Edward Koch

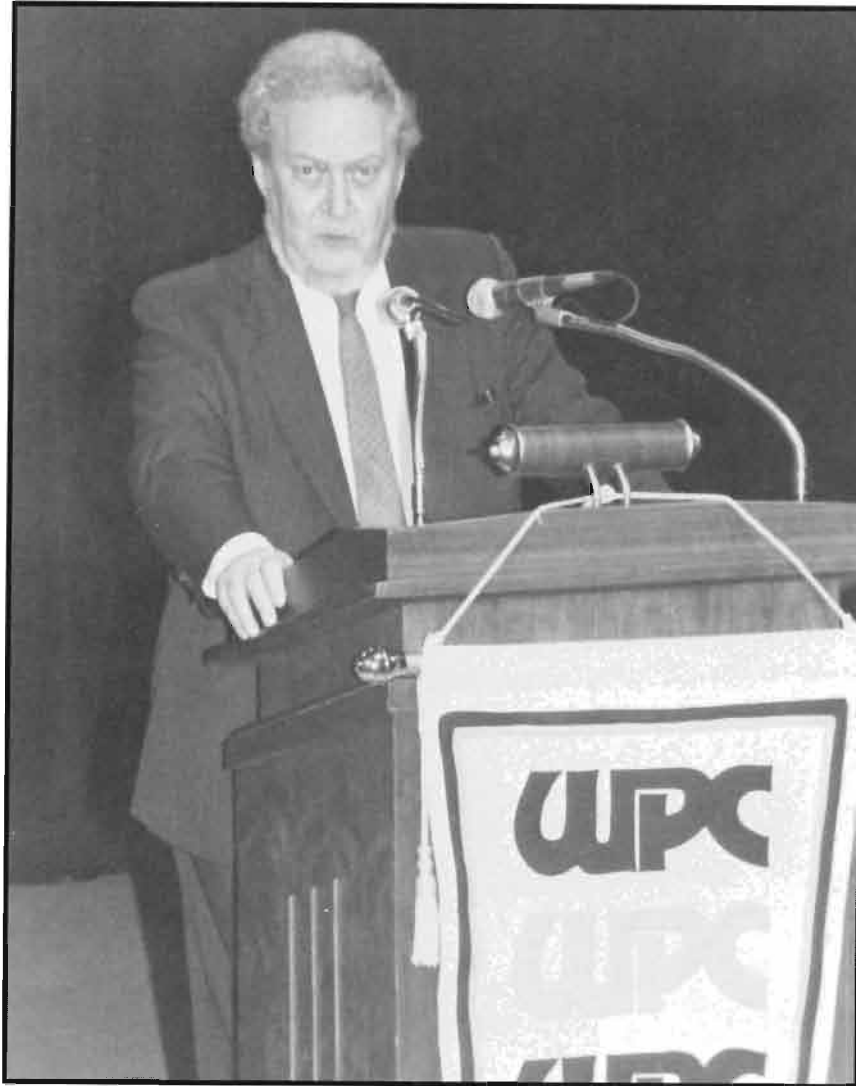

Edward I. Koch became well known as one of the nation's most colorful and candid public figures during the 12 years he served as mayor of New York. During his administration he overcame the fiscal crisis that threatened the city with collapse in the late '70's and helped restore confidence of New Yorkers. Koch has retained his interest in America's political life and is the author of several books, including the recent release, "All the Best, Letters from a Feisty Mayor." He also provides political commentary for WNEW-Radio and WCBS-TV and serves as co-host of "Sunday Edition," the television station's Sunday morning public affairs program

Charles Kuralt

Charles Kuralt, the award-winning CBS News correspondent, has been described by Time magazine as "the laureate of the common man," has covered world news, major United States events and the "little" stories of America's small towns and back roads during his more than 30 years as correspondent for CBS News. Kuralt is currently in his 12th season as anchor of the CBS News Program "Sunday Morning," and is also co-hosting, with Lesley Stahl, a new CBS News late-night venture, "America Tonight." Named "Broadcaster of the Year" in 1983 by the International Radio and Television Society, Kuralt has anchored numerous CBS documentaries and public affairs specials. He is the author of five books, including "On the Road with Charles Kuralt."

Robert H. Bork

Former federal appeals court judge Robert H. Bork delivered a lecture entitled "George Bush, Politics and the Constitution." A respected jurist, educator, and public servant, Bork has provided counsel to government, individuals and institutions for more than 35 years. In 1982, Bork was nominated by Ronald Reagan to the position of Associate Justice of the Supreme Court. His nomination was denied confirmation after a highly publicized political debate. Bork is currently John Olin Scholar in Legal Studies at the American Enterprise Institute for Public Policy.

