PSC Profs. To Speak At NJEA Convention

A record crowd is expected during this year's annual NJEA convention in Atlantic City, Thursday through Saturday, November 11-13. The New Jersey gathering has long been the world's largest annual educational meeting. In 1964, 39,758 registered in attendance and this year some 40,000 visitors are expected to attend.

Aside from the general convention programs, affiliated associations will be conducting meetings of their own, holding discussions, demonstrations, luncheons, workshops and consultations. Teachers from all areas of education, including

Paterson State Faculty, will contribute to the success of the convention. The college representatives are: Stanley Opalach, a pianist at a meeting on string instruments... Mrs. C. Bradley conducting a lecture - demonstration on the dance... M. J. Cheescan, advisor for a meeting of the student section of the New Jersey Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation, and Kenneth Job, who will be leading a discussion group for New Jersey Council of Social Studies. As usual, the college will occupy a double booth number 1108-1110, with a student crew to serve as hosts and to help set up and dismantle the display. Four students have been selected by the Alumni Association Executive Board to make up the crew. Two experienced members of this group are Dale Toten, a junior general elementary major and Richard Van Emburgh, also a junior general elementary major. The two new members are Joyce Lyons, a general elementary major and Charles Carrigan, a secondary math major, both sophomores. The crew will leave for Atlantic City on Wednesday afternoon, November 10, to set up the booth and will stay until Saturday noon. The students will work in the booth and help with the Tea on Friday afternoon from four until six, in the Rose Room of the Traymore Hotel. General session speakers include Dr. Dean F. Berkley, director of field services of Indiana University's School of Education, on "Always, Somebody Doesn't Get the Word"; Dr. Murray Banks, a psychologist who writes a syndicated column, on "Just In Case You Think You're Normal"; Dr. Frederick Raubinger, New Jersey commissioner of Education; and Everett C. Curry of Middleton Twp., NJEA president.

The convention is a rewarding experience for each student as prospective teachers and we are confident that it will be as successful this year as it has been in the past.

Ambassadors Relate Summer Experience

Ellen McCloy, Leslie Omelianuck, Chet Pilgrim, and Ann Stokes all have something in common. They participated in the Experiment in International Living this past summer. France, Ireland, Tanzania, and India were the countries visited, respectively, by PSC's ambassadors.

The ambassadors will relate their experiences and show slides of the country in which they spent most of their summer on Tuesday evening, November 30, at 7:30 P.M. in the Center for Performing Arts here at Paterson State College. Lon Lawson the ambassador to Great Britain for the summer of 1964, will host the program.

Application forms for the Experiment in International Living will be available after the program for students interested in becoming ambassadors for the summer of 1966. Each year from approximately thirty students who apply for the experiment, four $625.00 scholarships are granted for the country of their choice. Sophomores and juniors who have been on campus for two semesters are eligible to apply for the scholarship.

There is no greater way to learn about a country and its people than an actual visit and participation in its way of life. The ambassadors will never forget the experiences they faced and the wonderful people they met in the Experiment for International Living.

ATTENTION
Due to the Teacher's Convention in Atlantic City next week, there will be no Beacon for the week of November 12.

Great Society To Be Discussed By Senator Harrison Williams In Center For Performing Arts

"Expression of our Faith in the Great Society," will be the main focal point of Senator Harrison Williams' lecture when he speaks at Paterson State College on November 9, at 3:30. The senator will appear in the new auditorium, The Center for the Performing Arts.

A Liberal Democrat, Senator Williams has supported such controversial legislation as mass transit, National Service Corps, migratory labor, flood insurance, and investor protection. These bills were either voted down or pigeonholed in the House. However, his bills for housing of the elderly, open spaces to provide cities with parks, and small aid to mass transit were all enacted into law. He supported the 1962 Trade Expansion Act, the 1963 Nuclear Test Ban Treaty, and the 1964 Tax Cut.

