Campus Queen To Be Named At Tomorrow's Coronation Ball

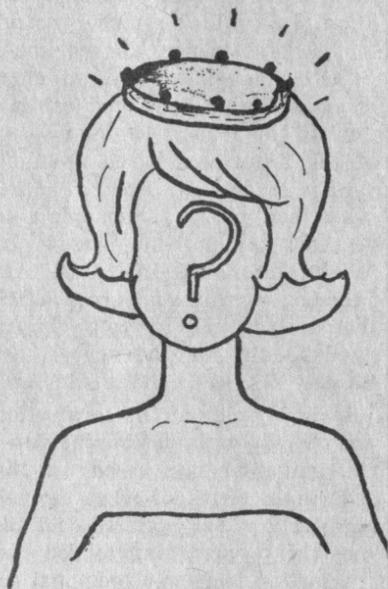

Crowning of the co-ed who will reign as Queen of Paterson State College for the 1964 year will be featured at the Coronation Ball tomorrow night in Memorial Gymnasium. Vying for the title of Campus Queen are Sandy Calabrese, Connie Caes, Janet Harms, Rose Marie Mazono, Evelyn Molinsky, and Carol Struble.

Announcing the results of the week's voting will be Diane Howard, reigning queen. Miss Howard, who was named at last year's ceremony, will place the traditional crown upon the newly elected queen.

Escorting the candidates will be Jim Hollenbach, Ed Harrison, Art Rittenhouse, Alan Kaminsky, Steve Clancy, and Rich Holden.

The sophomore class, sponsor of the annual dance, has selected a Venetian theme for the semi-formal affair. Music will be provided by Jimmy Grimes Orchestra from 8 to midnight. Aside from the ten musicians, there will be a female vocalist to entertain Paterson State students, guests and faculty.

Admission will be by ticket only which may be obtained by voting for one of the six candidates. Voting will continue until 3:30 p.m. today in the Snack Bar of the College Center.

Juniors Attend Confab; College Plans Program

Attending the Eleventh Annual Leadership Training and Human Relations Workshop on February 6-9 in Spring Valley, New York, were juniors Cathy Cahill and Clifford Raymond. The purpose of the conference was to attain an understanding of the individual's role in a group.

Seventy-eight students from the City College of New York, Bronx Community College and Paterson State College, along with ten administrators from these colleges, met at the Spring Rock Valley Country Club for the three day workshop. Paterson State College was able to attend for the first time through the financial assistance of the Student Government Association.

Campus Program Planned

As a result of the workshop, juniors Cahill and Raymond will apply what they learned at the conference in forming the first Leadership Laboratory at Paterson State College. This projected laboratory will be held May 25-27 at Sharpe's Reservation in Fishkill, New York. Co-ordinator of the program will be Dr. Kenneth Herrold and his corps of trainers who will work exclusively with the fifty accepted applicants from Paterson State. Applications for the workshop are open to all students of Paterson State. These applications are subject to review by a committee composed of faculty and students.

In an overall view, the purpose of the workshop is to develop a background in student leadership and human relations. This background will be useful in relating the role of the student as a future educator in the school and a citizen of the community. A prerequisite of a teacher is the ability to cope with the problems that beset a group and their function as such. One of the purposes of the projected conference is to create a sense of awareness in the mind of the student concerning the problems confronted in group work. Further information will be published in subsequent issues of the BEACON.

Six Professors Join PSC Faculty

Six members have been added to the Paterson State College faculty this semester. Three of these have been appointed on a temporary basis. Four have joined the staffs of the art, social science and English departments and the library. The remaining two will be assisting with student-teaching supervision.

Dr. Joyce Royer Lynch has been appointed as an associate professor of art. Dr. Lynch received a B.S. from the University of Minnesota, and an M.A. and an Ed.D. from Teachers College, Columbia. She has had experience in the supervision of elementary and high school art, and has taught art at Glassboro and in the part-time division at Trenton State. Dr. Lynch is a resident of Lawrenceville, New Jersey.

