PSC Professor Publishes

Two major works on China have been published by a Paterson State College history professor, tracing that nation's development from 1517 to the present time.

The books are "China in Transition: 1517-1911" and "The Road to Communism: China Since 1912", by Dr. Dun J. Li, professor of history at Paterson State. Both books have been published in this country and Canada by the Van Nostrand Reinhold Company of New York, Toronto and London.

Dr. Li, a native of China, holds a Ph.D. from the University of Wisconsin. Prior to joining the Paterson State faculty, he taught at the National University of Political Science in Nanking, China; the University of Dubuque; North Dakota State College, and was visiting professor of history at Oklahoma State University and Antioch College.

He is also the author of "British Malaya: An Economic Analysis"; "The Ageless Chinese:

Experts Call Higher Education "Needy"

Some of the particular higher education needs of North Jersey residents are underscored in a joint statement on the nationwide situation by two national education groups, Dr. James Karge Olsen, president of Paterson State College, said today.

Dr. Olsen referred to the recently published "Recommendations for National Action Affecting Higher Education" by the American Association of State Colleges and Universities and the National Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges.

Dr. Olsen Stated: "The unmet needs in higher education throughout the country which were pinpointed in this statement have special relevance for New Jersey, particularly where colleges are attempting to focus on the problems of young people in urban areas."

The Paterson State president concurred in the basic conclusion of the two associations that the primary problem in federal support of higher education was the failure of Congress to appropriate funds for programs already authorized. In the area of financial assistance for students, he noted, the report showed that only 100,000 new Educational Opportunity Grants were provided, half of what is regarded as the minimum needed, and that only a portion of the money authorized for the National Defense Student Loan Fund has been released for use at the time of the report's publication.

He added that only $9.5 million in actual funds had been

Despite their recent political opposition to each other, Mr. John Alfieri and Mr. Bruce James formed a coalition to inspire better communication between the ruling forces in Trenton and the general student body. The first of these meetings took place Wednesday, April 1, in the Chancellor's office in Trenton.

These meetings were conceived when Mr. Dungan last came to PSC. Upon questioning from Bruce James about the duties and roles of a Chancellor, Mr. Dungan replied that he would be happy to have some students come down to meet with him and observe him as he worked. Following up on his suggestion, Mr. James set up an appointment with the Chancellor for spring recess and invited John Alfieri to come with him as an elected representative of the student body. Also present were Mary Ann Ross, Editor-In-Chief of BEACON, James Shilltani, and Gary Cooper.

Olsen Institutes "Speculum"

The establishment of "Speculum," a bi-weekly campus publication, has been announced by President Olsen.

The publication will carry official announcements of the Paterson State administration, along with news of faculty activities, a calendar of events and other items of special interest. It will be distributed campus-wide.

In outlining the purpose of "Speculum," Dr. Olsen said: "With the growing complexity and size of our campus and colleges everywhere, communications has become perhaps the single most overriding campus problem, particularly between constituencies, that is between administration and faculty, students and faculty, administration and students, and so forth. "Speculum" has been established in response to that problem.

"Speculum" will be published by the Community Relations

PSC Students Discuss Education In Trenton With Chancellor Dungan

Although a major portion of the discussion was devoted to improving the voice of the student in state wide politics the discussion was also devoted to the individual needs of Paterson State in the near and distant future.

One of the vehicles suggested for accentuating the influence of student power was the creation and implication of a state wide student government association. Bruce James, who innovated and is currently working to implement the idea of the state wide organization, was able to secure "wholehearted support" for the idea and a commitment by the Chancellor to respect its ideas and work with it. The creation of this organization concluded Mr. James, "is still in the planning stages but with a concerted effort will be in operation by the fall."

Concerning the issue of land for Paterson State, the Chancellor stated, contrary to the rumor suggesting that 100 acres of land was being taken away from Paterson State, the State Board would consider the purchase of 100 additional acres of land if such a proposal was accompanied by a detailed report showing the purpose the land will serve.

