Experiment are: Cathy Cahill who visited Greece, Bev Rabner, who lived in Israel, Peter Belmont who traveled in Egypt and Lon Lawson who visited England. These experimenters will contrast and compare their experiences in the various countries. All students and faculty members are invited to attend and to bring whatever questions they may have. Sophomores! Attendance is required at the orientation meeting for Junior Practicum on Tuesday, Dec. 8 at 4:30 for those students whose last names begin with the letters A-L; students whose last names begin with the letters M-Z will meet on Wednesday, Dec. 9 at 4:30 in the Little Theater. All students and faculty are urged to attend the Paterson State tree lighting ceremony to be held on Tuesday, December 8, at 1:30. The ceremony will take place on the lawn adjacent to the Snack Bar, in front of Hunziker Hall. . . Any boy interested in being Assistant Sports Editor of the Beacon should contact Tom Terreri in the Beacon office. . . For the coming holiday season P.S.C. presents the White Paradise Dance to be held on Saturday, December 12, 1964 at the Memorial Gymnasium. Music will be provided by the Malibus from 8:00-12:00 p.m.

college and joins the graduating class of that year.

Admission requirements to the Six Year Program are identical with those of the day college. A student in the program may apply for a change over to the day college after he has completed 24 semester hours credits of evening studies. However, it is assumed that after five years of evening study, the student will be able to adjust his home or employment responsibilities so that he may complete his final year in full time enrollment.

Banners Exhibited As New Art Form

Banners U.S.A., an exhibition introducing the banner as an art form, is being shown at Paterson State College in the Wing Corridor Gallery through December 9. Ten artists included in the exhibition are Richard Anuszkiewicz, Al Held, Robert Indiana, Alfred Jensen, Nicholas Krushenick, Marisol, George Ortman, Leon Polk Smith, Andy Warhol, and Jack Youngerman.

The introduction of the banner as a new art form took place in June, 1963, at the Graham Gallery in New York City. This initial experiment was prompted by Robert Graham during the 115-day New York City newspaper strike. Mr. Graham commissioned the artists exhibiting at the Gallery to design a flag to hang outside the gallery to announce the exhibit. This art medium is easily handled, light in weight, sturdy, requires neither glass nor frame, and can be packed in shipping tubes.

Plans Revealed For '65 Coronation Ball

At the sophomore class meeting on November 24, plans were revealed for the nomination of candidates for the 1965 Campus Queen selected in connection with Coronation Ball in February. Each Paterson State club will be asked to nominate a woman student as a candidate from their organization, although application blanks will be available to all women students who are presently in the sophomore or junior classes. This provision has been made to give the contest wider appeal and participation. Information will be supplied in the Beacon concerning the time at which application blanks may be secured.

The New Jersey representative for the Miss America Pageant in 1964, Miss Susan Krasnomowitz, was also present at the meeting. She addressed the class on the importance of an active campus queen. Our own campus queen, Miss Evelyn Molinsky, also spoke at the meeting about the way in which she was elected last year and her campus duties.

Coronation Ball Committee reports were also given at this meeting. The committees cited the satisfactory beginnings of work on the Ball, but there is still need for more participation to make the dance successful. There will be two meetings before the Christmas recess: one on December 12 and the second on the 17 at 1:30 p.m. in W 11.

Letters To The Editor

Contributions to this column are the opinions of the readers and, as such, are unsolicited. All letters are required to be of a standard that will reflect the best interests of the college. Anonymous letters will not be printed but names will be withheld on request. The Beacon reserves the right to edit all letters.

Dear Editor:

The members of the Library staff, and especially the Library Exhibits Committee, were greatly disappointed not to see in the November 20th issue of the BEACON any mention of the timely and valuable exhibit now in the Library—a collection of political buttons dating back to 1856.

All information about the exhibit was given to a reporter who came to see Mrs. Carnine after she phoned the BEACON. The information was given well in advance of the publication date of the paper.

Since there will be no BEACON published next week (Ed. note: Nov. 27) and the exhibit will be sent on to another location in the United States, it is unfortunate that the BEACON did not consider this item of sufficient value to find a place for it in a six-page edition.