Senator Williams was elected to the House in 1953 and re-elected in 1954. He returned to the Senate in 1958. The Senator received his B.A. at Oberlin in 1941 and his L.L.B. at Columbia in 1948. He resides in Westfield N.J. and has been a member of the New Jersey Bar since 1951. Earlier in his life he worked as a steelworker and a copy boy for the Washington Post. In New Hampshire, he practiced law for a year following graduation from law school. He then returned to Plainfield to teach business law at Rutgers University.

Banking and Currency, Labor and Public Welfare, and Small Business committees are just a few which the Senator has served on in the past years. He has recently served on the Senate Special Committee on Aging. The committee emphasized the effective ways to focus the War on Poverty on the Problems of our Senior Citizens. Senator Williams described this committee as one of the most productive hearings he has attended during his ten years in Congress.

Religious Groups Allowed On Campus

The first meeting of the newly formed Newman Club was held on Nov. 4, 1965. Father Wehren, of St. Philips in Clifton, is chaplain for the club. President Frank Karpati announced the purposes of the Newman Club; to propagate the Catholic faith and to help college students stay close to God.

For the first semester, the Newman Club will deal with such topics as dating, birth control and other contemporary moral problems. During the second semester, the club will discuss Judeo-Christian relations and other philosophical topics which have a definite effect on the individual.

The first speaker will be Father Daley, the vice-principal of Seton Hall Prep School

English Club Offers Johnson's Volpone

Volpone, Ben Jonson's romantic comedy that has enchanted the world will weave its spell for English Club members and guests through the medium of a French film to be shown at 7:30 p.m. on November 17 in W161.

This modern dramatization starring Harry Baur and Louis Jouvet has been called by Life Magazine "One of France's best a richly humorous movie." Acclaimed by critics as a top notch, humorous examination of human foibles, the film stars two of France's greatest actors. Mosca, the wily servant, played by Monsieur Jouvet, matches wits with Monsieur Baur who takes the part of Volpone the Levantine shipowner. The shady machinations of Mosca bring about the ruin of Volpone, who eventually feigns a fatal illness so as to watch the actions of his rascally "friends".

Of the 95 minute film, directed by Maurice Tourneur, John McCarten of The New Yorker said, "It's been a long time since a film has made me laugh as much as 'Volpone', a French film that does complete justice to Ben Jonson's play about an antic miser... Harry Baur is the most satisfactory Volpone you ever laid your eyes on, and it is embarrassing to think that there isn't a movie actor who could stay in range of the same camera with him and not be reduced to inconsequentiality... 'Volpone' is hilarious and you certainly ought to see it."

Sir, could you tell us what you are protesting?
 "I don't agree with the President's position in Vietnam!"
 And you sir?
 "I don't believe in the draft."

These are just two reasons given by college students at a recent demonstration. This writer heard these comments and others just like them on a newscast the other night. Just for fun some time ask ten people participating in a demonstration or protest what their purpose is. You will more than likely get ten different replies. Since most of this demonstrating and protesting is coming from people our age, we feel it is important for us, of Paterson State College, to find out what is going on. Why are we so easily led?

Recently a young college man (?) burned his draft card in defiance of the draft and the President's position in Vietnam. What was the purpose behind it? The only thing achieved in this case was a jail sentence and a fine. As for the burning of the draft card, the government has a record of this person's selective service. He is still very eligible for the draft. This incident causes me to ask again, "Why are we so easily led?"

How much do we really know? Perhaps if there were a little less demonstrating and a lot more reading and researching into the problem at hand, we could come up with some real answers. We will have to admit that the protests have brought the problem out in the open; but what now?

Let's learn a little bit about this world before we condemn it. It took man a long time to get this far, let's not destroy a good thing!

I WAS AN IVY LEAGUE SUCKER

by Joe Dziejewicz

The purpose of this weekly column is to point out the many ways that all college students find themselves separated from their money. It is in no way meant as a satirical criticism of our school, but only a list of general traits of all colleges and universities in our country.

Hello, suckers! Today I am going to take you on a Tour De Farce of one of the sad realities of Paterson State College. . . . THE ACCELERATED COURSE.