Some BSU Proposals Will Become A Reality

In a statement directed towards the Black Student Union, President James Karge Olsen described the progress Paterson State College has made concerning the recent proposals of the Black Students Union. He pointed out that he felt that "many gains have been made in having Paterson

Language To Be Panel Subject

Several eminent authorities in the area of the English language will participate in a panel discussion entitled "The Revolution in Changing Standards of Decorum of Language." The discussion, which is open to all students, will feature five noted speakers which include Edward Carpenter, Peter Davies, William Caldwell, and Dr. Carol Galligan. The fifth speaker has not yet been chosen. The program will be moderated by Dr. Robert Kloss.

Mr. Edward Carpenter is presently Headmaster of Harlem Preparatory School. He has gained recognition, along with his school, for his work towards bringing ghetto youths to successful college careers.

Mr. Peter Davies is the editor of the American Heritage Dictionary. His work on this particular dictionary has made it a best seller for several weeks.

Mr. William Caldwell will represent the journalistic viewpoint of the present modern

Federal Program Criticized

CPS

President Nixon's proposals to revamp federal aid to college students have been blasted by the higher education lobby and applauded by the American Bankers Association.

Nixon's new plan, which must be approved by Congress before going into effect, provides for an end to the National Defense Student Loan Program. In its place would be established the National Student Loan Association, which would "enable all students to obtain government guaranteed loans," according to Nixon.

Interest on these loans would be at market rate, currently 9 1/4 per cent per year. Unlike the current program, where the government pays interest while the student is in school, interest payments would be deferred until "the borrower is well out of school and earning a good income." This would be accomplished by "extending the maximum repayment period from 10 to 20 years."

Nixon estimated that the NSLA would buy up to $2 billion in student loan paper from banks and colleges. NSLA would raise money by selling stock to financial institutions. Students would be able to borrow up to $2,500 per year, up from the current $1,500.

"The ability of all students to obtain loans would be increased," Nixon stated. "The financial base of post-secondary education would be correspondingly strengthened. It is significant that this would be done at no cost to the federal taxpayer."

All federal aid to students whose parents have gross incomes of over $10,000 would be ended by the new proposals. Nixon called this a step toward revamping student aid "so that it places more emphasis on helping low income students than it does today."

"Something is basically wrong with federal policy toward higher education when it has failed to correct inequity, and when government programs spending $5.3 billion yearly have largely been disjointed, ill-directed and without a coherent long range plan."

The American Bankers Association reacted gleefully to the plan which would increase bank profits by dropping the present 7 per cent ceiling on federally guaranteed student loans. They called it "a most constructive recommendation."

State College assume a role in helping to bring minority groups into the mainstream of American life. In addition he cited an increase of 500-600 per cent of minority group students on the PSC campus, the institution of a special remedial semester and a community service semester, redoubled efforts of the admissions department to recruit minority students, and the formation of many black studies courses.

Not all of the proposals of the Black Student Union, however, have been realized. An autonomous department of Black Studies was not accepted by the President at this time. He said, "A black studies major is also under consideration within existing local and state procedures and guidelines."

The faculty Senate Executive Committee recommended, "That an Institute of Black Studies with an acting Director, who is to be responsible to the Dean of Special Programs, be established immediately."

"That the present Coordinator of the Black Studies Program, Professor Vernon McClean, be appointed acting Director."

"That the responsibility and authority for offering Black Studies courses be transferred to

Federal Aid

But the American Council on Education said the message signaled a "Fundamentally undesirable shift to high interest loans as a major national approach to the financing of higher education."

The cutoff of aid at $10,000 is liable to be heavily criticized in Congress. Middle income taxpayers are likely to inform their representatives that they aren't able to pay the cost of a college education, no matter what the President says. They will also point out the plan makes no allowance for families with two or more children in college at the same time.

In dealing with the rise of Communism in China, Dr. Li has bypassed all the observations and judgements of western diplomats and specialists and has used almost exclusively Communist or Communist-oriented sources. According to Dr. Li: "Whatever criticism it might induce, the use of Communist documents has one unmatched or unsurpassable advantage: As Communist documents, they are clearly and easily recognized as serving a Communist purpose."