Mrs. Norma N. Yueh has been appointed as an assistant professor in the library. She was graduated from high school in Tientsin, China, and attended Yenching University in Peking and St. John's University in Shanghai. She emigrated from China in 1948. She received a B.S. from St. Joseph's College in Hartford, Conn. and an M.S. from the University of Southern California, Los Angeles. She has served as librarian at the University of Southern California, in the New York public library and public schools in Yonkers. Mrs. Yueh, her husband and two daughters reside in Wayne.

Mrs. Sally N. Hand is temporarily assisting in the English department because of the illness of Mr. Theodore Holt. She received a B.A. in English from the University of Georgia, and an M.A. from Florida State University. Mrs. Hand has taught at Florida State, the University of Georgia, Rockland County High School, Westchester County High School and the Fleming Grammar School in Augusta, Georgia. Mrs. Hand has

236 Students Attain Dean's List Awards

Two Hundred and thirty-six Paterson State students achieved recognition on the Dean's List for the fall semester. In order to obtain the honor, students must receive a grade of "B" or better in all courses. One hundred and thirteen seniors, 60 juniors, 47 sophomores and 16 freshmen have qualified for the honor.

Glass Art Exhibit Shown In Lounge

Fused glass creations of Priscilla Manning Porter are currently on exhibition in the One-Man Show series in the Wing Lounge.

Miss Porter developed her fused glass techniques from experiments beginning in 1957 while she was teaching in the People's Art Center at the Museum of Modern Art. The fused glass technique consists of variations in the process of placing designs in layers of glass, both stained and clear, and fusing them in a kiln. The results of this process are panels, hanging forms and, more recently, free standing sculptural pieces.

Miss Porter graduated from Bennington College with a B.A. degree in science. Prior to her graduation she had travelled and studied in several schools located in California and Paris, France. Studies in ceramics were pursued at Greenwich House Potters, New York City, and at Alfred University, Alfred, New York. She has executed commissions in glass for Tiffany and Company and Bonwit Teller, both of New York City. Miss Porter's work is owned by the Corning Museum, of Corning, New York, and the International Pottery Museum of Faenza, Italy. Her work has been exhibited in Florida, Rhode Island, New York, Connecticut, Kentucky and Michigan. Georg Jensen, Inc., is Miss Porter's agent in New York City.

The exhibition of Miss Porter's fused glass will be on display on the Paterson State College campus in the Wing Lounge for the month of February. The public is invited to view the exhibition on week days between 8:30 A.M. and 4:30 P.M. Inquiries for the purchase of items may be made in the Department of Art which has arranged for the exhibition.

Beacon Initiates Trainee Program

A BEACON trainee program has been initiated by co-editor Michael J. Burns. The first meeting in the series was held on Monday evening, February 10, in the BEACON office, located on the second floor of the college center. The purpose of the program is to acquaint interested students with all production phases of the BEACON.

A typical comment

a student teacher might receive on his first day of practice teaching is "You're from Paterson State? Boy, do you have a lousy basketball team." While a school's athletic achievement is no measure of its academic stature, a highly rated team will add to the image presented to the public. This image is extremely important. Among the general public, many schools are rated through the ability of their teams. However, many colleges cannot afford to field a superior athletic team but the resultant image is compensated by favorable press. In the past, Paterson State College has usually received good press coverage. The area newspapers have been fair and impartial — with one exception.

Friday, February 7, the Paterson Evening News' sports department printed a story on the Paterson State-Bloomfield game. The writer saw fit to draw the analogy between the Pioneers and "Skid Row." Of all the remarks ever passed concerning this college as a unit, we do not believe any criticism will have such far reaching effects as this. The term is definitely derogatory in nature and cannot be construed in any other manner.

The article published by local newspaper is an example of what the BEACON knows to be "unethical journalism." The editors of the Paterson newspaper must feel the weight of public opinion through their "Letters to the Editor" column. Students and faculty have an obligation to Paterson State, to all associated with the institution, and especially to the individuals who play for State on all sports teams.

