Air Pollution Subject Of Lecture Two

The second in a series of evening lectures sponsored by the Field Natural History Club will be given on Wednesday, November 20, at 7:00 p.m. in the Wing 101. Dr. Felix Yerzley, associate professor of science at Paterson State College, will lecture on the causes, effects, and control of air pollution.

Dr. Yerzley has been a member of the faculty for three years, teaching physics and physical science. Before joining Paterson State's faculty, Dr. Yerzley had served as a Consulting Engineer with L. E. Waterman Company, Plant Manager and Director of Research and engineering for the Bell Telephone Company, and a Product and Development Engineer with the E. I. Dupont De Nemours and Company. Since 1951 to date, he heads Yerzley and Company, Consulting Service and manufacture of special products, Newark, New Jersey.

PSC Campus Life Featured In Film

The Most Important Subject, the new film about campus life at Paterson State, will be shown on Thursday, November 21, at 1:30 p.m. in W-101.

Mr. Raymond Miller, associate professor of Social Science, is responsible for the photography. The background music is provided by Dr. Martin Civin, assistant professor of Music, while Dr. Robert Leppert, associate professor of Speech, narrates the film. The written material was supplied by Mrs. Virginia Randall, director of Informational Services.

The film includes glimpses of dances, sports, cafeteria, and several students on student teaching.

The film will eventually be used as a recruiting film to be shown to high school seniors, giving them a preview of Paterson State.

Dr. Shea Outlines Development Fund

The Beacon Staff has asked me, for the benefit of new readers, to write briefly about our Paterson State College Development Fund, Inc.

Paterson State College Development Fund, Inc., is an independent corporation brought into being by initial gifts from the Alumni Association, the Student Cooperative Association, and the Student Government Association. Its object is to receive and to determine the disbursement of funds for the expansion and enrichment of the College. Its Board is charged with the responsibility of promoting activities to add to its capital and to make decisions concerning its expenditures.

We take great pride in the fact that our Development Fund became a reality through the full understanding and cooperation of all responsible elements of our college community — Alumni, Faculty, Students, and Administration. We hope in the years to come that our unique Board, consisting of five members of the College by virtue of their incumbency as presidents of their respective organizations, and ten laymen of distinction, will bring to the Fund their considered opinion of ways to build for the immediate and the future of the College. Hopes were high that what had lifted last year's Alumni Association, Student Government Association

Senior Teaching

The first meeting of all G.E. Seniors for Student Teaching and placement orientation will be held at 10:30 a.m., Thursday, November 21 in Memorial Gymnasium. No student is excused. Absentees will lose priority in placement unless present.

COMMITTEE SEEKS USABLE CLOTHES

The Foster Child Committee will begin its clothing drive starting Monday, November 18 to November 15, announced Fran Mroz and Nancy Briggs, co-chairmen of the committee. Items may be brought to the Lounge in Wayne Hall.

This year the committee is sponsoring a woman and two boys from Essie, Kentucky. Some of the necessary items needed are ladies' and boys' clothing (all sizes), bed spreads, curtains, towels, silverware, and used cooking utensils.

Council, Student Cooperative Association, Faculty, and Administration would have continuing momentum.

Our efforts have paid off! Since the initial fund was established we have received $1,000 from the Alumni Association, seven $100 individual Alumni and Faculty donations, and sums ranging from $5.00 to $25.00 for a total of $1,922.50. I call upon all students and faculty to make this Paterson State College Development Fund, Inc. something to make other colleges "sit up and take notice." Yours for a bigger and greater Paterson State College.

Food Stuffs Sought For Thanksgiving

The Citizenship Club's Thanksgiving Day Food Drive began last Monday and will continue to November 26. Students are asked to bring in non-perishable food items and place them in cartons located in the Snack Bar, College Center, and Lounge, Wayne Hall.

All types of food are needed — canned goods, cereals, juices, etc. The food stuffs will be sorted and along with a large turkey delivered to a needy family in the Paterson area.

The Campus Controversy

Since the appearance of the Bond Issue circulars which Paterson State students received through the mail, many questions have been raised concerning the origin and financing of the flyers.

At the Experiment in International Living assembly on October 29, Dr. Marion E. Shea, president of the College, told student listeners that the amount of $350 was withdrawn from the College Development Fund to meet publication expenses. Dr. Shea further explained that these bulletins were an attempt to promote the passing of the Bond Issue on Election Day, November 5.