The book comprises 102 selections, most of which have been translated by the author himself.

The book dealing with the earlier history of China contains 89 translations of original works, nearly all translated by the author. It traces the gradual influence of the West starting from the arrival of the Portuguese in China in 1517.

change the ratio of students to faculty members from 16-1 to 18 to 1. His comment came in answer to John Alfieri's concern for educational facilities in enlarged classroom atmospheres. Alfieri also asserted the need for "young blood on the Board of Trustees". The Chancellor concurred with this observation while seriously questioning the advisability of substituting a board consisting of students, administrators, and faculty members for the Board of Trustees was suggested by Mr. James during the discussion.

There was also speculation by the students present about the possibility of building Paterson State into New Jersey's second state University. While the day language revolution. He is associate editor of the Sunday Record and also serves as chairman of the Paterson State College Board of Trustees.

Dr. Carol Galligan is a clinical psychologist and will give insight into the psychological factor of language change.

This particular program was chosen by the English department because the English professor has traditionally been regarded as the keeper of the word and has been most aware of the change in the language.

The discussion will be April 14, at 10:30 in Shea Center.

Chancellor did not dismiss the idea completely he did say that many things could happen in the next few years that might change the complexity of the state's needs and wants. Upon further discussion the Chancellor encouraged Bruce James to request a place on the goals and policy committee. Mr. James wishes to use this seat in the future as a lobbying point for further consideration of Paterson State as the site of next state university.

Students present were most encouraged by the assertion by Chancellor Dungan that the State has the obligation to absorb, "the substantial if not total cost" of the College Union Building currently being planned for Paterson State. Previously the planning committee for the building estimated that the costs of the building would have to be absorbed by the student body in the form of a 38 year mortgage. This plan was devised in response to the state's reluctance to pay for the construction.

The students left the chancellor's office committed to the preparation of a report, requested by the Chancellor detailing the student view on such problems as tenure, student needs, and curriculum planning. There was also an affirmation that both sides would try to maintain the lines of communication they had established at the meeting.

Editorial High Hopes

It was our honor and pleasure to be part of a group of interested students who traveled to Trenton to meet with the Chancellor of Higher Education Ralph Dungan. Despite the fact that we have often been disappointed in the past and bear the scars of previous battles with Trenton, this time we were encouraged by what we found. Now don't get us wrong, we're not exactly wide-eyed and innocent but we do feel, we think, justifiably confident of a few basic issues.

Perhaps the most encouraging note of discussion was the concession by Dungan that the state had the obligation, to pay "the substantial if not total cost" of the new College Union Building. The state's previous silence on the subject of building subsidy was interpreted as rejection in the minds of all concerned in the project. Consequently an elaborate plan of payment through student activity fees was devised placing the student body in the position of living with a 38 year mortgage.

It is no wonder that the concerned students who visited the Chancellor Wednesday took issue with him on it. Here's where the accomplishment came. We didn't badger or twist arms or raise our voices we simply questioned and received the Chancellor's commitment to do everything within his power to see that Paterson State students be spared the unjust burden of payment for a state building.

Does the Chancellor's word and willingness to pay for the new College Union Building mean that it will happen? It is only fair to say we have no guarantees.

But if we seem a little more enthusiastic than usual about this new occurrence perhaps it's because we keep hearing the words of Chairman Caldwell when he spoke of the Board's decision to back the president's decision to "fire" the student personnel members. At that time he said, "It will be a sorry day when the Board of Trustees goes against the President." Let's hope it will be a sorry day when the Board of Higher Education goes against the expressed wishes of the Chancellor of Higher Education.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Cafeteria

Dear Editor:

Miss Daniels' letter of March 23 should be of interest to all patrons of the lounge and cafeteria in Wayne Hall. I was not aware that (in addition to the regular campus pigs) Paterson State had been blessed with a vigilante student determined to weed out the moral and spiritual degenerates who supposedly frequent Wayne Hall (including small puppies). As for the gambling that seems to horrify this student due to the fact that money changes hands during the age-old game of chance, I would advise Miss Daniels to face the reality of the fact that a person's money is his own to do with as he wishes. Her statement that money is "the stuff that most of us bust our tails for" insinuated that these people did not work for their money. I know for a fact that this is not true.