Joyce Carol Oates

Award-winning author Joyce Carol Oates, one of the country's most versatile serious writers, presented a selection of readings and reflections on her work. Holiday Party 1990

The Student Government Association sponsored a holiday party and presented gifts to 110 children from Kilbarchan Orphanage and other local shelters. The children played games, visited with Santa, and received footballs, dolls and other toys bought and wrapped by various campus organizations.

The event was coordinated by Elliot Glassman, executive vice president of the SGA. "When you give a toy to a kid who's not going to receive a gift for Christmas, it's the greatest feeling in the world," said Glassman. "The kids loved it. We were able to fulfill some of their dreams."

U.S. troops deserve our support

We all know that war is raging in the Persian Gulf. More than 400,000 U.S. soldiers have put their lives on the line for the sole cause of stopping aggression, and paving the road of peace and freedom. These men and women deserve the undivided support of their counterparts on the campuses of the colleges and universities of this country. They truly do. They have volunteered to do the hard work of freedom for us. Yes, for us.

The war rages. The reports we see and hear are good; things are going as scheduled. God willing, every soldier will come home soon, very soon. It is our duty to support them at this time when this country is at war. The proper thing to do is support the troops in such a way that they win the war, quickly and decisively. Let's not say that we support them and this support demands them to walk away like cowards, allowing a madman the reward he wants—Kuwait. Stolen Kuwait. We as citizens are not allowed to get 20 criminals together, break into someone's home in the middle of the night, rape the people in the house, steal every possession they own, kill them, and then change the name on the mailbox to our name. I believe most would call that unacceptable behavior, at the very least. Let's just say that band of criminals was allowed to change the name on the mailbox. The police said "Oh, let's let them keep it." Then I guess it would be okay for another band of criminals to do the same to another house. Soon our neighbors would lose their homes, soon we would lose our own homes. Raw aggression does not stand in everyday life. The law however, does stand.

The situation in the Gulf is the same situation, only much more is at stake. An entire region, an entire world. I'm proud. I'm proud that this aggression is not allowed to stand. This dictator will go down and others like him will learn a valuable lesson from watching this situation unfold. An entire world standing united against everything that is uncivilized and wrong.

The new world order is a good idea. It's more than a good idea. It will be reality. We see freedom sprouting in places we never dreamed possible. America was the catalyst for that. The age of the dictator is coming to an abrupt end, America being the catalyst for this also. This world would not be embarking on this great new age of peace and freedom if it were not for the strength of this great nation we live in, the United States of America. Be proud to live in the best country on this planet. Support the troops. Support freedom. Support a strong America that stands up to crackpot criminal dictators.

The 60s are over; they have been over for a long time. This is not Vietnam. This war is not over oil. People look foolish supporting these themes. This war is over right and wrong, good and evil. Nothing else. Pure and simple—as clear as the blue sky on a clear day.

The College Republicans want to have a pro-America rally. Anyone that wants to help in organizing it, drop a note in the College Republican Club's mailbox in the SGA office Student Center room 330.

Deadly ignorance

George Bush wants a "new world order." I would like to suggest that even if this were a good idea, Bush and America cannot achieve such a world order without drafting millions of young Americans...males and females.

In my classes, not one of 236 students could identify the name, Sheik Saad-al Abdullah al-Sabah. If you do not know this name, you should do some research before you jump up and wave the flag for America. Listen to WBAI FM 99.5. All other American "news" outlets are now controlled by the Pentagon.

WPC students attend anti-war march, rally

By Jennifer King
STAFF WRITER

Twenty WPC students were among the 75,000 protesters who journeyed to the nation's capital Saturday to protest U.S. intervention in the Middle East. Protesters representing almost every state in the union assembled at noon on the mall in front of the capital building to exchange their thoughts and feelings in the form of banners, songs, chants and conversation. Signs which read "No blood for oil" and "Support the troops by waging peace, stop the war in the Middle East" represented popular sentiment among the protesters.

Sentiment against President Bush was prevalent also, as conveyed in signs which read "Bush pull out, we wish your ass" and "Read my lips: and not its own bank account. WPC STUDENTS RESPOND

The entire world ignored this "mad man" until he started messing with oil, said Kevin Ashworth, president of People for Peace.

"War is childish and useless, yet it is accepted by many people," said one WPC student who preferred to remain anonymous.

"We should have allowed the sanctions to go farther than they did. Five months is not enough time," said Rose Alcala, WPC senior.

PROTESTERS

A fully-uniformed navy serviceman from West Virginia received a warm reception from fellow protesters. Called to active duty on July 1, he said he is not sure what he would do if called to serve in Saudi Arabia.

He explained that he supports and participates in the armed services as they are a necessary unit of strength and the war in

Draft regulations differ from those of Vietnam era 20-year-olds to be first priority if draft instituted

By Domenick Stampone
STAFF WRITER

As the war in the Persian Gulf enters its third week, the question many people, especially those within the college community, are asking is, "What about the draft?"