The exhibits program of the Library forms part of the educational program of the college. This particular exhibit was, or should have been, campus news. Certainly those who came to the Library to see it were impressed—both faculty and students.

Juliette Trainor
Librarian

Editor's Reply: Although the library exhibit mentioned was certainly timely and valuable, there are occasions when it is impossible to print all the information that is submitted to the paper. As we were not notified of the duration of the exhibit at Paterson State, as editor, I reserve the right to "hold" articles for an issue (that is, not print them due to lack of space) until space permits. As you pointed out, the Nov. 20 issue of the BEACON was a six page edition—but the BEACON did not publish for two weeks this past month due to the Teacher's Convention and Thanksgiving, and so we were forced to consolidate 4 weeks' information into 2 issues. Had we been notified at the end of Oct. or very early in Nov. about the exhibit, the article would probably have appeared the first week of Nov., and therefore been more timely and more valuable to faculty and students.

Because the Board of Control felt that the anniversary of President Kennedy's death was worthy of mention by the BEACON, one page was dedicated to the occasion. Had this page been omitted, space would have permitted the exhibit story. The BEACON did not consider the Kennedy page "bunk" or having "nothing to do with the college." Aside from the timeliness of the exhibit, political buttons have nothing to do with the college either.

Dear Mrs. Randall,

The first two copies of the Beacon came yesterday in the sea mail that arrived by truck from Pakistan. They were most welcome and were read last evening article by article. Now we'll turn them over to Stan Hendrickson, then to Walt Simon. Some of the Afghans ask about PSC, like Mr. Shwah of the Compilation and Transtation Department of the Royal Ministry of Education and Dr. Sediq, Dean of the Faculty of Education of Kubul University (who visited Shewah on the Wayne Campus), and others would appreciate seeing the papers.

Things are going very nicely here. The country is making real progress, but of course still has a long, long way to go before it can be completely on its own.

Production on Mitchner's Caravans will begin here next summer with Gregory Peck and maybe Natalie Wood. This should be quite an experience. Walt Simon, as Cultural Affairs Attache of the American Embassy, will be (and has been) very busy with arrangements.

We'll have two Afghan young ladies studying at Teacher's College of Columbia University in New York starting in February (Marghalara and Jamila). It might be nice to have one of the campus groups (or dorm groups) invite them out some time. You can get in touch with Dr. Shoemaker or Mr. Lord of the Afghanistan Project at Teacher's College for arrangements. They are both lovely young girls (English majors) who will win your hearts.

Keep the Beacons coming! The APO address (8 cents Air Mail) would be cheaper than international mail.

Best regards to everyone.

Leon C. Hood

Dear Editor,

Although this letter is addressed to the editor of the Beacon, the writing of it was prompted by my reading of a letter to the editor which appeared in the November 20th issue concerning the Basil Rathbone performance.

The letter to which I refer is the one written by Miss Jo Anne Roe, class of '66. In her letter Miss Roe states that "if we are lucky, we begin to realize that there is more to living than just being part of a group. . . now our individual opinions have become important." I would like to give my answer to Miss Roe's question on whether we know how to express them (our opinions) anymore."

I have little doubt that we know how to express them, but what I do doubt is whether we have the courage to. I personally believe that each student attending this college has, at one time in his career at Paterson, felt the desire to tell a professor that he did not agree with him. In fact, any person who attended this college last year can readily remember certain students and faculty members who had the courage to express their own opinions. What did the students who were not involved in this outward expression learn? Simply, two things: first, that there are many people in education who do not want differing opinions to exist; and second, that if you want that good mark (something which has become a modern necessity irregardless of learning attained), you had better shut up and agree.

Of course, I realize that there are teachers who value the personal opinions of their students and encourage freedom of thought in their classrooms. Unfortunately, such "true teachers" appear few and far between.

Mr. Rathbone, in his very captivating performance, which unfortunately was marred by the extreme rudeness of mark-conscious students, pleaded for students to "write, paint, say and do things that please you. Don't be afraid to sound off or be yourself," he said, "for as long as your desires and ambitions come from your heart, that is most important." To the students who so eagerly search for individuality and freedom of thought, Mr. Rathbone's pleading was, no doubt, like a seldom - heard voice from afar, pleading in the wrong environment. Many minds were probably asking the question, "are there educators who possess these same feelings." "Of course," the answer would come, "you yourself have had one. . . maybe two."

