Professor Discusses Our Need Of Materials

"We need the underdeveloped nations as suppliers of raw materials," declared Dr. Paul Vouras, associate professor of social science, in a speech delivered to the International Relations Club on March 4, 1965.

Dr. Vouras remarked "that the preservation of our present status as the most powerful and most prosperous nation in the world largely depends on our ability to secure the critical raw materials, such as bauxite, manganese, cobalt, copper, chrome, etc. These raw materials are vital to our nation's industry." He mentioned the United States has more or less depleted its main deposits of both ferrous and non-ferrous minerals and has been forced to look elsewhere for these minerals. According to the Palley report, more than two-thirds of our raw materials will come from the underdeveloped areas by 1970. Dr. Vouras commented, "Our present standard of living will suffer drastically if we fail to provide the producers of capital and non-capital goods with a dependable supply of raw materials. To lose the mineral resources of the underdeveloped nations to the Soviet bloc would be downright dangerous not only for us but also for the West, e.g., Western Europe depends for its oil supply on the Middle East and North Africa. Also, the United States depends on India and Brazil for its manganese requirement. One of the major aspects of Soviet economic foreign policy is to estrange these nations from us."

According to Dr. Vouras, the economic aspects of the Cold War between the United States and the Soviet Union are over the control of the world's mineral resources. This idea was better expressed by an American mineralogist who said during the Second World War that "he who controls the minerals of the world controls the world."

Dr. Vouras also stated that "We must aid the underdeveloped countries to improve their economies. They need all kinds of financial and technical assistance to liberate themselves as soon as possible from the shackles of hunger, poverty, disease, and illiteracy. If we fail to assist them, they may choose means that are repellent to the West, i.e., they may adopt communist solutions to economic, social, and political problems. It is a conceit to think that other nations must follow in the West's footsteps or fail."

Summarizing his speech, Dr. Vouras said that before we provide these nations with more economic aid we must answer this question: How many of our industries are we willing to dismantle in order to help our friends, the underdeveloped nations?

is taken on a guided tour of zany, madcap adventures with a disarming scoundrel at the helm. Never has a rake's progress been so realistically sketched for a sophisticated audience.

"Felix Krull" Set By English Club

The Confessions of Felix Krull, a motion picture achievement based upon the novel of the same name by Thomas Mann, is the next offering of the English Club on March 18 at 7:30 p.m. The film, directed by Kurt Hoffman and starring Horst Buchholz and Lisa Pulver, is the cinematic creation of Mann's last novel and retains the wit and gaiety which Mann poured into his work despite his advanced age. As the picturesque rogue Felix Krull, Horst Buchholz borrows elements of Don Juan and Macchiavelli as he encounters lovely creatures like Zaza, portrayed by Lisa Pulver, and charms them wherever he goes.

This film is a masterpiece of boldness and invention, and a richly documented testimonial of Man's follies. Through the singularly effective capabilities of creative cinema, the audience

Pictures Needed For Afghanistan

The following letter was received by Dr. Paul P. Vouras, associate professor of social science, by Dr. Stanford Hendrickson, on leave from Paterson State College. Dr. Hendrickson is now working as a social studies specialist with the Columbia University team working in Kabul University in Afghanistan.

"I would like to suggest a project for your International Relations Club or any other group in the college for which you think this suggestion is appropriate.

We need here in our social studies, all grades, pictures suitable for bulletin board displays. These pictures could be of practically anything - people, animals, industrial processes, transportation, highways - anything at all which we could put on the board to show how the rest of the world lives.

The teachers here have practically no resource of this sort at all and the magazines and newspapers of the country carry pictures which are not always suitable for bulletin board work. Anything you can do about this will be greatly appreciated by everyone here."

Any students in the college interested in cooperating in such a project should see Dr. Vouras as soon as possible for further information.

DR. ALBERT MARCKWARDT OF PRINCETON UNIVERSITY will be the guest speaker at the faculty conference on teaching English to be held at Paterson State on Wednesday, March 17.

Paterson To Host English Conference

"Articulation of High School and College English," is the title of a conference to be held at Paterson State College March 17. The conference, slated for high school and college English teachers, will be held in Wayne Hall from 4:00 p.m. until 9:00 p.m.

Highlighting the conference will be guest speaker Dr. Albert Marckwardt of Princeton University, a leader in the field of linguistics. He has served as advisor in language for several government organizations, has been a Fulbright lecturer at the Universities of Vienna and Graz in Austria, and is the author of several textbooks on English.