According to Public Law 92-129:

"The president (with the approval of Congress) is authorized from time to time, whether or not a state of war exists, to select and induct into the Armed Forces of the United States for training and service in the manner provided in this law (including but not limited to selection and induction age groups) such manner of persons as may be required to provide and maintain the strength of the Armed Forces."

While the amount of troops stationed in the sands of Saudi Arabia closes in on the half-million mark, many congressmen remain unwilling to discuss the issue of manpower.

"There were talks scheduled for February in Congress concerning whether or not the amount of troops in the gulf were sufficient. However, the talks were cancelled when it appeared that the topic was too hot to handle," said Bill Jones, a reporter for The New Federalist, a Washington newspaper.

The Selective Service System, which is responsible for supplying manpower through the induction process (draft), already has established guidelines in the event of a draft.

According to a January 1990 document which outlined mobilization procedures, the induction process would be as follows:

"The first step in the resumption of inductions would be to hold a lottery drawing, based on dates of birth, to determine the order in which men would be called for induction. A man is in first priority for a possible draft during the calendar year of his 20th birthday. The next year he drops into the second priority category and men born the year after he was born move into the first priority group. Each succeeding year he drops into a lower priority group until he has his 26th birthday, at which time generally he is over the age of liability for the draft."

Some, however, caution that although these regulations are fairly recent and updated they may change if and when the draft is enacted.

"There are some regulations now and some that would be put into place," said Jim Lafferty, a New York lawyer specializing in draft law.

Included in the draft regulations set forth by the Selective Service System are a number of deferrals, postponements, and exemptions under which a man of draftable age may fall. Two situations include conscientious

Campus groups focus on war Teach-in, candlelight vigil featured this week

By Andrew Scott
ASSISTANT NEWS EDITOR

A teach-in on the Middle East and a candlelight vigil for the troops will be held this Wednesday, sponsored by the Student Mobilization Committee (SMC), People for Peace, the Political Science Department, WPC Coalition for Peace in the Middle East and some members of the WPC faculty, said Hal Levy, president of the SMC.

"SMC feels the best way to support our troops is to bring them back alive."—Kidd

ment, WPC Coalition for Peace in the Middle East and some members of the WPC faculty, said Hal Levy, president of the SMC.

The teach-in begins at 9:30 a.m. in the Ballroom and continues until 5:00 p.m. The vigil, which begins at 5:30 in Caldwell Plaza, will be in support of the troops currently in the Persian Gulf, in remembrance of the Vietnam veterans suffering from Agent Orange and in honor of all MIAs and POWs in the Persian Gulf and elsewhere, Levy said. There will be a microphone open to speakers at the vigil.

These are just two of the events planned by groups such as the SMC and People for Peace to show concern for the situation in the Middle East, said Levy and Robert Kidd, SMC vice president and member of People for Peace.

On Feb. 2, SMC and the Northeastern Coalition for Peace in the Middle East will sponsor a demonstration at the Montclair Recruiting Station, 691 Plymouth Avenue in Montclair, Kidd said.

On Feb. 13 (Ash Wednesday) the SMC will hold another candlelight vigil, he said.

"SMC feels the best way to support our troops is to bring them back alive," Kidd said. "We demand a cease of hostilities and a peaceful solution to the Middle East situation. We completely oppose any reactivation of the draft."

1990 THE YEAR IN REVIEW

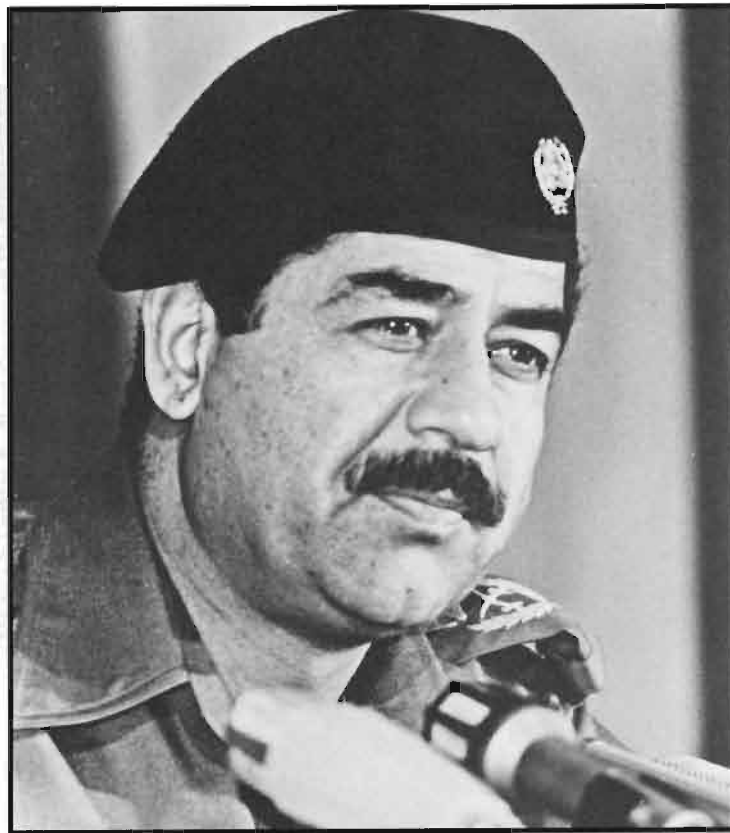

Miss Piggy, Kermit the Frog, Big Bird, Bert and Ernie, Fozzie Bear and the Cookie Monster (as well as children of all ages) lost a dear friend when Muppet creator Jim Henson died on May 16, 1990 after a severe case of pneumonia.