Being a student in the field of education, I can only hope that for students like Miss Roe, myself, and others, and above all, the future students of educators, education will secure teachers who encourage freedom of thought and opinion.

Lycoming Holds Music Competition

The Fourth Annual Intercollegiate Music Competition, sponsored by the Student Union of Lycoming College, will be held at Lycoming in Williamsport, Pennsylvania, on March 25 and 26, 1965. This annual affair provides an opportunity for college vocal and instrumental groups to compete for cash awards totaling $800, as well as trophies, and other prizes.

Instrumental groups of less than full orchestra size will compete on one evening. Prizes of $250, $100, and $50 will be awarded for these winning groups. Any style of music is permitted except "rock and roll." Vocal groups, both folk and popular, will compete on the second night for identical prizes.

Two previous winners in the I. M. C. are now professional groups. The Tradewinds were the grand prize winners of the First I.M.C. in 1962. The City Folk won in the 1963 and 1964 I.M.C. and have been seen on television this past summer.

For further information on the 1965 I.M.C., groups may write to I.M.C., Box 39, Lycoming College, Williamsport, Pennsylvania.

East Orange Plans Educational Plaza

East Orange, New Jersey, recently announced plans which may revolutionize the American educational system. The city will consolidate its present 13 schools into a single 15 acre Educational Plaza to accommodate the city's 10,000 students from Kindergarten through Junior College and completely eliminate the de facto segregation which now exists in schools in Negro neighborhoods. Mr. Robert Seitzer, superintendent of schools in East Orange, spoke to a group of night students here at Paterson State College on Thursday, November 19 explaining the plan. Mr. Seitzer had been invited to speak to the Teacher In School And Community class conducted by Mrs. Dolores Mendel. However, when other instructors heard that Mr. Seitzer was to speak that night, they invited their classes to hear about the Plaza. Mr. Seitzer spoke to approximately 400 students including many from the day division.

Enrollment in the city's schools have filled all the available rooms and each year more students enter and need accommodation. It has become impossible to expand the schools according to the usual pattern without sacrificing efficiency. In a setting, such as the proposed plaza, all children would be brought together for a rich, rewarding, and complete educational experience. Another appealing factor to be considered would be the cost. Even though there have been no estimates, the board president, William L. Hoffman, assured the public that such a plan would cost no more than an expansion program on the existing schools. Those buildings now housing the students would be put up for sale to private enterprises, thus adding to the city's revenue-producing ratables.

The first stage of the plan calls for construction of a "middle school" for 3,000 pupils in grades 5 to 8 as a major pilot project. Among the other buildings there are to be a "resource tower" to include a curriculum center, a junior college, central offices, an in-service training center for teachers, and an experimental workshop for teachers, upper school for grades 9-12, primary school for kindergarten through grade 4, a community center to include a unit of the city's public library, gymnasium and swimming pools, a multi-story open garage, and an all-weather recreation area. A number of private organizations have expressed a desire to contribute to the Plaza. The plaza would operate throughout the year rather than only for 10 months. The total completion of the plan would take 12 to 15 years in seven successive stages.

The proposal will now go before the five-member Board of School Estimate, which controls school spending, after four public meetings in various neighborhoods to acquaint residents with the details.

Dr. Conant Reverses Integration Views

by Dotti Donaldson

The Jet Age is increasingly dominating today's events, but education in the United States seems to be some one-hundred years behind. In a recent article appearing in the New York Herald Tribune, James B. Conant, noted authority in education, reported that the U. S. spends $700 million annually on colleges alone and much more in school programs, but seems to have little to show for it.

The main problem seems to lie with the individual state and local educational policies that vary so extensively from one to another. Many times these programs are poorly planned and executed, since politics have entered into an increasing number of systems. Two immediate steps to solve this problem suggested by Dr. Conant are the reorganization of state departments of education and the development of a master plan for higher education. The success of these two steps as well as the improvement of today's school will depend on how quickly they are put into action.