Regardless of the legalities surrounding gambling, puppies, and other such illicit campus activities, the patrons of Wayne Hall Lounge have worked to protect individual freedom in this area of the campus. If you want to "look out windows, see the campus, and check on the arrival of spring", why don't you try the Snack Bar or one of the other lounge areas on campus. I personally resented the aura of moral indignation that pervaded the letter, and although I do not necessarily condone illegal activities, I feel that numerous injustices take place on this campus that are more urgent than a poker game or a puppy's untrained kidneys.

Signed,
Betsy Hays

Daniels Reply

Dear Editor

I would like to comment on an article written by Miss Rose Lynn Daniels on March 23. I hate to disillusion the girl but if she can not take to the events at the cafeteria, she is going to have many problems in later life. For example, if Miss Daniels did not care for the dog at our table, it would have been better if she had come to us to express her dislike of the animal's presence. Instead, Rose Lynn decided upon writing an article in the BEACON giving a completely distorted view of our actions. Miss Daniels stated that the smell in the cafeteria was caused by the dog, this is untrue because no one but her stated this and there were many students who saw the dog. Rose said that we are a "miscellaneous group of immatures", if she doesn't know that we are a group of people she is in trouble. Does this girl not know what fun is? Is she just another person who is trying to lead the lives of others and thereby save the world? I WOULD KINDLY ASK Miss Daniels not to impose her moral codes upon us. I would think that anything above a laugh would disturb the girl.

Hoping not to excite the girl into another case of verbal diarrhea, I remain...

In this age of Aquarius where such musicals as Hair, Stomp, and Salvation thrive, we at college are subjected to such sentimental, candy-coated slush as Carnival.

Library

Dear Editor:

Each day someone becomes a victim of AP376.A8 and others like it. Each day someone innocently writes these numbers down and begins the impossible dream - to find a book in the Paterson State College library by using the catalog numbers. Then by luck or genius a seeker may find the section of shelves containing the first five or six digits of his number. Trembling with anticipation the seeker searches the shelves to find the book with the matching digits. Alas, the space where the book might have been is vacant. Not losing hope the seeker finds the next set of numbers on his list and proceeds with caution to the shelves indicated. (It was fortunate for the seeker that he had had a course in hieroglyphics.) At last, the seeker had found QP376; he moves on; now he's found QP376.A; again he moves on; QP376.A5, A6, A7, A9. So near and yet so far, everything but A8. Where is A8? The space is vacant, the seeker falls, his catalog card held tightly in his hand. The explanation is simple; either the books are stacked behind the check-out desk, shelved in the wrong sections or stolen. If I am mistaken in my observations and the difficulty in finding these books is really caused by gremlins, (not the car), that eat the books then I apologize to the librarians.

Until these gremlins are captured all I have to say is:

Don't burn your draft card; burn your PSC library card.

Sincerely,
Andrea Badami

SGA

Dear Editor:

If feel that the administration faculty, and the Student Government Association should be proud of their great communication with the student body and for being so informative, (cough, cough). I always hear the cry for student participation from these three areas yet we are not informed of what there is to participate in. By the time the students are informed, it seems that the positions are no longer available.

Recently there was a meeting of the Higher Board of Education at Wayne Hall yet the few students who attended, attended by accident because they just happened to be around. That's because of the great publicity on the part of the administration.

Also, I am proud of the Faculty Senate Committee Chairmen for informing the students on the committees when and where to meet, (cough, cough again). I have heard from a few faculty members that the students are unreliable because they do not attend the committee meetings. Besides the fact that the students are accused of not attending committee meetings, they are not even asked what a convenient time would be to meet! It is true that certain student members are apathetic and unreliable but it is the responsibility of the faculty chairman to deal with this matter and make public any vacancies available.