The BEACON strongly urges all its readers to voice their dissatisfaction with the Feb. 7 article. The reputation of Paterson State College is dangerously at stake if such articles of poor taste continue to appear in the local newspaper.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

There are abundant opportunities to specialize in the field of journalism. One may write feature articles, straight news events, society columns or one may write sports. In the writing of sports, the journalist has many opportunities which other journalists do not have. His style is usually bold and audacious. The finished copy is informal with an overall view toward a controlled looseness. But the sports writer must be highly objective. This is one of the major restrictions imposed upon him. This means that he cannot "beat the drum" for a local team and, at the same time, shade the performance of an outside team. This seems to be the case in a recent article in the Paterson Evening News. In the Feb. 7 edition, one of the sports staff referred to the Pioneer basketball team as "Skid Row." This term carries the connotation of derelicts, vagrants and other persons of low social value. All its implications are carried over to Paterson State itself since the team is recognized and supported. By no stretch of the imagination can there be any other interpretation. In the mildest sense, the writer of this article is guilty of poor judgment and partiality. But this issue goes even further than that. Since Paterson State College is a teachers college, the future graduates of this institution will be going into classrooms in the surrounding areas and, as a result of this article, are liable to the ridicule and scorn of the students. That the inane attitude of a careless and unthinking person must cause a further breakdown of teacher vs student relationships is unforgivable.

The present American society is highly sports conscious. This athletic mania has filtered down to the colleges and high schools of today with an appalling speed. Rules are broken, registration officials turn their heads and many players receive sizable cash returns for four years of "sporting endeavor." College sports today are big business. Fortunately, there are some colleges and high schools where sports are still played for "fun." This is unusual today. Evidently Paterson State is an unusual school. The members of the various teams are actually playing for enjoyment. They must be. After a ghastly season last year, many members of the Pioneer basketball team are playing again. Is this so strange? Evidently the sports writer previously referred to must think so and, wishing to disassociate himself from this strangeness, prefers to remain anonymous. Or was he searching for that most treasured possession of the journalistic field—a by-line? We can only hope that he gets one.

Dear Editor:

Having become an active member in campus activities in the past year I have had the opportunity to perceive the actions of the administration closely and in relation to this specific issue I find myself completely filled with hostility towards their procedures. In essence, I would like to relate to you what I can call "the most illogical situation that I found."

I am attempting to evaluate their actions in view of their most stated argument against organizations on campus, i.e., "discrimination." If the administration has decided to be the "Protector" of the individual's feelings why haven't they enhanced their effort (surely they have the power to do so), to eliminate the causes of discrimination as much as possible? Isn't this the logical course, if they hold to their principles and value them?

As to specifics, I would like to make known the circumstances involved with selection of members into "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities." The process was as follows: the incumbent members of the organization and the S.G.A. Executive Committee were given the "right" to select who was to be placed in this body for the forthcoming year. The selection was to be centered around an evaluation of the nominees in conjunction with an evaluation sheet which set the "norm" for the proceedings. The nominees were evaluated in terms of character and what they had contributed to the school. The evaluation of the latter was based upon diversity of activity. From the pre-subscribed norms it was plain to see that the nominee was to be "the well-rounded individual." In adhering to this standard I think that the real idea of what the individual did for the school was literally "thrown out the window."

