For students who have been walking around campus wondering why a crashed car sat on the lawn in front of the Student Center, Alpha Sigma Alpha sponsored this presentation all week as a part of Alcohol Awareness Week. This car was involved in an alcohol-related accident, and was meant to make students more aware of the consequences of drinking and driving.

SGA runs out of club funding

By Rebecca Green
New Contributor

The Essence/English Club, popular for holding "Coffee Houses" in Billy Pat's, was recently rejected after submitting a financial request form to the Student Government Association (SGA) for the April coffee house, being told there was no money left in the SGA club account. Essence was not the only club rejected by the SGA.

In a memorandum from SGA Treasurer Matthew Tully it is stated, "all of the money in the club and outreach accounts have been spent or committed for the rest of the spring semester. Therefore, the Finance Committee will not hear anymore requests from either of these line items."

In the past, it has cost Essence approximately $400 per coffee house. "It's disappointing to have a big release and not be able to have a coffee house," said Jeffrey

Wickersty, treasurer of Essence.

The account designated for clubs starts with a $98,000 basis. Half of this money is to be used through December, and the other half through May.

"One hundred percent of the money was appropriated out," said Barbara Stomber, SGA financial advisor. According to Stomber, the money is given out on a first-come first-serve basis. Funds are then

Kiss O'Death coming to Hunziker

By Jamillah Harvey
News Contributor

The Spotlight Theater Company, an official chapter of the William Paterson University Alumni Association, is preparing to present "Kiss O' Death," an original play written by Peter Timony, a former WPU student, directed by Don Eckstein, and produced by Dave Cicchelli.

Stage Manager Jonathan McCormick was a pioneer president of the university drama club last semester. McCormick graduated in January, which makes Kiss O'Death his first professional theater experience.

"I feel that it is important that theater exists on campus, although the university is not offering it as a degree," said McCormick. "It benefits the university's community. We once had a thriving theater department; hopefully we can retrieve it again," said McCormick. "We have a talented group of actors," said McCormick.

"The interesting part about the play is that we are going to incorporate television into it, with the help of media services in the library and the broadcast department in the communications building," said McCormick. He hopes that the audience can make an easy transition from the play action to understand the media flavor of it.

WPU student and cast member Bob Timony feels the play will be bizarre in the way scenes are set up, but yet also feels it will be creative. "I think the play will be lots of fun since we are performing in Hunziker Hall and I am one of the characters that gets to interact with the audience," said Timony.

Cast member Jeff Gordon believes the show is going straight forward, "besides a few stops to tell the kids in the back seat to quiet down," said Gordon.

"The actors know what they are doing and everything is going smoothly," said Gordon.

According to McCormick the play is a "murderously funny" romantic comedy. "It's wild, wacky, and has crazy people. It's definitely funny," added Gordon.

Cast members are Pete Barry, Jill Butterfield, Rashad Davis, Joe Giammanco, Heather Giorgio, Jeff Gordon, Danielle Hoffman, Christie Lynn Sobota, Bob Timony, and Michael Wnoroski.

The play will take place on campus in the Hunziker Black Box Theater on April 16 at 8 p.m., April 17 at 8 p.m., April 18 at 8 p.m., and April 19 at 3 p.m. Admission prices are $8 general admission; and $6 for students, senior citizens, and all other members of the WPU community.

Alcohol Awareness Week warns students about dangers of excessive drinking

By Robyn J. Caputo
Staff Writer

Last year there were 16 arrests on the William Paterson University campus for driving while intoxicated; this year to date, there has already been 13. In 1997, three WPU students had to be hospitalized due to the consumption of too much alcohol.

Due to these statistics, along with many other reasons, WPU hosted Alcohol Awareness Week, full of events geared against alcohol abuse, from Monday, April 6 through Thursday, April 9.

All week, students were shown the dangers of drinking alcohol, and the many alternatives to drinking. On the lawn outside of the Student Center, there was a car that had been in an alcohol-related automobile accident.

Throughout the week, students were also shown videos and materials that showed how dangerous alcohol could be.

The week also provided students with alternatives to drinking, such as the Happy Hour Aerobics sponsored by Recreational Services.

On Tuesday, April 7, Campus Activities sponsored Mocktails in the Student Center lobby. This event showed various mixed drinks that contained no alcohol, but were very enjoyable.

The Alpha Phi Omega fraternity sponsored a thought-provoking event called Scared Sober. The fraternity recruited students to walk around wearing grave stones that described someone who had died because of alcohol. The intent of this event was to shock

Police encourage sign-ups for second annual 'Softball Bash'

Once again, the William Paterson Campus Police will be sponsoring a Campus Community Softball Event during the 1998 Spring Fest Week. This year they will be co-sponsoring the event with the Office of Minority Education and the university's Dining Services. All members of the campus community are encouraged to participate in this event, whether it's playing in the game of cheering on friends and fellow co-workers. Free food and drinks will be provided.