The College Development Fund was organized last year to accumulate funds to be utilized in the expansion and improvement of Paterson State College (see Dr. Shea Outlines Development Fund, page one). By virtue of her position as president of the College, Dr. Shea is a member of the board of trustees along with the presidents of the Student Government Association, the Alumni Association, the Student Cooperative Association, Faculty Association and Administration. This board is delegated to regulate Development Fund monies. Therefore, there is no question as to the legality of the $350 expenditure.

However, students have questioned the consistency of the college policy concerning political organizations. If the college does not permit the existence of such organizations, this same college policy should not give support to political issues, such as the recent Bond Issue.

Dr. Shea has stated in recent interviews with BEACON staffers that the money for the circulars was used to fulfill one of the goals of the College Development Fund. The issue did not begin as a political one. However, as the November 5 date drew near, the Bond Issue was a discussion point for political organizations throughout the state.

While the Bond Issue was designed to bring 9.9 million dollars to Paterson State's expansion program, those in authority are obliged to consider the college's policies, regardless of the amount involved.

Furthermore, while we realize the necessity of the College Development Fund, the Student Government Association should encourage the use of the present sum of $1,922.50 in areas which do not conflict with college policies. (i.e., are not for political, religious benefits.)

If the Development Fund is to function in the best interest of the college then the erection of bleachers on Wightman Field and improvement of the present campus tennis courts can feasibly be accomplished without repetition of the recent conflict in policies.

ON POLITICAL ORGANIZATIONS

by Richard Strassberg

A week or so ago, the writer of this column received a small pamphlet in the mail. It was soliciting votes for the bond issues which were coming before the public ballot on November 5. It seemed at first, that there was nothing unusual about this pamphlet — it appeared to be merely another one of the run of the mill political pamphlets which are so common around election time. On closer examination, however, it proved to be of a great deal more significance.

Appended to the writer's address on this flyer was the numeral "65" — the year of his graduation from Paterson State — and furthermore, the document had been mailed from Wayne. Upon additional investigation it appeared that its appeal for the "yes" vote was based upon the claim — a quite justified one — that the state supported institutions of higher learning were in desperate need of additional building funds to house the increased number of students they would have to serve. This request was signed by the presidents of the several state colleges and universities whose institutions would benefit from the passage of the bond legislation — among them was Dr. Marion E. Shea of Paterson State College.

On campus, inquiry proved the suspicions the writer had formulated as to the source of the pamphlets was correct — they had emanated from Paterson State College, and, furthermore, three hundred and fifty dollars of the Paterson State Development Fund — to which the students indirectly contribute through the S.G.A. — had aided in their dissemination.

There can be no doubt that the $9,900,000 that Paterson State College would have been granted if the bond issue had gone through would have aided greatly to the college's growth and development. Nevertheless, it seems incongruous that the same administration that had banned political organizations from the PSC campus had used the funds of that same institution to promote a partisan vote on what was one of the hottest political issues that New Jersey had ever faced.

It is not this writer's intent to place to cast aspersions on the policies of the administration of Paterson State College. It is his place, however, to ask whether or not the issues and controversies caused by the bond issue could not have been more effectively brought to the attention of Paterson State's organizations with a posing views. Surely this method would have been more effective than the mailing of paper flyers, and certainly less expensive since it wouldn't cost the college a cent. It would also have given the students a chance to hear both sides of the issues, and in a depth that no pamphlet could match.

This whole incident serves to illustrate the crying need for political organizations on Paterson State's campus. The bond issue is

by James Miller
Assistant Feature Editor

Editor's reply: The opinions expressed by James Miller in the following feature article are not necessarily those of the State BEACON's Board of Control or other members of the newspaper's staff.

There has been in the last five years a new reawakening of a small minority of students who feel the urgency of the times. Fighting against racial injustice at home and international injustice abroad, they have succeeded in securing upon the United States' campus a beachhead of concern — a beachhead of concern against the conservative and apathetic wall that is the university. Because of them a new hope lives — a hope that the university (indeed, Paterson State College) may not continue to be a place where the commitment is to inner emigration of administrators and faculty, business-as-usual procedures, playing it safe, and the getting-ahead brand of philosophy — a hope that the college will become more than a place of the Mass Affirmation of the Twist, but mass denial of the controversial public stance — a hope that the university will become more than a place where "rules are accepted as inevitable, intolerance as scholarship, and individuality as martyrdom."