Nelson Mandela, worldwide symbol of the struggle against apartheid, was released from prison by the South African government where he had been held for nearly two decades on charges of plotting the overthrow of that government.

Looks may be deceiving: Donald and Ivana Trump separated after 13 years of marriage after Donald was linked (and repeatedly unlinked) with model Marla Maples. At the same time, Trump's fortune was slowly eroded, leading him toward financial disaster.

Saddam Hussein, dictator of Iraq, invaded tiny but oil-rich Kuwait in August of 1990, quickly making most of the world his enemy. Even after his army met defeat by the U.S. led Desert Storm coalition, Hussein managed to remain in power.

The U.S., and worldwide coalition of allies, sent troops to the Middle East to counter Iraq's move into Kuwait. On January 16, Operation Desert storm was launched, eventually culminating in the near-complete destruction of the Iraqi army at a miraculously light cost in terms of men and materials to the allies.

Mikhail Gorbachev, President of the Soviet Union shown here with President Bush, started the Soviet Union down the road toward a free market democracy, and successfully withstood a summer coup led by Communist hardliners against his reform government.

Hours after Iraq's invasion of Kuwait, Kuwaitis the world over took to the streets to demonstrate their opposition to the takeover of their country. Demonstrators shown here protest in London.

MUSIC AND SPORTS IN REVIEW

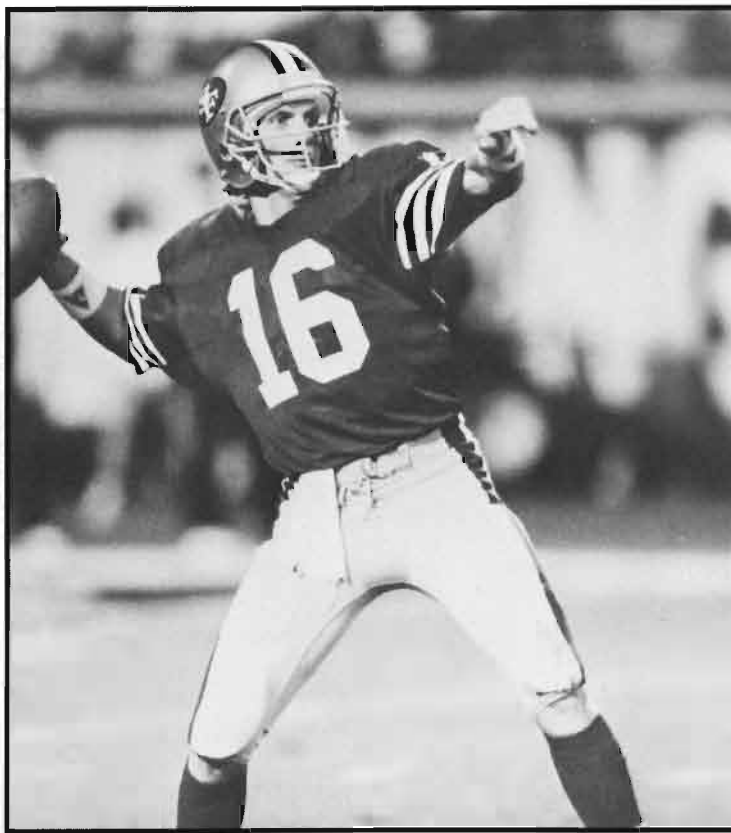

The veteran band Aerosmith, led by Steve Tyler, may have enjoyed their biggest year to date in 1990. Their latest album, "Pump," was near the top of the charts for the entire year.