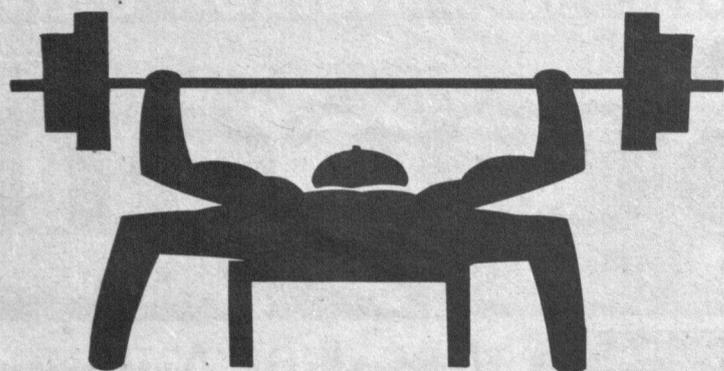

Teams will be set up and will include a combination of students, faculty, and staff, and the amount of teams will be determined by the number of entrants. Innings and/or time restrictions for each game will be limited based upon the number of teams. Although there are no dress code restrictions it would be advisable to wear sneakers. It is also advisable for those who prefer to bring their own equipment (bat, glove, mask, batter's hat, etc.) to do so.

In order to make all the preparations for this event, we ask that the completed registration form be submitted to the Campus Police no later than April 21.

The event will be held on Friday, April 24 from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. The game and barbecue will be held on the university's softball field. For those driving to the area, parking will be available in Lot 2 -- near the tennis courts -- then walk the past baseball field toward the softball field.

Campus Police encourages all members of the campus community, male and female, student and staff, to participate in this special community event, and are hoping for a good turnout. For additional information contact Campus Police at x2300. Registration forms can also be faxed to x2325.

Cuban art exhibit features young artists

An art exhibit featuring the works of young Cuban artists from the Cuban Higher Art Institute is currently being presented at William Paterson University until April 29 in the Student Center Gallery.

An opening reception for the exhibit was held on Wednesday, April 8 from 4:30 to 6 p.m. in the Student Center Gallery.

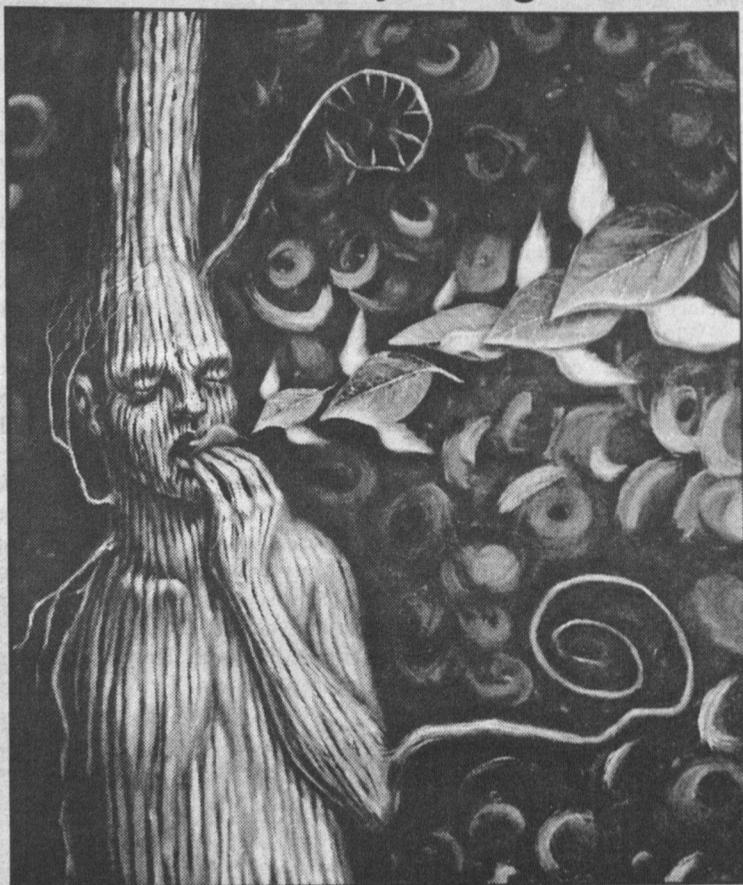

The exhibit, titled "Building Cultural Bridges," is organized by Dr. and Mrs. Jay Hyman of Del Ray Beach, Florida. It consists of well balanced collection of paintings, photographs, graphic art and framed murals by 14 artists, including Jorge B. Rodriguez, an art professor at the Institute, and 13 students.

The central theme of the exhibit is a contemporary artistic expression of the tensions between rapid urbanization and the destruction of the natural habitat, in particular the tropical rain forest.

Jose Luis Farinas, whose work "Exile" appears in the exhibit, is praised by Cuban art critics such as Carlos Weil, who said, "The extraordinary imagination of Farinas is manifested at its best in his sketched, where he transports us to our century via the works of Bosch and Brueghel."

Another Latin American art critic, Jose Pratt, said, "The powerful generation of Cuban painters born in the 1950s shows a professional approach to the techniques of drawing and color. They represent a leap forward into a new configuration guided by a sure handling of their respective techniques. All of these are present in the works of Farinas."

Jairo Alfonso Castellanos, who

"At The Edge of Silence" by Jaiso Alfonso Castellanos is on exhibit in the Student Center Gallery as part of a Cuban art exhibit which began this past Wednesday, April 8 and will continue until April 29.

painting "At the Edge of Silence," a figurative shape that branches out like the limbs of a tree, said, "I have found in nature a paradigm of retreat, wherein I find a dimension of freedom in myself."