On the very last page of the master schedule is a list of "C" Electives. If you are a senior who will be involved in student teaching during the semester, you are limited in choice of courses to these subjects. There are about ten of these electives and five of them conflict with the other five. Add courses like Nuclear Physics and Micro Biology to the list and you can see what a choice you have. Your best bet for the semester is to get drafted if you are a boy and pregnant if you are a girl.

The remaining courses are usually in the English department and include such wonders as Survey of Drama or World Lit. where you must read twelve books and sixteen plays in eight weeks.

These accelerated courses are filled with walking pneumonia and mono - cases. After all, if you miss one class it counts as a double out. No senior is in a good position to miss a class where 250 pages will be covered.

The teacher of the accelerated course is usually an ex - marine drill sergeant. He (or she) tries to keep the class awake through the use of such gimmicks as "surprise" tests. The tired student crawls into class and finds a smiling sadist waiting with a stack of dittoed sheets. Such tests serve only to help the teacher find out who is strong enough to write.

There is also a term paper that is due within three weeks of the first day. The paper is twenty pages long and can also be used again when the student is writing his Doctoral thesis.

The goal of the accelerated teacher is to keep the class too tired to revolt. The easiest student to control is one who is fighting for air. The saddest sight this reporter ever saw was when one of the seniors in the final week of the course staggered to the front of the room to act out the play he memorized the night before. With tear-stained, blood - shot eyes, he gamely tried his best. As he fell to the floor, the teacher triumphed. (Continued on page 3)

Letter To The Editor

Contributions to this column are the opinions of the readers and, as such, are unsolicited. All letters are required to be of a standard that will reflect the best interests of the college. Anonymous letters will not be printed but names will be withheld on request. The Beacon reserves the right to edit all letters.

Saturday morning at 8:00 a.m. I was minding my own business (crabbing) when all of a sudden a big guy caught me in a net and dumped me into a plastic bag. I watched as this character who calls himself Bernie McCarey and his accomplice, Dr. John Rosengren, went about catching my friends and neighbors and placing them in plastic bags also — evidently some kind of Halloween prank.

Next we were placed in a station wagon and bumped along a road. At last we stopped — good thing, too, for I was becoming land sick. Two other accomplices joined the first pair. I learned, by eavesdropping, that they were Mr. Kenefick and Ray Hancke.

They took us into a building where I saw them dump sand, rocks, and sea water into a glass "house" which they called an aquarium. They stood and watched us and told themselves it was just like our home — IT IS NOT. I learned that Jo-Anne Rogerwick brought that coarse sand which hurts my feet. Cheryl Pfister put that cold plastic tubing under the sand ("Borrowed from Dr. Arthur") and it makes my feet cold (all ten of them) — "Achoo" — I knew it, I'm coming down with a cold. When I arrived my shell had a crack in it, so I tried on two empty ones but they did not fit. You would think that "brainy" people in college would have provided me with a better ward robe.

People came in all this week to peer at me. I am getting used to my new home — but I like Shark River better. From what I hear the one to write a letter of complaint to is Dr. Shea, and if that doesn't get results I should go right to the commissioner. OOPS — That crazy starfish thinks I'm a snail and does he look hungry. You know those dopes brought in two MALE sea urchins. Don't they know it takes two to tango?

This is the craziest place in the world. Outside the aquarium, is a machine with red lights that go on and off all the time — it pumps cold water. Every hour a new batch of people come in and go out. Other people make funny drawing on the board and ask the people in the seats questions they can't answer. There is no high or low tide here, craziest place I've ever been.

I couldn't find any dead fish when I got hungry so I ate green algae. Finally, they gave me some bring shrimp for food. We have quite a colony: Starfish, sea urchins, four hermit crabs (three are cute blondes), obelia (they are not any fun — look too much like plants and they sting, too), sea anemones, mussels and a lot of fish and other things those guys don't even know they put in.

I can't let it be here now. There is so much to watch! (and they think I look funny). Why don't you come up to W-239 and see me in the new PSC salt-water aquarium? I am the one with the white moon shell with a slight crack in it and I have four long antennae. Better come soon. I expect to be back at Shark River if Dr. Shea or the commissioner comes through. (Continued on page 3)

Remember next week is "Be kind to crab week" and the motto to "be crabby all week".