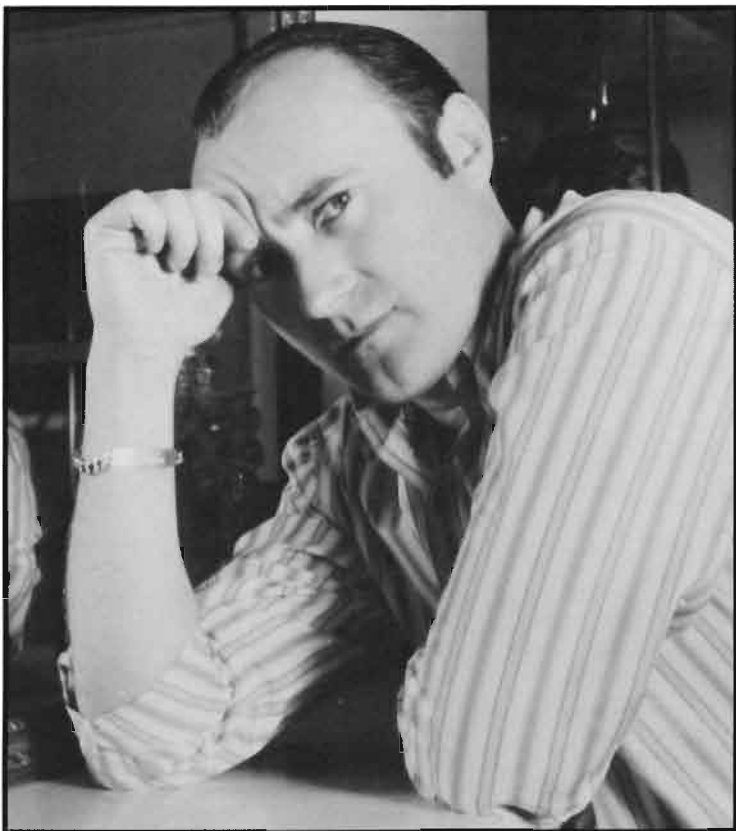

27-year-old rap star M.C. Hammer's second album, "Please, Hammer, Don't Hurt 'Em," sold close to 5 million copies and is one of the few rap albums to land at the top of the pop charts. Hammer's concert performances are marked by flashy dancing and plenty of back-up performers.

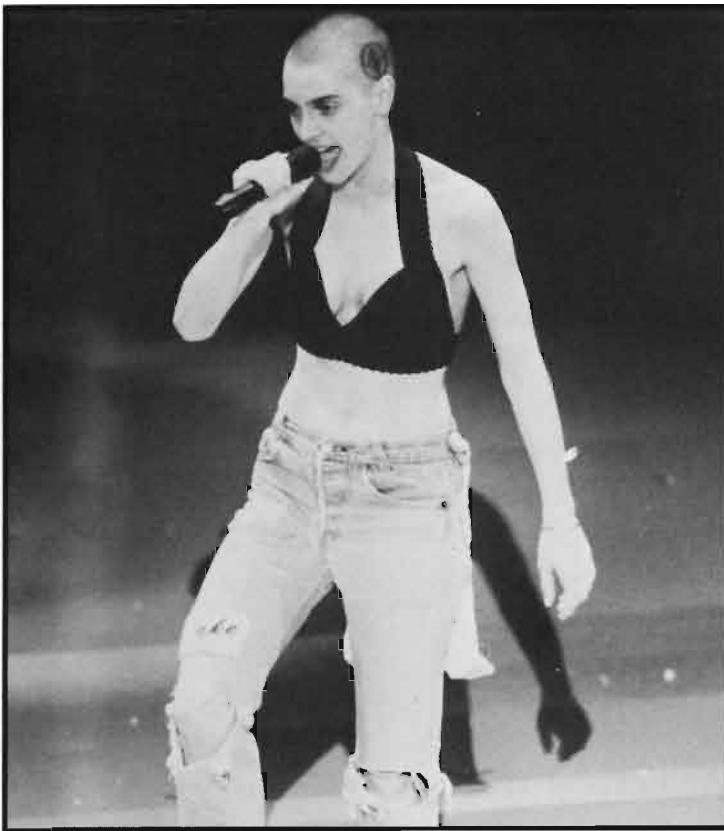

Madonna, America's premier material girl, was red hot with hit after hit on the charts. Her albums, costumes and movies combined to keep her front and center in the public's attention.

Quarterback Joe Montana led the San Francisco 49ers to the 1990 Super Bowl championship. He saw his team replaced in 1991 by Jersey's own Giants. The Giants, under back-up quarterback Jeff Hostetler, defeated the Buffalo Bills when Bills kicker Scott Norwood missed a potentially game-winning field goal.

Rock superstar Phil Collins started as a drummer in the British group Genesis and became lead vocalist in 1976. His latest album, "... But Seriously," topped the charts along with his hot single, "Something Happened on the Way to Heaven."