Artist Joan Capote said her work reflects her urban experiences.

"Our contemporary world is taking away our natural habitat and thus limiting our possibilities of development," said Capote.

Mixing neo-realism with a surrealistic tendency, Capote depicts animals sometimes coexisting and at times confronting the civilized world in defense of their vital space.

"By doing so, I attempt to create a higher state of ecological awareness," she said.

Gallery hours are Monday through Saturday from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. and Sunday from noon to 10 p.m. (The gallery will be closed Saturday, April 25). Admission is free.

The price of credit: The surrender of privacy

Gerald R.
Brennan Esq.

CREDIT, credit everywhere. Our consumer economy hums along on credit. Yet with this credit comes a price—the surrender to our privacy to credit bureaus which gather information about our individual credit histories. These bureaus then issue reports to our banks, landlords, or employers upon request.

Credit bureaus are regulated by the federal Fair Credit Reporting Act and the Credit Reporting Reform Act of 1996. These acts also specify the rights of consumers affected by credit reports.

Credit bureaus are profit making companies that gather and sell information about a person's credit history. Credit bureaus sell this information to banks, mortgages lenders, credit unions, credit card companies, department stores, insurance companies, landlords, government agencies, and employers.

Equifax, Eperian (formerly TRW) and Trans Union are the three major credit bureaus in the United States. Together they have over 1,000 branches with a total of 540 million credit files.

Credit bureaus get most of their information from department stores, banks and credit card companies. The bureaus also check court records for lawsuits, judgments and bankruptcy filings.

The credit bureaus maintain a separate file for each consumer. The file contains information about a consumer's credit worthiness, credit standing or capacity. It is from this individual file that credit bureaus prepare consumer credit reports.

A credit report will contain the consumer's name (and any other former names), spouse's name, past and present addresses, social security number, birth date, employer's name and salary. The report will also show the names of consumer's creditors, the type and number of each account, when each account was opened, payment history for the previous 24-36 months, credit limit and current balances.

You can obtain a copy of your credit report upon written request. By law the following persons or agencies can also obtain a copy of your report: a lender, n employer, insurance company, a government agency if needed to determine your eligibility for a license or other government benefit, a business person who needs the information for a business transaction" to include a landlord-tenant relationship.

The Fair Credit Reporting ACT establishes various time periods for determining if information is obsolete. Generally, unfavorable information such as late payments, cannot be reported if it is more than seven years old.

After September 30, 1997 if a consumer based upon information in his/her credit report is turned down for a job, denied credit or insurance or incurs increased costs for getting credit or insurance, the user of hte report is required to notify the consumer. The notice must tell the consumer that he/she has 60 days to request a free copy of the report.

Credit bureaus are required by law to assure the "maximum possible accuracy" of their information. A consumer is entitled to have incorrect, obsolete, or inaccurate information modified or removed without charge. If the consumer notifies the bureau about incorrect information, within 30 to 45 days the bureau must investigate and remove the tainted information. If the bureau does not correct the report the consumer can sue the bureau and if succesful, recover actual damages, costs and reasonable attorney's fees.

To request a free copy of your credit report from the big three credit bureaus call the following numbers: Equifax 1-800-997-2493, Eperian 1-888-397-3742, Trans Union 1-800-888-4213. (Information for this article came from material prepared by Francisco S. Marinas, Legal Services of New Jersey).

'Just say no' ... to slogans

DURING an age when competing manufacturers can mass produce a given product, such as perfume for instance, with virtually no detectable differences in quality, marketing has become a definitive factor in sales. Marketing is quite possibly one of the most remarkable phenomenons of the twentieth century, and the slogans which marketers utilize are among their most powerful tools.

Whether or not one's sneaker company urges one to "Just Do It," can mean the difference between big sales and a big flop. But slogans are not the only factors which go into a conscientious consumer's decision to purchase a product. But how many Americans are conscientious shoppers? Certainly the answer is few and far between.

This is a concept which politicians apparently have understood for quite some time. With every passing election year the television and radio waves seem to be jammed with more slogans. Thus it is no surprise that here in the little world we call William Paterson University, Student Government Association elections are plagued with slogans.

Everywhere one looks it's "Get Yours," "Winning Hands Dealt," and "Turn For A Brighter Future." But any conscientious voter would not base his/her vote on a slogan or a given flyer — no matter how well constructed they were.

A conscientious voter, like a conscientious shopper, would concern himself or herself with the facts of the matter. Unfortunately the 'facts' of a matter in a campaign are not always clear, and the channels by which one might obtain the 'facts' are not always known.

But on April 14 beginning at 12:30 p.m. in the Student Center Ballroom there will be an opportunity for students to meet the candidates at the SGA's annual "Meet the Candidates" forum.

Students will be given the opportunity to question those candidates present about their stances on issues, in order to determine the 'facts' of the matter. Students will be able to gage which candidates' views are most similar to their own.

A conscientious person would not invest his or her money in a large purchase without first having an understanding of exactly what it is in which one is investing. Voting for a candidate is no different.

Whoever is voted into the SGA will be responsible for handling a great deal of funds. For this, and many other reasons, it is important that one knows for whom one is voting. "Get your" "winning hand" "for a brighter future" at Meet the Candidates.