In my opinion the evaluation was filled with discrimination—discrimination not based on the criteria in terms of what the administration has pointed out as "not the proper thing to do" discrimination in view of personal relationships, personalities, and conflicts of friendship with the nominee. I ask you, isn't discrimination one of the basic elements in the functioning of the life process? Don't we find this in social groups, service groups, everyday business affairs, and the teaching profession itself? Isn't it one of the basic qualities of human nature to discriminate and why is it bad? Yet, it seems to be in the eyes of the administration. It seems to me that they view it as being bad because of the whole idea that it is unfair to the person who does not belong to one of these groups because it places frustration and fear on this individual. When a student leaves this "institution" he is going to be cast into the world situation and I believe that he will be more frustrated than ever. Isn't it the responsibility of a college to educate the individual not only as to academic studies but in common sense situations and isn't the ultimate goal of education to make the individual aware of himself? Truly I can see no sense to the policy of non-recognition and I feel that the so-called "protectors" are by this very action destroying the worth of the individual. — Yes, YOU and I. It is time the STUDENTS OF PATERSON STATE COLLEGE woke up and fought for their rights — those rights given by the norms of society. On the other hand maybe not — maybe we are happy being treated as children. I call for action, but is anyone willing to listen and contribute?

Not forgetting my initial concern of the administration's inconsistency of policy, I think that if they do not follow up their actions of banning social, religious, and political organizations by revamping the selection process of "Who's Who" that they are motivated on the issue by their own selfish and petty interests. Having the college's name enhanced by this honorary society thereby bringing prestige to their administration is abusing their authority. If it is their concern to protect, I want them to think in terms of all the valuable people on this campus who were rejected because of personality conflict, etc. with the evaluators, and have the feeling of these people on their consciences.

CLIFFORD RAYMOND, '65

Dear Sports Editor:

In the Feb. 7th edition of the BEACON you made a reply to a letter submitted by Lon Law. In your reply you said fencing was a non-spectator sport and quote, "The fact that the non-spectator sports do or do not do well doesn't affect the popular athletic image of the college." I would like to say that both of these statements, if, pertaining to fencing (men's or women's) are false.

Fencing is a spectator sport, but at our school is not a popular spectator sport. An example of fencing as a spectator sport is Drew University. Drew, in its liberal arts division has a smaller male population than P.S.C. yet their men's fencing team draws as many as 150 spectators at home matches.

From your second statement, when you state a sport such as fencing (which you consider a non-spectator sport) doesn't affect the popular athletic image of the college, I greatly disagree with this.

Paterson State College is well known for its fencing and this affects the popular image of our college. If Paterson State were not well known then why do schools such as Syracuse University, West Point, and Rochester Institute of Technology schedule meets with us? An example of how fencing affects a school's image appeared in the Sunday Sports section of the New York Times on Feb. 2, 1964. Columbia and N.Y.U. had a fencing match and the coverage given them was just as complete if not more so than any of the major college basketball games covered. As well as the story there were two large pictures. These are larger schools, granted, but still this coverage affects the image of their schools.

This year the Men's Fencing Team has tried to make fencing a popular spectator sport at our school. There are schedules posted in the College Center, Wayne Hall, and the Wing. There are mimeographed programs that are given out to all spectators, explaining how to watch a fencing match, and something about each weapon used. Spectators are always welcome, and the team would appreciate knowing the school realizes fencing is a spectator sport.

I would like to conclude by saying that both the Men's and Women's Fencing Teams DO affect the popular athletic image of Paterson State College.

Sincerely yours,

Art Rittenhouse,
Manager,
Men's Fencing Team

World Spectrum

Brush Fire—South Africa

by Mary Anne Wierdo

What is the story of the present regime in South Africa and of the Black man's political atmosphere there? If one were to rely on information publicized by the government of South Africa, all would appear well. True, South Africa does have a thriving economy. It is rich in natural resources, and is the most highly industrial country on the continent. Another of its proud claims is that it has never asked for or received any foreign aid, and is one of the three nations in the world to have paid its war debt to the United States.

But, an important facet of its political make-up is the concept of separate development (apartheid). Most of South Africa (previously uninhabited) was settled between 1650 and 1850. Some areas were occupied by Whites (Dutch, British, French, Irish and German), while other regions were settled by the Bantu from Central and East Africa. (Bantu is a collective term for all black people, including tribes such as Xhosa, Zulu, Tswana and Sothos.) Although each group, both White and Bantu, are said to have the priority of first occupancy in their area, neither group has the right to the whole of South Africa. To us such a technicality would be trivial, but to the South African government it forms the basis for a moral justification of their policies.