In another article appearing in the Tribune, Mr. Conant makes a public statement as to his reversal of the opinion "that a satisfactory education can be provided in an all Negro school." This quote appeared in Dr. Conant's book Slums and Suburbs, and caused much controversy among civil rights workers. In his new book, Shaping Educational Policy, published today by the McGraw-Hill

Co., Dr. Conant proposes the very opposite, "the greater number of mixed schools the better."

To achieve this goal he firmly backs a radical redistricting of school zones by the state. Combining city slum districts with nearby white suburban districts would most certainly be included, if necessary, to obtain a fairly representative ratio. If this should fail to achieve a good mixture in the schools, he then advocates the busing of secondary school children. He does, however, feel that it would be wise to have the elementary schools remain neighborhood ones "even if many were as a consequence essentially all - Negro."

While fanning the fire with these proposals, Dr. Conant adds fuel to the flames when he also advocates the establishment of a new body to make educational policy. Stating that the N.E.A., local school boards, state departments of education and pro-

Basketball is in full swing. In spite of PSC's 100-81 opening defeat at the hands of a powerful Upsala squadron, the Pioneer cagers showed signs of vast improvement over recent Paterson teams - in spirit as well as ability. This year PSC will not be the "winless wonders."

Paterson State plays host to NCE this Saturday. Naturally, a capacity crowd is expected to cheer our boys on their first victory of the '64-65 campaign. Paterson made an excellent showing last Tuesday, as the Upsala gymnasium was completely jammed with spectators, many of which were local faithfuls.

Support is a necessary factor in determining whether or not a team will have a successful season or not. It is a very comforting feeling to be on the court, while spectators cheer wildly in making a valid attempt to see the squad do the correct thing. It's really a wild time. So give yourself a treat and come out Saturday night to see the encounter (And you thought The Rolling Stones were wild!). Varsity post time is 8:15, and the JV battle will start at 6:15 sharp. See you there.

Pioneers Drop Season Opener

by Doug Bryan

East Orange, opening its 1964 cage campaign here Tuesday, dropped a decision to Upsala the Paterson State Pioneers 103-81.

The squad can look forward to better luck in the future according to coach Ken Wolff who stresses the youth of his club and their ability to act as a unit.

6-5 Steve Clancy paced Pioneer and game scoring netting 9 two pointers and 12 free throws for a total of 30 points. Bill Zaranka contributed 28 points to the winner's cause.

After a good start in the opening minutes of play the Pioneers fell victims to their own sloppy ball handling and bad passing. Doing a big job on the boards as well as in the scoring department was the Viking's Zaranka who used his 6-2 height to full advantage.

After almost seven minutes of even play in the second half the Vikings broke loose to score 10 straight points spreading their advantage to 37 points, 85-48. Tightening up on defense Paterson was able to hold Upsala to a scant 7 points for the last seven minutes of play. The Pioneers made 53 percent of their shots from the floor, sinking 28 of 53 attempts. Upsala hit on 43 of its 83 tries for just over an even 50 percent.

Paterson meets Newark College of Engineering at home tomorrow. Game time is 8:15.

64 - 65 Basketball Roster Announced

Paterson State's 1964-1965 Varsity Basketball Roster has been released by PSC Coach Ken Wolf, assistant professor of health and physical education. The Pioneers are led by co-captains Steve Clancy and Bill Joosten. Clancy, a 6'5" junior, played well last year as a sophomore. He is strong off both boards and can be seen time and again leading the fast break. Last year he made the N.J.S.C.A.C. second team, and finished second in the league in scoring. Joosten is a good back court man who can drive well and has a good one hand shot. With the experience he gained last year, he should be an essential member of the team.

Bob Clair is a junior transfer forward who can become a valuable player for the PSC squad. He can rebound well and is aggressive on defense. Tom DeStefano, a sophomore out of Central High School in Paterson, shoots well, is a real hard driver and has a terrific knack of hitting the open man with crisp, accurate passes. Tom gained much valuable experience playing as a freshman with the varsity team. A junior guard, Vince Ditta led the squad with his steady play until an injury suffered in the seventh game sidelined him for the season. He can shoot from the outside with anyone and is a fine playmaker.