LET US KNOW WHAT YOU THINK:

Do you have an opinion on the SGA elections?

Just Bitter

The masks that people wear

Robyn J. Caputo "Do not trust someone who has never had their heart broken," a wise man once told me. It sounds rather profound, but I believe it is a very valid statement. If he has never been hurt, then chances are he was the one that did the hurting.

Have you ever just taken a step back and wondered why men and women play such ridiculous games? He likes her, and she likes him, but neither one will tell the other what they feel. First they have to go through this whole ritual of a game on top of game, until somehow they end up together, or don't. Doesn't it all just seem really silly?

Then there is this whole issue of sending mixed signals. This clown dances right up to you, puts on all the moves, gives you his best smile and then—nothing. What the heck? Did I miss something here? All of a sudden he's walking away singing

Robert Palmer's "I didn't mean to turn you on." Whatever! (I crack myself up sometimes!)

So, the question is, why? Why do people feel the need to put on such a total facade? I mean, if you like someone, just tell them. Now, I know it's not that simple. You think, "What if doesn't like me or what if he gets freaked out and bolts?"

I say, "screw it!" Carpe Diem! Seize the day! (Okay, here's the part in the column where I start to get 'all inspirational and stuff, just try and go with me on this). If someone is not willing to take a chance on you, then you should not waste time on him. (I am' woman, hear me roar!) Life is short, and we all need to live it to the fullest.

Believe me, I am the first one to kick off the shoes, and run barefoot through the rain. Do you want to know why? Well, I'll tell you why. Because, life IS like a bowl of cherries; but I know what I will get, and that is only the juiciest and the sweetest of the bunch.

What was I talking about again? (I felt like I was caught up in some cheesy monologue from a Leslie Nielsen movie.) Oh yeah, basically just don't waste your time playing stupid games with other people. Tell the person you want them. And if you crash and burn, maybe it's just fate. (Whoa, that sounds odd coming from me!)

Alright, so I could have been wrong about this whole fate thing, it has been known to happen. Maybe there is a master plan. Who knows? Just remember what Jim says . . . "Jim says some destinies should not be delivered, but you and I see now baby, that still they are." (I am just chock full o' songs tonight.) In that case, excuse me while I "Kiss the Rain."

1998 Summer Tour Preview

By Ed Erlenmeyer
 Insider Editor

Since Lollapalooza appeared a number of years back, the number of package tours that have surfaced in it's wake has been astounding. The summer of 1998 will no doubt be another exciting year for those who anxiously await the warm months of outdoor, all day concert events by their favorite artists.

It seems that the one festival that started it all, Lollapalooza, has folded, at least for this year. The tour that once housed many the past, you can now call yourself a part of music history that will forever be remembered.

One tour that did extremely well in its first year was veteran heavy metaler Ozzy Osbourne's Ozz-Fest. The show that spawned a near riot at Giants Stadium last year will be moved to a less obvious arena this year. Without a show in the New York City area, bands including, Megadeth, Tool, Soulfly, Life of Agony, Incubus, and the Ozz man himself will invade Holmdel this year for two dates at the PNC Arts Center in early July.

Tickets are already on sale and may very well be sold out as we go to press. The hard rockin' package will also hit Camden as well this summer.

Another tour that embarked on its virgin outing in the summer of

'97 and did well much to the surprise of critics will be back in '98. Sarah McLachlan's Lilith Fair will once again take on the big boys with another tour that is expected to be announced at a press conference on April 16th.

The show's lineup and dates will be announced at the conference which will be attended by McLachlan, Bonnie Raitt, Paula Cole, and others.

A few years back, Beastie Boy Ad-Rock helped to put together a festival that not only rocked the asses off of all in attendance, but helped raise awareness of the problems in Tibet. Last year the show was moved to New York for two dates and this year The Tibetan Freedom Concert will be held in the nation's capital.

The Beastie Boys, REM, and Pearl Jam are all expected to play. Radiohead, Sonic Youth, Tribe Called Quest, and Rage Against the Machine are also supposed to be on the bill.

For all the skate punks of the world, the 1998 Vans Warped Tour will be back for another run at it. It seems that this tour gets bigger every summer and in its fourth year there doesn't seem to be a chance that it will slow down. The tour kicks in Phoenix on June 30th.

Although the lineup never is the same throughout the whole tour, Bad Religion, NOFX, Rancid, H2O, Save Ferris, and The Deftones are all confirmed for this event of the so-called "extreme." Hardcore new-schoolers Snapcase and Hatebreed are on for a select amount of dates.

The traveling circus will be in the tri-state area on August 1st at Randalls Island in New York and on August 2nd at The Stone Pony Lot in beautiful downtown Asbury Park. Keep an eye out for ticket information.

Other package tours that remain to be heard from include the Smokin' Grooves Tour that previously highlighted the talents of The Fugees, Cypress Hill, and George Clinton and the P-Funk All Stars.

Some bands that have been announced for the H.O.R.D.E. tour are Blues Traveler (who helped organize the tour,) Barenaked Ladies, Ben Harper and The Innocent Criminals, and Alana Davis.

Here are some shows that have already sold out. Flavor of the moment Ben Folds Five and odd man, Beck will open up for The famous acts including Ice Cube, Rage Against the Machine, Tool, Red Hot Chili Peppers, Smashing Pumpkins, Hole, Pearl Jam, The Beastie Boys, and others has had a bit of trouble finding an act to headline this year's event.