Even the Student Government Association has not been communicating with the student body at large. A few Student Government Representatives came to me to ask me when the SGA elections would be and I had to tell them that I did not know! I am not putting the blame on any one person, but I am putting the blame on the whole Executive Board collectively. I don't see how we can expect a harmonious student body if we ourselves are disorganized. We complain about non-communication with the student body, yet a small Executive Board of 10 people can't even communicate within its own structure!

On April 10 & 11 there will be an Academic Governance weekend. I will bet that even he people attending this governance weekend won't be able to communicate among themselves yet when they return they will try to communicate to the student body all about academic governance.

I think that the faculty and administration should stop blaming the students for everything that goes wrong and the students should stop blaming the faculty and administration. Each area is responsible for its own mistakes. When the time comes when each area starts doing something about its own mistakes, then maybe the lines of communication will be open!

Regretfully submitted,

From the President's Desk

Students, faculty and administrators have been watching with considerable concern the general discussion over the proposed new SGA constitution which was rejected in a student referendum recently. The controversy over the proposal was not unexpected, since the constitution is the fountain for SGA operation, and was bound to generate varied reactions. In any case, the result at the polls leaves the constitutional question unresolved, and the campus community shares the interest of students in their working out a measure that all segments of the student body can, at least, live with.

On the basis of my own interest in the issue I would like to pass along a suggestion for one possible avenue to this goal. I am referring to a Constitutional Convention for the PSC student body. This procedure would certainly meet objections raised in some quarters that the student body was not sufficiently involved in the new constitution, despite sincere efforts of all involved to gain as wide a student input as possible. An open convention would afford maximum opportunity for expression of views and minimize bitterness among some students who might feel alienated from the decision making process in this highly significant matter. Certainly the unique nature of such an event would help in calling attention to the issue and overcoming some of the apathy that has been evident in such situations.

Final Exam Schedule

The final exam schedule for the present semester is constructed to include all courses which will have a final examination.

This schedule is based on the existing master schedule of classes so that all courses meeting at a particular hour will have their exam at a common time, in the rooms where they have been scheduled all semester.

Example: All courses meeting Monday first will have their final exam on Thursday, May 21.

The only exceptions to this are the common departmental examinations which have been in existence. These have been scheduled at a time which will not conflict with the total final examination schedule.

It is possible that a few conflicts exist during the time exams are scheduled. If so, instructors and students may use the allotted time for conflicts or may resolve these conflicts at a mutually convenient time. Any classroom not being used for a final exam can be considered an appropriate place to give a conflict exam. All such arrangements can be finalized by notifying Miss Prioli, ext. 235.

Please check this schedule carefully. If any discrepancies exist, please contact me immediately.

Please be reminded that final grades for the Spring Semester are due in the Registrar's Office no later than 12:00 noon, May 22 for seniors and 12:00 noon, May 29 for underclassmen.

Salemansky Falls Critically Ill

Mr. Carl Salamensky, the Director of Student Placement, was reported in fine condition today recovering from his recent kidney operation. Mr. Salamensky, on the staff here since February 1968, was forced by the urgency of his operation to take a leave of absence for several weeks.

Concern among the students has been surprisingly intense regarding Mr. Salamensky's condition. Not known to many students below the senior grade, Mr. Salamensky has been instrumental in recent years in alleviating much of the uncertainty which previously accompanied finding a job upon graduation. Said one senior last week upon hearing of Mr. Salamensky's illness, "I really take it as a personal shock. Mr. Salamensky, aside from doing a tremendous job for the students, is a fine person. I hope everything goes well for him." Added Assistant Registrar Vincent Caranno, "Carl is really remarkable. Here the man worked for some time facing an operation which could jeopardize his life, and I never once heard him complaining. In fact, many times when I've been in a depressed mood, Carl has gotten me out of it. He's a good man."

All however, is not as rosy as it may appear. The costs of the type of operation Mr. Salamensky has undergone are extremely high. According to Miss Jane Winters, acting director of Placement, "The expenses related to Carl's operation are very high. I hope something could be done to take some of the stress off of his shoulders."