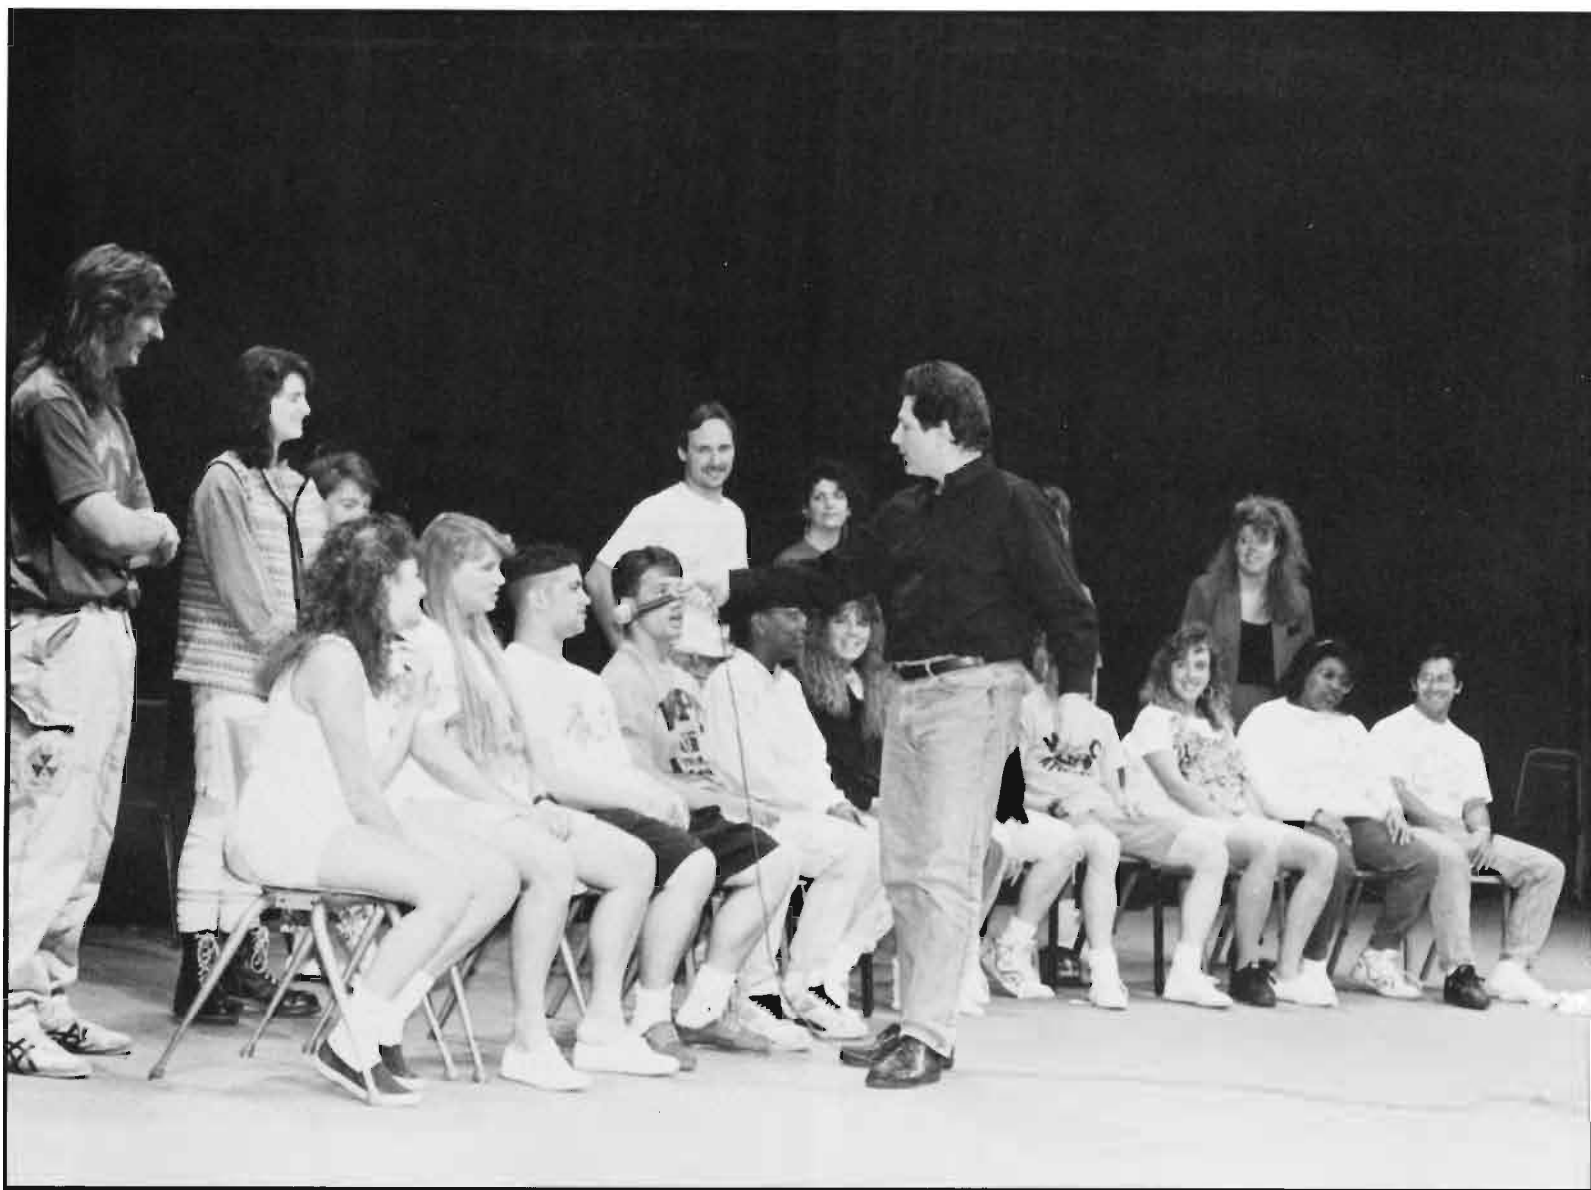

The Irish singer Sinead O'Connor, easily recognized by her shaved head and immense eyes, became known for her music, her feminism, and for refusing to allow the Star Spangled Banner to be performed at the opening of one of her shows.