Lolla founder Perry Farrel decided not to put the recently reformed Jane's Addiction on the bill.

Other top name acts like Garbage, Nine Inch Nails, The Foo Fighters, and Marilyn Manson all declined to play the once popular event that defined all that is alternative.

Will Lollapalooza return ever again? Possibly, but this reviewer tends not to think so.

If you have been to Lolla's of Megadeth is scheduled to appear in the Ozz-Fest this summer at the PNC Bank Arts Center.

Paula Cole

Dave Matthews Band at Giants Stadium later in the summer and Pearl Jam will be at Madison Square Garden and The Continental Airlines Arena in September.

So whatever your tastes in music, there always seems to be a summer package tour that is suited for you. Look for a strong season for the concert industry. Also keep an eye out for ticket information as it comes along.

Happy concert going. Don't drink too much in the sun, it isn't good for you and besides, if you're paying for a ticket, don't you want to remember all the good bands you saw that day?

Under the Microscope

Various Artists

New York Beat: Breaking and Entering (Moon)

Moon Records is at it again with their latest compilation. In the past, Moon has been known to be a leader among great comp. releases and this one is no different. New York beat pays a homage to the great ska bands of New York.

With 22 tracks in all, one better than the next, N. Y. Beat showcases the fact that N.Y. withholds the best ska bands around.

A live version of the Scofflaws "Man With the Golden Arm" gets things going right away. Quickly followed by the Ska Jazz Ensemble with "Montalvo" follows with a nice relaxing pace. The album in all has a great mixture between traditional ska acts like the Bluebeats and bands with more of an edge like the great Mephiskapheles doing a track off their latest album called "Bad Toupee".

All the best tunes end up in here like a personal favorite "A Fine Romance" by Skinnerbox.

Its just a basic fact that Moon records releases the best ska compilations and this album falls right into the group. Its a great album for unfamiliar fans to pick up because of the vast hits which the album contains. So if your you're into jazz, ska, or even just want people to like you, this would be an excellent addition to your music collection.

All the tracks are good here and it would take listing every one to give the album justice.

Since I can't really do all that because of laziness, I'll let you know the best tracks are from the Pilfers and Buford O' Sullivan.

All right, this is what I live for. My first negative letter:

First off the publication is strictly your opinion, how in the hell is the entire school population supposed to get a feel for wrestling if you say how this one sucks, or this one sucks. From your style of writing I feel that you seem to be a couch potato who doesn't know jack about professional wrestling, it's like you have to do this article with absolutely no passion. Lace My Boots Hot-Shot:

I've been following Pro wrestling for fifteen years. I have participated in amateur wrestling for seven years, in high school we were district champs, County Champs, and 2nd in the state for three consecutive years. I have wrestled over seventy matches and if this school had wrestling I would still be doing it.

You want opinion, I think that Hogan will be retiring soon since Nash owns his $$$ 4 life. I think Jericho, is a cry baby and someone maybe Goldberg should break his neck. I know wrestling is a show, but if you're going to commentate, make it worth the typing that you put in. Not some BS opinion paper. If you want a hint on were to check on some Wrestling sites: ECW, Miacasa, WCW, NWO, and WWF pages give your work some substance. Not to be meant in a harsh way you do need some new material, switch up the format.

Ed Tafaro

Well to start off with Mr. Tafaro, my column is an opinion piece. It's opinions, news, and rumors. That's what makes it a column. Not to mention I'm not entirely sure how I'm supposed to give the whole college a "feel" for wrestling.

Most readers of this column already watch wrestling and don't need to rely on me for the basics. Also, as a couch potato (notice no "e" in mine, thank you very much) I'd like to say that amateur wrestling and professional wrestling are barely even the same sport.

To say that I don't know anything about Pro wrestling strikes me as a bit odd. You're talking to a guy who was watching pro wrestling back when the Iron Sheik was the Heavyweight Champion.

And finally I stick by my decision to only cover WCW wrestling. I find WWF extremely boring. They don't have a quarter of the talent, not to mention there's barely ever any actual wrestling going on. Most of their program is dedicated to talking.

Although myself and the Beacon would welcome anyone who would like to write about WWF so come on down to the Student Center, Room 310 and ask for Tim.

Now that that's over with, there's barely any room left to talk about wrestling. That's fine by me as nothing really interesting happened this week anyway. WCW turned Randy Savage's torn ACL into a reason to hit him with a car. To me that's a pretty silly way to explain an injury. But whatever.

Also, there is talk that WCW may keep Savage in his title match with Sting at Spring Stampede. Although the injury would be the explanation as to why he would lose. Savage was originally thought to be out for up to 6 months, so who knows what will happen next.

Well all I have room to do now is just say that it's been officially signed. Chris Benoit vs. Booker T for the TV Title, "No Time Limit." You heard it here first. One more for the good guy.

Even though The Beacon only has FOUR issues left...we still encourage everyone to come up and join the staff!

NEWS FROM THE OFFICE OF INSTITUTIONAL ADVANCEMENT

Corporate Grant Helps Fund Unique Millennium Program

The birth of a new century, with all its perils and promises, is 20 months away. But before that time comes, a wide-ranging examination of the last 100 years, involving the entire William Paterson community, is getting underway.