After registration and "greetings" by Dr. John R. McRae, chairman of the English department, the conference will separate into several panels, chaired by three P.S.C. professors. Moderator of Panel I, "Literature," is Dr. Mare C. Davidow, associate professor of English. The panel discussion on "Composition" will be moderated by Dr. Donald P. Duclos, assistant professor of English, while the discussion on "Linguistics" will be moderated by Dr. John P. Runden, professor of English.

Following these discussions, there will be a dinner and a welcome offered by Dr. Marion E. Shea, President of the college. An "Interlude," a jazz and poetry session, will then be presented by Dr. Richard Nickson and Dr. Martin Krivin of P.S.C. Dr. Nickson will read poetry to the accompaniment of the improvised jazz of Dr. Krivin and Vinson Hill of New York, a jazz pianist.

Dr. John McRae is chairman of the entire conference. Faculty who will attend the conference include English chairmen and cooperating teachers in P.S.C.'s student teaching program in English from a six-country area: Hudson, Bergen, Morris, Passaic, Essex, and Sussex.

Paterson State graduates and current senior English majors will serve as guides, hostesses and parking attendants to greet guests as they arrive.

SEA Presents Dr. Raubinger

Dr. Frederick M. Raubinger, New Jersey Commissioner of Education, will be the guest speaker at the Student Education Association meeting to be held March 25 in W101 at 1:30 p.m. Dr. Raubinger's topic will be "What It Means to be a Teacher."

Dr. Raubinger was the guest speaker at the convocation of Paterson State College on October 1, 1964. At that time he spoke about what the college student gets out of his school. He said, "It depends on the interaction between student and professor and student and subject matter and on what happens to the student as a person as he goes through college."

The S.E.A. has invited the entire faculty and student body to Dr. Raubinger's discussion.

Two Or Three Words

There are three primary groups on this campus - students, faculty and administration. Of the three of these groups, the student body is the most transient. This transiency is unavoidable and one of the difficulties besetting college life. Any concessions made to the student body are made with the idea in mind that, though its effects are permanent, these being immediately effected are due to leave within a specific amount of time. The long-range effects of this transitory feeling would be deadening were it not for the binding effects of the Student Government Association. Now, however, the time has come when the student body of this college must reexamine the power structure of their governing body.

Each succeeding generation of freshmen replaces a slightly smaller number of graduated seniors. This never-ending cycle contains its own built-in methods of destruction. The freshmen become sophomores and some of them begin to take part in college life. They become aware of the opportunities open to them. Since their number is steadily increasing, it would seem as if the amount of those possessing this awareness would also increase. But it does not. Instead it is steadily decreasing. Is this due to a feeling of apathy which is wider than the boundaries of this college? We think not. We feel that it lies within the present system of election of Student Government personnel. As each succeeding student administration takes office, he begins anew acquainting himself with the various machinations of his office. By the time he becomes fully familiar with his functions, it is budget time and the end of his term. He is now retired to limbo and his government-oriented soul moulders until graduation and he is gone. As a result the system, through no particular fault of his, has destroyed itself.

What must happen is patently obvious. The governmental structure of this college must be re-organized. What seems to be the most obvious and easiest remedy is to hold elections at the end of the Fall semester and all SGA offices are filled at the outset of the Spring semester. Class offices will be held at the same time as at present in order to provide a continuum.

Since this proposal would affect every member of the student body, we want to hear from you. The Beacon mailbox is located in Huziker Hall. Two or three words will be sufficient.

Just a few sports shorts now that we have a lull in the major athletic program at Paterson State. — The Mens Fencing Team lost a close one to Army last Saturday, to put their record at 11-2. . . The Women's Fencing Team remains undefeated winning their last two matches with the expert foiling of Arleen Melnick and Cindy Jones. . . Newark State College has picked Steve Clancy as the best player they have faced all season. . . Mark Evangelista and Joe DeStefano have been elected co-captains of this year's Pioneer Baseball Team. . .

Looking around the Snack-Bar lately I've noticed that the three Chess sets owned by the College Center are constantly in use. With the great interest in chess, I'm wondering why Paterson State College doesn't have a Chess Club and Chess Team? If anyone is interested in becoming a member of such a club please put your name on a piece of paper and bring it to the Beacon Office, c/o Bench Chatter. If the response is great enough, we will inquire as to the possibility of such a venture.

Don't forget — Next Saturday, March 20 the P.S.C. Cheerleaders will host the Metropolitan Intercollegiate Cheerleading Competition here at Paterson State. There will be about nine colleges in the N.Y.-N.J. area represented in the competition. The Cheerleaders need your support, so come early (to get a seat) and watch our girls go for the championship.