Harry Dodds is a junior forward who can go either left or right and has a fine outside shot. He is a strong rebounder and has worked hard to gain a starting forward assignment. Jim Fells, a junior transfer backcourt man, has a good jump shot and a good touch on his shots in close. Bill Kopcho is a 6'6" junior, can hook left or right and has a good one hander.

NOTICE

Students are needed to learn the jobs of timer, scorer, and statistician for the coming basketball season. All interested candidates should contact Coach Wolf immediately.

English Classes Visit Homes of Poe, Irving

On November 25, four classes of American Literature and Junior English majors took a field trip to New York and saw the stark contrast in the homes of two well-known authors. First visited was the tiny Poe cottage on Kingsbridge Road in Fordham. Second stop was Sunnyside, the luxurious estate of Washington Irving in Tarrytown.

Quietly, students filed through the dark, shabby rooms, sparsely furnished, where Edgar Allan Poe wrote "Annabel Lee" and where he watched his wife Virginia die. They saw the kitchen with its low iron stove and the small table with the red-checked cloth where the family ate meals often donated by neighbors. To the poet, a storm center of personal and literary controversy in the 1840's, his reputation still slight, the cottage was a refuge as well as a place of suffering.

From Fordham, busses traveled to the ten-acre estate of the author of "Rip Van Winkle" and "The Legend of Sleepy Hollow." First sighted was Irving's "Little Mediterranean," a well-stocked duck pond. As students filed down the path leading to the main house, guides described Irving's re-modelling of the original cottage with large sums of money earned from "The Sketch Book" and other popular works. Well - established as an author on each side of the Atlantic, Irving made Sunnyside a center of hospitality for visitors abroad. Students saw the comfortable study where he wrote his biography of Washington, stood at French windows overlooking the Hudson, noted the richly furnished dining room with its gold - trimmed chinaware, and walked through the parlor where in the evening he played the flute to his niece's piano accompaniment.

Third stop was the Sleepy Hollow Cemetery and a visit to the family plot of the Irvings. Also noticed were many Dutch inscriptions on monuments and the frequent occurrence of such names as "Van Tassel" and "Van Winkle."

The purpose of the trip was to enable future teachers to experience the mood and conditions under which the gloom and horror of the Poe literature and the brightness of the Irving work were developed. Professors accompanying the classes were Dr. Eunice Wallace, Dr. Donald Duclos, and Miss Elizabeth De Groot.

fessors of education lack interest and competence to deal with the current educational problems, he feels a body such as an Interstate Commission for Planning a Nationwide Educational Policy, set up by the states and Congress approved would be a good step forward in solving these difficulties. "Each state would be ready to listen to any conclusions of the commission, but, of course, would not be bound to follow its recommendations."

In referring to his integration program, Dr. Conant does admit to a fault such a plan would entail; that some schools (in New York especially) will still contain 90 per cent Negro or 90 per cent white. And if largescale busing of both Negro and white pupils were initiated, a large percentage of the 456,000 students would be involved.

With the current "jumble" of public and private institutions, Dr. Conant pins his hopes on strong state action rather than Federal reform. The future will be lost if the state will not devise statewide educational bodies excluding political interference.

WRA Plans Skiing Trip

The Women's Recreation Association has added skiing to this year's activity program. The first ski trip, to Davos, New York, is planned for Monday, December 28. All interested girls, experienced or not, are invited to sign up now in Memorial Gymnasium. The bus for the trip will leave Paterson State at 7 a.m. on December 28 and will return to the campus at about 5:30 p.m. The cost for the day is $13.00, which includes: $3.00 bus transportation, $4.00 for an all-day lift ticket, $3.00 for a two-hour ski lesson, and $3.00 for rental of skis, boots and poles.

In conjunction with the first ski party is the "Ski Preview," under the direction of Mrs. Carole Bradley, assistant professor of physical education. This program will be an introduction to skiing. Films will be shown, in addition to an equipment demonstration. All girls who intend to join the ski party must be present at this preview. A $3.00 non-refundable deposit will be collected at that time.