The year-long program, "Twilight and Dawn: The 20th Century and the New Millennium," is the brain child of Carol Gruber, history professor, author and scholar. A series-of carefully planned programs, designed to reach all corners of the campus, is being scheduled from September 1999 to May 2000.

"As a member of the history department, I knew we had to seize this unique juncture of the end of a century and the beginning of a new millennium to examine the past as we look to the future," says Gruber who, with the help of two incentive grants from the office of the provost and executive vice president, began formulating plans two years ago.

"The Future of the Book"

The first event, to be held September 30, 1999, is "The Future of the Book," a symposium for the William Paterson community and the public. Funded by a $20,000 corporate gift from Hoechst Marion Roussel, the Bridgewater pharmaceutical company, the panel discussion will feature such luminaries as Paul LeClerc, president of the New York Public Library, and Stanley Katz, distinguished American legal historian and former president of the American Council of Learned Societies. It will be moderated by Edward Burns, the University's award-winning English professor, scholar and author.

A major art exhibit, "Artist Books at the End of the 20th Century," will accompany the panel discussion. Planned by Nancy Einreinhofer, curator of the Ben Shahn Galleries, it will examine the history of the book as an art object.

"The two events will encompass one of the most important issues of our day — the future of the written word," explains Gruber. "What are the implications of technology for reading and writing, for literature and culture?"

"Roots of Our Community"

Among other projects in the planning stage is a unique exhibit for the academic year 1999-2000. The campus community will be asked to dig into their family treasure chests and albums and submit family documents of historic interest such as immigration and citizenship papers, old passports, wedding certificates, draft notices and World War I and II citations, an historic home, migration from the South, participation in strikes and the women's suffrage movement. They will be used to mount an exhibit, which will be called "The Roots of Our Community."

"Campus Wide Involvement"

In addition to Gruber and her committee of fellow historians, Theodore Cook, Terence Finnegan and George Robb, all faculty are hard at work refining their own special contributions to the year-long program. A variety of special course offerings, lectures, symposia, concerts and exhibits, and continuing education programs are planned to bring the public to the campus. The year will end on a note of good fun. A costume ball is scheduled for December 1999 where faculty and staff will be asked to dress as a favorite character of the 20th century.

"We are asking everyone at William Paterson to be creative and pass along their suggestions," says Gruber. "By drawing on the talents of our students, faculty and staff, we can make a contribution to our own community and the surrounding community, in the best tradition of a public institution of higher learning."

Alcohol Awareness Week informs students about dangers of drinking

people into the realization that alcohol can kill when it is abused.

Don Phelps, assistant director of Campus Activities stated that the intentions of this week were, "To make people think about alcohol," said Phelps.

"People tend to use it recreationally and the purpose of this week is to make people think about the dangers and effects," he added.

Planning for these events was done by a campus wide committee made up of faculty, staff, and students, on which Phelps serves as the chair. The committee has been holding monthly meetings since October 1997 to plan the events.

In comparison to WPU statistics, at Montclair State University there was a total of five arrests related to alcohol in 1997, compared to the 16 at WPU.

Sergeant Lourens Latona of the WPU Campus Police said, "I believe there are a lot of students that drink too much. I do believe there is a problem here."

Alcohol Awareness Week was designed to give students knowledge to help them drink responsibly, and to make them aware of the dangers.

When asked if this week would benefit the students Latona replied, "It will bring it out [the problems of drinking] to a point, but I don't think it will alleviate the problem."

Funding for SGA clubs depletes; events cancelled

distributed back into the account based on the proceeds from events.

"The students have been planning earlier for events which is why the club account is being utilized early," said Stomber. There is a reserve account in the SGA, which currently has a balance of approximately $195,000.

However, the money in this account is only used for special projects. Last year the SGA used some of the money from the reserve account to purchase the clock on campus, located outside the Sarah Byrd Askew Library.

The Finance Committee, which is chaired by the SGA treasurer, meets every week. The committee is made up of treasurers from each class and other interested students. The funds used come from the student activities fee.

"The funds are derived from students, requested by students, and approved by students," said Tully.

Clubs must submit financial requests the week before the committee meets, and then present their requests before the committee. The committee then has the power to grant the or deny financial requests.

"Clubs can request funds in the fall for spring events," said Tully. "All clubs are encouraged to plan events earlier and present them to finance."

"Prior to the closing of club account, it was running low, and then $98,000 was spent. It is not unusual for the account to run out by this time of the year," said Tully. "Essence is not the only club to be turned down for requests."

The closing of the club account doesn't mean that programming stops; it will still go on until the end of the semester. According to Tully, additional funding can be requested from the Provost's Office.

However, Essence will still be holding its April coffee house due to the fact that a problem with food services they encountered in September has left them with extra money. The funds granted to the club for that event were not used, and the money is still available. This request must be approved by Tully for use.

"The big thing now is if Matt Tully will let us access the funds," said Wickersty.

For fast relief from the nagging ache of taxes, we recommend TIAA-CREF SRAs. SRAs are tax-deferred annuities that can help you build additional assets—money that can make the difference between living and living well in retirement.