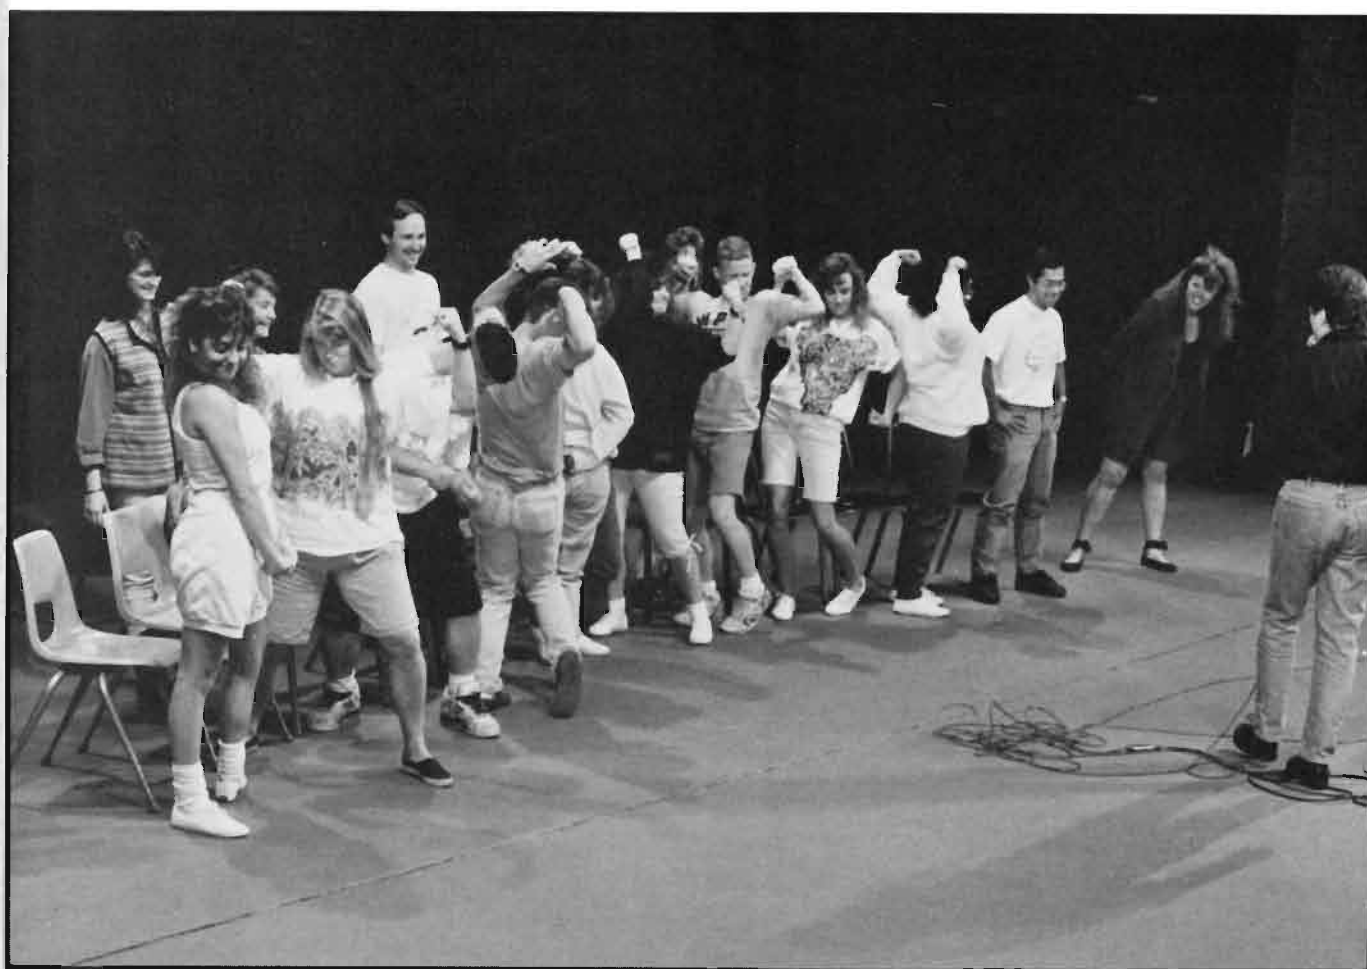

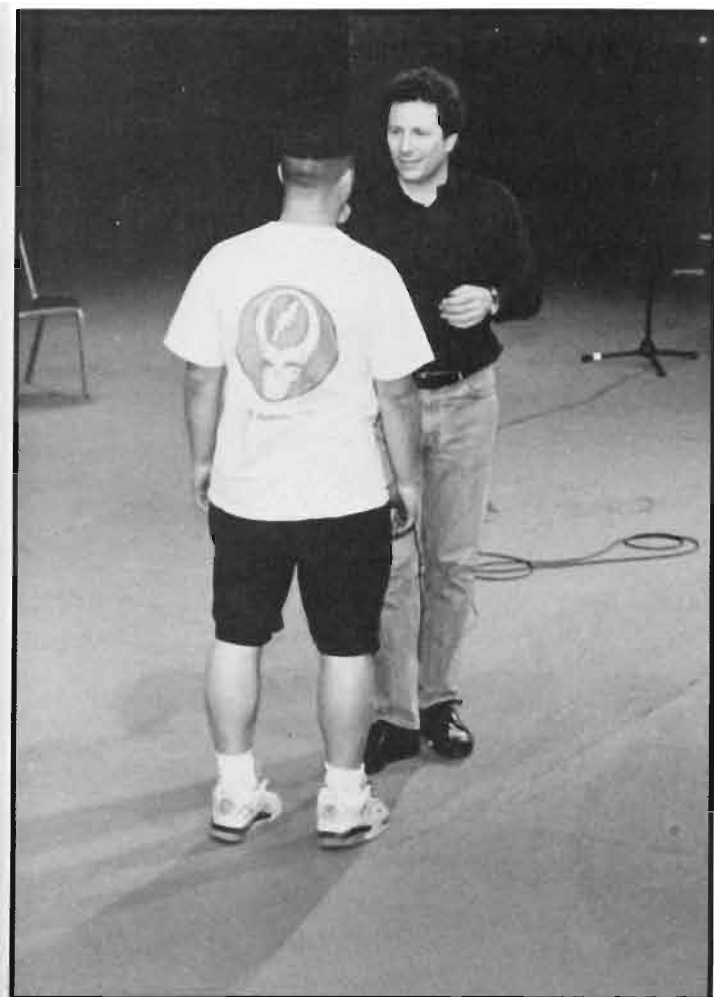

Ageless Nolan Ryan continued to pitch outstandingly and holds more than 40 major league records, including most no-hitters, most one-hitters, and most strike outs in a career.

Janet Jackson skyrocketed to the top in 1990. Sister of Michael Jackson and the rest of the famed Jackson Five, she hit it big with "Rhythm Nation 1814."

Congratulations!

The Alma Mater

Professor Mark Karp
Professor Earl Weidner

To thee our Alma Mater/We raise our voices high
In learning's path you'll lead us/To follow you we'll try We'll guard and share thy learnings/Diffuse thy truth and light
Enlighten eager children/Add to our country's might
The years may soon divide us/Our hearts return to thee
Thy lessons held and cherished/Enshrined in memory
We're pioneers courageous/We face a wider world
Aiding the spread of knowledge
Truth's banner bright unfurled.

Editor's Note

This yearbook marks the end of a part of your lives that you'll never forget. Learning experiences, friends, adventures, parties and other memories. It also marks the end of my three year reign as Pioneer Yearbook Editor-in-Chief. I'd like to thank all the students for their cooperation, their photos and most of all for being themselves on campus.

The end of my being Editor and your being WPC students also means the BEGINNING. It is the beginning of the rest of your lives in the "real world". As we all know, it is really rough out there. Hopefully, WPC has prepared you to face the challenges that we will all face.

Use this yearbook, which is tailored for your use, to look back and remember your years at WPC. Never forget all of these fond experiences.

I thank you for giving me this opportunity to make your college experience a life-long memory.

Good luck!

Love,

Stephanie Saul, Class of '91

I'd especially like to thank my mom and dad, my sister Carolyn, Michael Gray, my yearbook staff and of course, Jerry, the best Josten's representative, for all the support and help you have given me over the past years.

THANKS!!

The Lord is my shepherd, I shall not want.

He maketh me to lie down in green pastures: He leadeth me beside the still waters. He restoreth my soul: He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for His name's sake. Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death I will fear no evil for Thou art with me: Thy rod and Thy staff they comfort me. Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies: Thou anointest my head with oil: my cup runneth over. Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life; and I will dwell in the house of the Lord forever.