The Bantu are restricted to certain provinces within the country, and are required to carry identification cards. They are not permitted free passage from one area to another, nor are they allowed free access to universities.

The Whites contend that they are a unified group, while the Bantu are billed as a heterogeneous people without a "single loyalty." According to statistics the Whites outnumber each single South Africa tribe, but the Bantu combined outnumber the Whites three to one. Yet, these individuals must be separated under the pretense that in this "multi-national" atmosphere the nationalities must be kept distinct to prevent conflict. Such a political structure purports to encourage self-determination, self-government, and independence within the Bantus' own "homelands."

Even if such an apartheid situation could be justified, does it provide equal opportunities for both Black and White? Agreed, the newly emerging African nations need guidance, but for how long, and under what circumstances? Situations that now exist point up the inferiority of the Bantu who are a proud people. These people deserve the right of free access to accredited White schools. Their labor should no longer be exploited by the Whites. If the present regime is supposedly preparing the Bantu for self-government, why isn't he given more representation in the government?

Zanzibar, the Congo and Angola are now at the boiling point. South Africa is at kindling temperature; this writer predicts that it will soon break into flames. Should we stand by and let these people be swept into a blood bath? The Bantu dream for autonomy and freedom depend upon the actions of the United States.

SGA Searches For Composers

The Executive Committee of the SGA has approved a move to hold a song writing contest on campus. The idea of the contest is to interest students with musical ability to enter competition to select a song representative of Paterson State College. Since the only official song of the college is the Alma Mater, the SGA feels that such a contest would help arouse school spirit.

All songs will be judged by Dr. J. Clees McKray, head of the music department, and three other members of the department not yet named. A student committee will also be on hand to help determine the winners.

All entries must be submitted no later than April 6, 1964. Material will be judged on originality and appropriateness. Students who wish to enter the contest may leave their entries in the SGA office.

Dr. Naidoo Brings African Background To Soc. Sci. Classes

by Cathy Sain

"Teaching at Paterson State is something I personally wanted to do, since it represents a welcome change from my regular administrative work." So commented Dr. M. B. Naidoo of the Republic of South Africa, who has been appointed associate professor of Social Science, substituting for Dr. S. Hendrickson of that department.

Born in South Africa of East Indian parents, Dr. Naidoo is a graduate of the University of South Africa at Pretoria and the University of Witwatersrand in Johannesburg and briefly attended Harvard University. He has been vice-principal of Sastri College in Durban, South Africa, for thirteen years. Dr. Naidoo lectured at Trenton State College in 1958-59 and in 1961-62.

Dr. Naidoo regards teaching here as a challenge because he considers himself responsible for educating future teachers. While his acceptance of a position here is a personal thing, Dr. Naidoo finds "it enriches your experience to have had contact with another type of community here."

One major difference he finds between American education and education in South Africa is the more intense specialization of the South African student. In high school there, a student concentrates on one or two subjects, continuing that specialization through three years of college (the college year extends from January through December). Graduate work consists of further concentration on that specialized subject.

As a teacher, Dr. Naidoo gives important consideration to the educational welfare of his community as well as that of all South Africa. To give his courses added depth, he often travels around the world and incorporates that background into his courses. "The student can learn basic things from the textbook. Students are more interested in a course when the teacher brings personal experience to it."

Dr. Naidoo finds the cordial atmosphere here at Paterson State "a universal feature of the American people" and regards the American role in the establishment of better human relations as one of major importance.