Yet, these are only dimly realized hopes. For the mass of students — even here at Paterson State — do not value activity as citizens. One need only note the political ignorance, the political apathy on the campus possess. To note the general apathy, Gallop has said that they (college students in general) will settle for "low success" and will not chance "high failure" in life. The blame for such apathy must — at least here at Paterson State College — rest with the Administration. By denying groups at Paterson State College, Yes, the Administration, have asked us what we cannot do, i.e., to find our personal identity in the homogeneous image of others. You have asked us to disavow our differences and place in their stead a conformed identity of false unity. This we cannot do. You have asked us not to form political organizations and have drawn "dangerous" goals, dare controversial courses, or dare awaken the general mind. You have asked us to conform, in a word, our own innate creativity to places where such creativity can have no influence and no power. You have asked us to adjust to life, i.e., to find our own personal

FROM CAMPUS TO CAMPUS... FROM COAST TO COAST...

THEY ALL LOVE

THAT

If you can take your nose out of that text book for just a moment, you'll notice that Yum-Yum has emerged as the most stimulating campus sport in many a year. Who needs panty raids when you can Yum-Yum under a large tree or in a little sports court? Be advised, however, that on rainy days the most hip prefer their Yum-Yum indoors. (Research rooms of libraries and empty field houses are considered the choicest locations.)

As you've probably deduced by now, Yum-Yum is strictly for Him and Her. And in Columbia's riotous new comedy "UNDER THE YUM-YUM TREE", (Columbia Pictures, not Columbia University) Yum-Yum is developed into a high art form by its greatest practitioner, "Hogan."

Hogan, hilariously portrayed by Jack Lemmon, is a lecherous landlord who rents apartments to attractive girls and goes from door to door with a heart-shaped passkey. One of the tenants is Carol Lynley, a curvy co-ed who is conducting a cozy experiment in platonic, pre-marital co-habitation. (It's all in the interests of science.) Dean Jones is her nervous wreck of a fiance and Edie Adams is on the premises as the marriage-counseling teacher who takes a tumble for Hogan.

Hogan's own apartment, happily referred to as "The Sin Bin," is an electronic ambush-on-virtue that could make etchings obsolete. There's a violin section, for example, that emerges out of nowhere and plays, without benefit of human hands, "Music To Make Yum-Yum By." There's also a bar with enough whiskey to refloat the Titanic. But don't get Hogan wrong. Jack Lemmon defines Hogan as "a man who is outraged at humanity. Therefore, everything that seems outlandish and bizarre to the rest of the world, seems perfectly normal to him. Hogan cannot understand why the world is so ungrateful to him."

We guarantee it's marvelous mayhem and sure-fire material for a term paper on Laughter. It may not earn you an "A" — but what an "education" when you see Jack Lemmon in Columbia Picture's "UNDER THE YUM-YUM TREE," co-starring: Carol Lynley • Dean Jones • Edie Adams • Imogene Coca • Paul Lynde • Robert Lansing and The Yum-Yum Girls.

SMOTHERS BROTHERS perform before Peterson State students, faculty and guests. The folk singers tell in an interview with BEACON staffers how they create a routine. See feature article by Cathy Sain.

Capacity Audience Greets Smothers Bros.

by Cathy Sain

"We're a small group," quipped Tom Smothers, beginning an evening of folk singing and comedy. More than sixteen hundred students and their guests filled Memorial Gymnasium on November 5 to attend the Smothers Brothers

The brothers organized their act four years ago when Tom persuaded Dick to join him at San Jose State College in California. For a while, they worked, on Sundays at the "Kerosene Club." Heading for greater things, they auditioned for the "Purple Onion" in San Francisco. Signed for a two-week engagement, they left after a record-breaking thirty-six weeks. Since then they have performed throughout the country. Their T.V. appearances have included Jack Paar's "Tonight" show, the "Steve Allen Show" and the "Garry Moore Show." In addition they have appeared at nightclubs and college concerts across the country.

Communism Is Stagnant Comments V. Packard

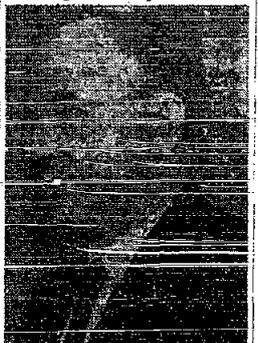

by Rosanne Ponchick and Al Pecci

"Communism is stagnant. It has been so for the past decade," stated author, sociologist and philosopher Vance Packard at the assembly held in Memorial Gymnasium last Tuesday. "The American way of life," continued Packard, "is the most dynamic force prevalent in the world today." He then proceeded to outline the seven most profound changes that affect us as future teachers and the children we will influence in later years. Among the first points Packard

Packard did not fail to note the importance of the population explosion. According to the lecturer, 4/5 of the American population will live in urban areas in the next decade. But this vast expansion cannot take up the market excess created by America's tremendous productivity. Even now, this is causing industry to send representatives far afield in search of world market outlets.