A committee has been formed recently to collect funds to help underwrite Mr. Salamensky's expenses. Coordinated by Miss Ann Yusaitiss and Mr. Dominic Bocolo, the group is planning to take its plea to all campus groups as well as alumni. One graduate, when asked if he would contribute, said, "Definitely. Mr. Salamensky was a tremendous help to me last year. I was going through a period of great indecision, and fortunately I met him. He sat down with me spent the whole afternoon talking about my interests and preferences. I would definitely make a contribution."

It is hoped that any person or group of persons interested in helping Mr. Salamensky bear the great burden of his operation, will contact either Miss Yusaitiss or Mr. Bocolo, both in Haledon Hall. The need is quite urgent.

Income tax

A student who earned $600 or more during 1969 must file a Federal income tax return on or before April 15, 1970, even though he will not have to pay a tax unless he earned at least $900.

Students must also file returns to obtain a refund of any income taxes withheld from their earnings even if they earned less than $600.

When you file your return, you claim your own exemption but your parents may also claim you as a dependent if they provided more than half of your support during 1969.

If you - or your parents - have any questions about your status as a student and as a taxpayer, a phone call or visit to your nearest Internal Revenue Service office will provide the answers.

Education

approved for the Community Service and Continuing Education Act out of $50 million which was authorized. This act was intended to be the major vehicle for enlisting the resources of colleges and universities in solving urgent community problems and providing opportunity for further education for adult citizens, Dr. Olsen said.

"In the North Jersey area, these measures have special relevance, and I would strongly support the position of the two associations that sharply increased funding for them is imperative now," he added.

Other examples of the "funding gap" cited by the associations include the higher educational facilities grants, for which $900 million had been authorized with $50 million for graduate facilities, and $76 million has been funded with nothing for graduate facilities; NJEA college teacher fellowships, for which 7,500 had been authorized annually, and funding provided for only 3,000; the college housing loan program, for which more than $1 billion in direct loans had been authorized and just $60 million authorized to be released this year, supplemented by about $240 billion in interest subsidies on private loans.

Annual Contest Open To Writers

Student writers on campus will be able to compete for top honors and cash as the English Department's annual M. Emily Greenaway Memorial Contest opens again this week.

Dr. John P. Runden, department chairman, announced that a $25 government savings bond will be awarded to the best poem submitted by a PSC student. Another $25 bond will be presented to the student who submits the outstanding prose entry, such as a short story or essay.

The deadline for entries this year is April 15. Winners will receive their awards at the annual Alumni Dinner April 25.

Entries, which should be submitted to the English Department office in Raubinger 25, should be identified by a title, but should not indicate the student's name. The student's name and the title of his work should be sealed in an envelope accompanying the entry.

Congratulations are in order for Brenda Denig, newly crowned Paterson State Campus Queen. Miss Denig is a Junior Art major and chairman of the Homecoming and Carnival Committee, while actively participating on the Assembly Committee and other Student Government organizations. Miss Denig was crowned at the recent Coronation Ball.

BSU. Proposals

the institute, subject to normal policies and procedures for curriculum approval at the College: that future appointments and assignments to teach Black Studies courses be within the province of the Institute, with the advice of the students involved in the program.

"That for 1970-1971 at least the equivalent of three new full time faculty positions be given to the Institute.

"That the appointment of these faculty members shall be primarily in the area of Black Studies.

The President, in his statement, directed attention to work being done relevant to the recommendations of the Faculty Senate Executive Committee. "Consistent with the recommendations of the executive committee of the faculty senate an institute for Black Studies is under consideration within existing local and state procedures and guidelines."

He also stated, "I construe that the statement from the faculty senate executive committee regarding the movement of courses from departments to the institute of black studies is a recommendation to the curriculum committee for their deliberations."

President Olsen designated that rooms 443 and 445 or Raubinger Hall be temporarily assigned to the black studies program. The appointment of a secretary to the institute was termed impossible. A private telephone for the use of the Director of the Institute of Black Studies was also not provided due to the anticipated institution of a centrex telephone system by fall of next year.

In closing his statement President Olsen said that he is "hopeful that all involved constituencies, agencies, and officers of the college will continue to work together toward rational and constructive resolutions."