New members for the International Relations club are urged to attend a meeting on Thursday, Feb. 20 at 1:30 in H-204. . . . Also set for Thursday is a meeting of the Citizenship Club in room W-7 at 1:30. . . . Did Dr. Rhine announce the cancellation of his meeting by telephone or ESP? . . . Two Russian films are planned by the English Department for showing on Wednesday, Feb. 19 at 7:30 in W-101. The films, The Colt and Mumu, are based on stories by Sholokov and Turgenev. The management is prepared for a packed house since this appears to be an evening well spent. . . . What ever happened to the Paterson Evening News? . . . Any women students interested in WRA bowling are invited to the T-Bowl on Monday evening from 4:45 to 6:30. Very important! Juniors will appoint the editor of the 1965 Pioneer Yearbook next Tuesday in W-101 at 1:30 p.m. (A.P.)

Rumblings From A Rambler

By RON VERDICCHIO

"Skid Row and Paterson State College's cage team are one of a kind . . ." This quote comes directly from the sports page of the Paterson Evening News. As incredible as it may seem a commercial newspaper has indulged in the maligning of a teacher's college because of a poor basketball team.

It is not the purpose of this editorial column, nor of the BEACON to engage in retaliatory name-calling. However, the students and faculty of Paterson State College deserve an explanation for drawing an analogy between themselves and Skid Row. Is this what Paterson State College needs to build its name? Obviously not. Although this may offend some readers of this column, the blame lies with the Paterson Evening News. This type of name-calling not only violates journalistic ethics but brings the students and faculty of Paterson State down to the level of derelicts and sots. This type of journalism is not needed in our college community nor in our society. When newspapers with a daily circulation of over 100,000 begins to use their news license to turn reporting into vicious provocation, then it is time the offended parties made themselves heard.

This injustice is not directed just toward the basketball team and their coaches, but actually maligns the products of this teacher preparation institute. The Paterson Evening News has displayed poor taste since many of their readers have children who are taught by alumni of the so called "Skid Row." The thoughtless journalist who perpetrated this act shows no regard for Paterson State College, its students and faculty, or the State of New Jersey.

But what lesson can be learned from this incident? It is not what can be learned, but what will happen in the future if incidents like this are allowed to continue. Will the press disregard all morals and print headlines attacking ethnic groups and religions? The citizens of this college community deserve more than just a helter-skelter, name-calling journal to represent them to the public. Responsibility is the essence of journalism.

Soccermen Add Two Opponents To '64 Schedule

Paterson State's Soccer Coach Wilber Myers has announced an eleven game schedule for the 1964 season. This schedule includes St. Peters College and Upsala College, both of whom are new opponents for the Pioneers.

The 1963 Pioneers compiled a 5-5 record and placed six men on the New Jersey State College Conference All-Star Team. Leading the way was co-captain Carmen De-Sopo, who was chosen first team inside right for the second consecutive year. Carmen, who received honorable mention in his sophomore year, was Pioneer co-captain his last two years and has scored a total of 31 goals during his intercollegiate career.

The 1964 Pioneers will also lose lettermen James Heffernan, Peter Helff, Gary Witte, Angelo Izzo, Preston Pratola, Donald Saviano and honorable mention, center halfback Richard Witte.

Coach Myers hopes to better his freshman season mark of 5-5 by relying heavily on the ten returning lettermen: Terrence DiGiovanni, Mark Evangelista, honorable mention goalie; Richard Gore, Damon Neroni, Clifford Raymond, Paul Reilley, Gerald Stefanacci, Zigfried Krause, honorable mention back; Victor Talerico and Norman Binder, both honorable mention linemen.

FENCERS Lon Lawson and John Cilio practice with sabres. The Paterson Fencers opened against Newark-Rutgers on Wednesday, February 5. The swordsmen defeated Newark 19-8.

Undefeated Men's Fencing Team Scores Fifth Win

by Art Rittenhouse

Paterson State's Men's Fencing Team began its first tough meet of the season last Wednesday against Newark Rutgers by winning the first nine bouts (one-third of the total, meet score). The Pioneers entered the away meet matching a 4-0 record against Newark's 6-0 record.

Attempting a come-back at the beginning of the second round, Newark defeated the next three sabremen (9-3) but lost their chance against the foil squad (12-3) and the meet against the epee (14-3). The final score was 19-8.