As one of his seven changes that remains apart from the others, Packard emphasized the America's growing reliance on military and space spending. "Today we pile up objects that aren't of any use to us and save them for war," stressed Packard. Due to rapid technological advances, there is a great growth, in this country, of large organizations. "Today, bigness is the way to do things," Mr. Packard pointed out.

The author of the Hidden Persuaders concluded his address by stressing the growing realization of the importance of education. "Education is a lateral entrance to business today," remark Packard. "Gone are the days of working ones way up the ladder to success. Today a young man enters industry as a college graduate." In brief summation Packard concluded, "It would be a dull world if there weren't challenges."

outlined were America's productivity and consumption. Americans are not only concerned with producing goods but also with removing these goods, from the market to make room for even more. These goods are, therefore, sold under pressure. "We use 50% more today than in the past," emphasized Packard. "But, nearly all of this we can do without."

the first political issue to education, nor will it be the As citizens, and even more as future teachers, it behooves us to be aware of these and the issues that face the public, to better and more American in there to decide once and for all on an issue than through the sum of partisan debate. It is of the foundations by which those our selected representatives — from our town's council to the President of the United States. By being denied political organizations on campus, we are denied a main source of issue debate and, hence, a great of our practical political education. It is this writer's belief that a policy is not consistent with the goal of "education teacher-representatives for a democracy," and, therefore, must be re-considered. Peterson State students are to receive the broad and well-rounded total education they deserve.

Rumblings From A Rambler

by Tom Terwort

Now that the soccer season has reached its termination, it becomes appropriate to recognize those seniors who have kicked their last ball for PSC. Heading the list are four-year lettermen, Carmen DeSopo, Jim Hefferman, while Pete Helff and Angelo Izzo have obtained three letters. Richie Witte, Preston Pratala and Don Saviano are of two-year fame.

As a guest writer, I find it necessary to give Carmen special recognition for the ability he has displayed in the last four years. Carmen, a graduate of Central in Paterson, has scored thirty-one goals in thirty-six games establishing the college record. He also holds the single season record by leading twelve goals in eleven games last year. Combining his playing ability with leadership, he has served as co-captain for the last two campaigns.

As the dust particles settle on the soccer books, we open another — basketball. Plenty of victories and crowded stands full of spectators should accompany PSC hoops this season. With co-captains Steve Clancy and Don Dahn leading the squad, improvement over last year is apparent. Strong assistance is expected of returning lettermen Ed Gault, Bill Born, Chuck Martin, and Bill Joosten. Up from last year's junior varsity squad are sophomores Vince Ditta, Harold Dodds, and Bill Kopcha. Other new faces include freshman Tom DeStefano and senior Mike Mugno. With this team, it becomes evident that the fans can prepare for a winning season. Success for the Pioneers is inevitable, so let's cheer them to victory!

educational objectives via group interaction, or gain high academic status per se. This, too, we cannot do. For you have ignored, it seems, that one great factor that separates a college from a grammar school — intellectual cultivation through collective action.

You have, it appears, told us that we cannot have such diverse groups because they breed dissent. Yet is not dissent the bed-ground of dissent — the place where all may be heard and all may act within the given framework? In the society beyond the protective fences of Paterson State, is it not true that even extremists are given relatively free play in the struggle for man's mind? Is it not true that to outlaw the action of the collective will for the sake of the sublimation of differences among men constitutes a tyranny over a "democratic" state.

Democracy means differences. Democracy means differences which are expressed according to a fair standard of rules as contained in the Constitution of the United States. Just because you deal with students who are virtually economically dependent upon the State does not justify denying to the student body certain basic freedoms — the freedom of speech, religion, press, and in this instance, the freedom of association which carries as a corollary the freedom to persuade.

By telling us we cannot be different, or we cannot do differently, you, it seems, establish an unwritten tyranny over us. You do this by pressuring to know what is better for us than we ourselves, and by also assuming that we have the inherent right, in virtue of your position, to control the mind of the student body and increase. Our student Government Association does not appear to view the Association's check as a means to have real validity as a training ground for democratic leaders. Creating the will, encourages not democracy but political practice. Time, in preparing us for democracy, has been totally given to the knowledge of its experience. Your presidential seems to desire "educating" students for a democracy as a serious objective for this college. You do not take democracy very seriously yourselves — at least when it applies to students.