Contributions to SRAs are conveniently deducted from your salary on a pretax basis. The result? More money invested. Fewer taxes now. And since investment earnings are tax deferred until you receive them as income, the money you don't send to Washington can work even harder for you.

What else do SRAs offer? A full range of investment choices, a helpful loan feature, and the financial expertise of TIAA-CREF, the world's largest retirement system.®

Now More Ways to Meet Your Goals

The Final Thor

Yankee fans need heart, not a new stadium

Ira P. Thor
Sports Columnist

Question--What do Camden Yards in Baltimore, Jacobs Field in Cleveland and New York's Yankee Stadium have in common? Besides the fact that American League teams play in all three parks. In my opinion, these are the three best parks in baseball.

Now I know what you're thinking. Ira, you're sick in the head. How can a stadium that was built in 1923 compare with tech marvels of the 1990's? The answer is very simple--game atmosphere.

When I visited Baltimore last week and experienced Oriole Park at Camden Yards firsthand, my perspective of other cities parks changed forever.

Like I said, the stadium is a beautiful, exhilarating environment in which to watch a game, and the fans are a class act.

I have not yet seen a game at Jacobs Field, despite watching a Knicks-Cavaliers game at Gunn Arena across the street. I made sure to stroll past the stadium, though, which is mostly open to view to the public from the street.

But if you remember, last week I commented that New York fans take their baseball teams--and stadiums--for granted. I meant it.

I'm going to be straight up honest. I am a diehard New York Mets fan. That hasn't stopped me from going to the Bronx. I will root for the Bombers unless they're hooking up with the Mets.

I've been hearing the complaints for years now, and believe me, the argument for trashing Yankee Stadium is becoming archaic--not the stadium itself.

Excuse number one--the South Bronx is too dangerous. In my opinion, that's a lame excuse. Alright, alright, the South Bronx blows as a whole. I wouldn't want to live there or hang out, but just passing through? I don't think there's much to worry about in that area.

Maybe I might feel slightly apprehensive if I was taking my wife and children to the game. But if you ever visit the House that Ruth built on game day, you'd instantly notice a major presence--the police.

The city government for years has answered fans concerns for safety by dispatching extra rounds of cops on game day (it helps that Mayor Guiliani live and dies with the pinstripes). Game day crime is highly unlikely. Even if you take the train over to the game, I think safety is a matter long since addressed.

So what is the other major issue as to why Yankee Stadium resembles a ghost town during most home games? Fairly obvious--traffic. Guess what New Yorkers--this is New York. Traffic sucks--it's a fact. (New York is ranked 11th in the nation in traffic congestion).

Whether the Yanks played in the Bronx, the West Side or East Side of Manhattan, or even New Jersey or Westchester, traffic is going to raise difficulties.

Once you get into the area of Yankee Stadium, parking concerns emerge. This is a nuisance, but there are solutions. First off, how about mass transit. More often than not, this is how I venture to the stadium.

Why--it's so much more convenient than the other modes of transportation. Otherwise, car-pool and deal with it. The end result of your sacrifice--some of the best baseball around.

New York fans are apathetic and lackadaisical--myself included. We want to complain and bitch, but we don't realize something pertinent--how lucky we are.

We are blessed with having arguably the best team in the majors in our backyard, yet we are not-satisfied. There's nothing wrong with Yankee Stadium--that's just another excuse.

It's not a wonder of technology, but you know what--it's actually one of the best locations in the pros to sit back, relax and root for your team. Yankee Stadium is a cozy environment in which champions thrive, and dreams come true.

So George Steinbrenner is driven by power. That's a gimme. But the man is dedicated to one thing winning. Steinbrenner has spent over sixty-five million this year to ensure a fourth straight playoff appearance and World Series shot. That's good enough for me.

So when I journey to the Stadium next week and look around and hear the paid attendance figures bottom out, I am tired of the excuses. I'm continually reminded that Yankee fans outnumber Met fans. WHERE ARE YOU...GO SUPPORT YOUR TEAM.

There's almost nine million fans in the immediate area and all you can muster is 20,000 per. That's absurd. Ignore the fights in the upper deck and the beer jerks in the bleachers.

The greatest treat in New York is harvesting in the Bronx, yet few have the courage to experience it.

Through it all, the Yanks continue to win. So until the attendance numbers change, New York fans will falter in my eyes.

NJAC Championships bring success and hope to track team

By Paul Bonney
Sports Contributor

The William Paterson Pioneer track team finished well in the New Jersey Athletic Conference Outdoor Championships hosted by The College of New Jersey (TCNJ) on Friday and Montclair State University on Saturday, April 11.

The men's team finished fourth behind TCNJ, Rowan, and Richard Stockton. The Pioneers are coached by Horace Perkins, Xavier Fitzgerald in the sprints, relays and field events, and by Ralph LaMonica and Lisa Giaconia in the middle distance (800 meters) and distance (1500 meters) events.

LaMonica was impressed by the way the team performed stating, "little by little we're growing."

According to LaMonica, the highlight of the event was junior Paul Imhof being awarded the "Outstanding Male Field Athlete" of the competition. Imhof finished first in the triple jump on Friday, April 10, second in the high jump, fifth in the pole vault, and eighth in the long jump on Saturday.