Scoring for PSC were senior foilmen Bob Titus and John Thomas, and freshman Jim Lawther with 2-0 records. Also fencing foil was Chet Pilgrim (1-0). Sabre was again led by Chang and Eng (John Cilio and Lon Lawson) each with two wins and one loss. Al Barnitt was 1-1.

First year fencer Scott Dyller led the epee team with a 3-0 mark. Dyller also leads the team with a season record of 12-3. Although the epee fencers got off to a slow start, they have compiled winning scores in the last two meets. Supporting Dyller last Wednesday were Dennis Delhaie and Art Rittenhouse (2-1).

The team's next meet will be against Fairleigh Dickinson University at 7:30 p.m., Wednesday, February 19 in the Gym. The Pioneers will then fence Pace and one of the strongest teams in the North Atlantic area Rochester Institute of Technology.

On a Wednesday afternoon it seems that all the commuting freshmen are finished with school at 4:20 p.m. On Wednesday, February 5, it took forty minutes to leave the area. This is a needless waste of time. At the beginning of the school year a policeman was placed at the exit and students left within 10 minutes. Where is this policeman now?

On a "warm" winter's day freshman must walk up a hill through three inches of mud. Gravel would solve the problem. At night after a 4:30 class that same path is not always lighted and one must guess where his next step will take him.

I feel present and future freshmen deserve more for the $10.00 "privilege" of parking in lot #1.

We would like to repeat ourselves by inviting more spectators to the home meets. You are welcome and guide-sheets are available to help you follow the action and scoring and enjoy the matches more.

Newark Squires Down Pioneers

Despite a strong second half bid for victory by the Pioneers, the NSC Squires turned on the power in the final minutes of the ballgame to win by a score of 72-58. The game was played at the Newark State court last Tuesday.

Paterson, still winless in the State Conference, grabbed a quick opening lead and held it throughout the majority of the first half. However, the Squires sank a series of baskets seconds before the half-time buzzer leaving the count at 26 all.

The second half commenced with NSC dominating the play and compiling a substantial lead. However, the evening's excitement had not terminated. The Pioneers, led by high scoring Steve Clancy, gamely fought back, tying the score at 50 all with six minutes left in the game. Paterson's come-back proved to be fruitless as the Newark club recognized and surged ahead in the waning minutes of the game.

The Pioneers hit 18 of 61 shots to compile a shooting average of 29 percent, while NSC sank 25 of 64 for 39 percent.

Pioneer Steve Clancy led the Pioneers, scoring 14 points. Teammates Bill Joosten and Don Duin assisted with eight tallies apiece. Bill Ball had 29 for NSC.

The Paterson Junior Varsity bowed 63-45 as Joe Donati threw in 19 points for the visitors.

PSC Senior KO's Opponent

Rich Witte, Paterson State Senior, set the pace for an exciting evening of boxing as the 160th division of the New York Golden Gloves got under way last Tuesday evening at the Saint Francis of Xavier boxing arena in Brooklyn.

Witte, boxing the second of fifteen bouts, recorded the first KO of the evening when he stopped Manuel Vasquez of New York City with a devastating barrage of left and rights in one minute and 28 seconds of the first round.

The Pioneer senior will continue his fistic endeavors when he fights in the second round of the New York News sponsored tournament next Tuesday, February 17, at Mount Vernon, New York.

Fencers Cop Third Win

At a triangular fencing meet held at Paterson State College, the Women's varsity Fencing team defeated C. W. Post College of Long Island and Rochester Institute of Technology for their third win of the season with no defeats.

Paterson State compiled fourteen wins while Rochester and Post managed to gather only two and four wins respectively.

Fencing for the Pioneers were: Andy Jacukiewicz, 7-0, Arlene Melnick, 6-0, Cindy Jones, 6-0, Joyce Dunn, 3-3, Carol Mitteldorf, 2-0, Ann Stokes, 2-1 and Barbara Wennersten, 0-2.