As an interaction, the nature of consent is by which you seek to live and which you seem ready to thrust upon us, forces us to discuss democracy and over-year philosophy of non-divisive, sterile unanimity.

Through fear of external ramifications, you have made us (over one thousand students who voted and voice their feelings in the October Opinion Poll conducted by the S. G. A.) afraid to dissent, afraid to organize, and afraid to differ.

The solution? PSC, it appears, must realize the ray of hope ignited by those students who here, and everywhere, encourage growth through political, religious, or social action. PSC must transfer itself into what a college must and should be — a laboratory for political, social, and religious activities. PSC must cease to be another TV station channeling to its students the stock trends of the day. True, it must encourage tolerance, yet it must realize that Tolerance is Never Sought at the Harshed Price of Conformity. It must and the school of thought now unanimously prevalent on the campus, that the student will learn to accept the rules of the power elite regardless of his convictions, that the student shall be isolated from any useful political, social, or religious activity. In a word it must rise and for all truly completely, and sincerely become democratic.

Dick had that he is particularly in due to the ability of both men to say things. "Some are written about contemporary problems." They also agreed that only the best groups will survive.

At the time we reported, Dick replied, "Never" were then answered. "Always." Admitting that they get along pretty well, Dick said, "Brothers are well as such other better." Tweaking at each the first three points kept them together amicably. Today, however the brothers are both covered and live in different cities. Luckily, they "stay together for weekends."

Presumably recognizing a General Election, they are headed for elections in Pennsylvania. You're glad making a fifth attempt of straight winning, which Dick has (unofficially) called, "The Snakehead Brothers Stay Together, Feed and Eat."

Harriers Top Record Finish Season, 7-31

Led by sophomore captain Joe Dzierawicz, the Paterson State cross country team has successfully completed the season with a 7-1 record in dual meet competitions, have placed second in NJSCAC and third in the NAIA Division 31 Championships.

"The Magnificent Seven," as the harriers have come to be known, are Juniors Ron Simmons, Jim White, and Cliff Williams, and sophomores Dzierawicz, Bill Hagman, Tom Dowd, and Tom Vitolo.

Coach Jim Lepanto's runners opened the season by defeating Jersey City, 25-30, then losing to Montclair State, 21-31. The Pioneers made a strong comeback by upsetting a Glassboro squad, 27-22, followed by victories over Woodstock, 24-25, New York Maritime, 28-29, FDU Madison, 20-35, St. Peter's, 20-36, and Upsala, 16-42.

Coach Comments

When asked by BEACON reporters about last Saturday's NAIA Championship, Coach Lepanto benedicted the fact that, "we should have done much better. Our times were not the best of the season." The Pioneer harriers took third in the competition losing to Glassboro and Delaware State Colleges. "However," added Coach Lepanto, "we came back to defeat Montclair after losing to them earlier in the year."

Seven Return

Next season the cross country team will see all seven harriers returning for an expectedly more impressive season. Dzierawicz, who broke Brian McColgan's course record of 30:27.5 with a 30:19 second, placed fifth in the NAIA meet. The Math major from Paterson also runs with the Montclair Track Club.

Williams, who recorded his best time against St. Peter's, came in sixth in the NAIA Championship. The General Elementary major from Passaic also runs with the Montclair Athletic Association.

A transfer student from Seton Hall, Hagman is a Social Science major at Paterson State. Throughout the season, he was a steady third man for the harriers, and last Saturday, he placed 20th and tied for the Division 31.

Following close behind Hagman in the NAIA Competition were Simmons and White. The runner from Belleville and North Haledon, respectively, finished for the college in both NAIA and New Jersey State Colleges Conference Association Championships. Both runners are looking forward to next season to improve their personal course records.

Speech Correction major, Dowd, came through for the Pioneers in the FDU game. The student from Paterson stated, "I had to place in the top five in order for us to win."

The last of the "Magnificent Seven," White is a new eye to the harriers. The Social Science major also plays varsity baseball. Managing the harriers, along with the seven, coach Lepanto said, "I had to place in the top five in order for us to win."

Trenton Shuts Out Paterson, 6-0

An overpowering Trenton team shut-out the Paterson, 6-0, November 11, in the Levers Field. With the loss, Trenton State captured its second consecutive championship, leaving PSC among the state colleges finishing the season with a 4-1-1 record record, and a 2-1-1 all picture.

Trenton's powerful attack took control early in the period by scoring two goals in half time they led the game 4-0.

In spite of the scoreline for Paterson, the Pioneers had a commendable goal in many offensive threats and opportunities. Trenton State played the soccer contest on November 11, 1961.