Another highlight was the men's "four by one," as it is called. The four by 100 meter was ran by Rohan Jackson, Shawn Hackett, Dennis Gallshaw, and Ottis Marcus. The team finished second in the conference. Jackson and Hackett also placed high in the 100 meter dash. Jackson finished second and Hackett finished fourth.

Jackson, when asked about the 100 said, "I probably could have won if I didn't slip at the start."

The senior Jackson spoke highly of the tournament stating, "It's no walk in the park. It is a good tournament with tough competition."

Jackson added, "It was a good track experience. Even though we are a Division III, sometimes the competition is just as good as Division I."

Both coach LaMonica and Jackson see a "bright future" ahead for the Pioneers.

LaMonica said he is, "pleased with the way things are progressing this year for next year."

Jackson added, "with the new track and the teams young athletes, it looks like we can go somewhere with a little dedication."

Softball team looks to make Pioneer history

By Paul Bonney
Sports Contributor

The William Paterson University softball team scored two key victories last Saturday, April 4, versus Montclair State University who was ranked nationally among all Division III softball teams.

Freshman pitcher/outfielder, Diane Naugle was recognized as the New Jersey Athletic Conference Rookie of the Week as she shutout MSU 1-0 in the first game. The Pioneers won the second game in another close game, 5-4.

The victories started the Pioneers' seven game winning streak. The streak was snapped by The College of New Jersey on Saturday, April 11, also giving the Pioneers their first two New Jersey Athletic Conference losses, 4-2 and 7-2.

The Pioneers will go for their team record 20th victory on Tuesday in a double-header against Rowan on Wightman Field at WPU. The Pioneers have a strong pitching staff keyed by Naugle. Joining Naugle, the Pioneers are sparked by hard-throwing sophomore Gina Selvaggio, and junior Jessica Yehle, who has added a drop pitch to her arsenal.

In addition to the strong pitching, all of the players in Coach Hallie Cohen's line-up can put runs on the board in a hurry.

The Pioneers outscore opponents 178 to 98. Senior shortstop Jen Grasso leads off the potent line-up hitting .349 and leading the team with 27 runs scored. Junior catcher Becky Perkins leads the team with eight home runs, 18 doubles, and 29 runs batted in.

Juniors Jackie Albanese and Tracy Demarest are both hitting well over .300.

"We have to come out and play hard in every game we play. You can't lower your level of play against any opponent," said Naugle.

The Pioneer Softball Team celebrates their victory over Montclair State University on April 4.

Naugle has struck out 33 batters in 80 innings and has an earned run average of 1.40. She is also batting close to the .400 mark and leads the team in hits.

"Whatever happens, happens," said Naugle, while vowing never to read the newspaper until the end of the season in order not to let what is written in newspapers affect her performance on the field.

Slomkowski, Cutler help split double-header against Rowan

By Paul Bonney
Sports Contributor

It seemed that two different Pioneer baseball teams showed up for the double-header against Rowan on Saturday, April 11 at Wightman Field at William Paterson University. In the first game, the Pioneers lost 13-3. However, they came back in the second game to defeat Rowan 14-2.

Young pitchers Jason Messina and Brian Lennox gave up 12 runs, nine of which were earned, and 11 hits. Entering the game, the two pitchers had a combined record of 5-0, with 38 strikeouts.

The Pioneer bats, which have been strong all season long, went cold in the first game; but soon came alive in the second with 16 hits and 14 runs.

"It's not good to be .500. We were .500 today," said Head Coach Jeff Albies, "we have some work ahead of us. It's not bad to split against Rowan, but we'll take the split."

In the first game, junior first baseman Mike Bellovich went 2 for 4. His solo home run in the fourth inning, and junior catcher R.C. Renshaw's two-run homer in the first inning were the only offense the Pioneers were able to muster.

Rowan took advantage of the youthful pitchers, and four Pioneer errors, getting 13 runs on 13 hits. For the Profs, Tim Huckel went 3 for 6, with two home runs in the game; and designated hitter Jamie Oliver went 4 for 5, adding another home run. The 2-3-4 hitters went a combined 8 for 17, en route to their win.

In the second game the Pioneers' bats came alive. Junior Duane Horta blasted a three-run homer to right field in the first inning.

Junior third baseman Craig Cutler went 4 for 5 in the game with three runs scored, and eight runs batted in. His fifth inning grand slam to deep center field sailed over the 400-foot marker. He also doubled in the fourth inning, driving in two more.

Junior outfielder Glen School went 3 for 3, scoring four runs. Freshman shortstop Matt Rozema went 3 for 5, helping the Pioneers' effort.

The Pioneers got a solid pitching effort from their senior ace Bob Slomkowski. He only allowed two runs in seven innings, striking out four. Pitchers Shaun Stokes and Jason Kalafut each pitched a shutout inning. Stokes will be pitching in Monday's make-up game against Jersey City State College.

The Pioneers' record is now 14 and 5, and 4 and 1 in the New Jersey Athletic Conference (NJAC).

Albies' main concern is the defense, but he feels the pitching and the hitting are good. "The more experience we get, the better we'll be," he added.

In comparison to the rest of the NJAC, Albies feels the Pioneers are "near the top," but not comfortably. He feels, "The intensity is not at championship level, but the potential is there to be a very good baseball team."

When asked about the play-offs, Albies commented, "It's always a goal to get in. I think we'll get in; the question is whether we'll improve or stay the same."