Dear Editor

In the sixteenth century a man named Niccolo Machiavel. He wrote a book called "The Prince." The Prince is the famous analysis of statesmanship and power that reveals the techniques and strategy of gaining and keeping political control, a subject that is important to all countries that wish to become or remain world powers like the United States. In the last fifty years Machiaveli has been repeatedly hailed as the founder of modern political science. He was born in 1499, almost five centuries ago. Yet, he was able to write a book that contains a paragraph that could be used in defense of United States foreign policy in Viet Nam today.

"...For the Romans did in these cases what all wise princes should do, who consider not only present but also future disorders and diligently guard against them; for being foreseen they can easily be remedied, but if one waits till they are at hand, the medicine is no longer in time as the malady has become incurable; it happens with this as with those hectic fevers, as doctors say, which at their beginning are easy to cure but difficult to recognize, but in course of time when they have not at first been recognized and treated, become easy to recognize and difficult to cure. Thus it happens in matters of state; for knowing afar off (which it is only given to a prudent man to do) the evils that are brewing, they are easily cured. But when, for want of such knowledge, they are allowed to grow so that everyone can recognize them, there is no longer any remedy to be found..."

If we wait for all the "educated" college pacifist fools to see the danger in the cancer called "Communism", we will succumb to a disease that can be defeated NOW! The Romans, at their peak, had the ability to diagnose a disorder, no matter how remote, and find a remedy. They never allowed the problem to increase in order to avoid a war. As Machiaveli points out, "...they knew that war is not to be avoided, and can be defeated only to the advantage of the other side..."

Abraham Lincoln pointed out that if the United States of America ever falls, it will be due to an internal cause, not an external one. Last week, a group of college students from the U- (Continued on page 3)

On The Go

by Laura - Jeanne Leger

This article is to provide PSC students with ideas on new interesting places to go on Friday and Saturday night dates that are still compatible with a college student's budget.

Night Clubbing and Discotheque in New York can be expensive while non-entertaining. The Dom however, is not one such establishment. Located on 19th Street and Saint Mark's Place in the East Village, its outside resembles a cathedral, but inside its one of the swiftest Discotheques in New York. Populated with young adults from the fashionable east side, wearing apparel varies from dinner clothes to casuals with boots for men and women. Rock and Roll prevails here and the word is Go Go. It's a great night out for those who like to dance. For those who would like to eat first, the Blue Mill Tavern at 50 Commerce Street (near 7th Avenue) in Greenwich Village will provide you with a nourishing but not fancy meal for $1.40. Admission to the Dom is $3.00 per couple so with dinner it is possible to eat and go Disco in New York for $7.00 (tolls included). But remember, the more you drink the more expensive it is. Plenty of free parking is available in the East Village and around 7th Avenue in the Village.

Lake George Forts Visited By Students

On the weekend of October 23-24 the Society for the Social Sciences sponsored a field trip to the Lake George area for a busload of fifty-one students and faculty.

The officers of the club, Deloris Randle (president), Linda Oswald (secretary), Jack Mechanic (treasurer), and Bob Schnare (sergeant-at-arms) were in attendance along with faculty members Dr. Kenneth Job, Dr. Paul Vouras, Dr. Irwin Nack, Mr. John Huber, Mrs. Sally Burke, and Miss Rinaldi.

The bus departed from the campus at 8:30 A.M. Saturday morning and arrived at Lake George at 12:00 P.M. After dining, the first stop for the group was Fort Ticonderoga. At this famous fortress the group was carried back through time to the days of the American Revolution. The early history of our country became much clearer by actually seeing the places where famous events occurred. The group was allowed to browse around and study the reconstructed fort.

Leaving the fort the group went to their rooms at O'Sullivan's Motel followed by a marvelous dinner at the posh Lake George Inn.

The following day, after breakfast at the motel, the group proceeded to Fort William Henry. Here they were allowed to examine the inside of the fort as well as the outside. The dungeons, the soldiers' barracks and even the stocks and the whipping post created a vivid picture of life in the fort during the Revolution. Following this a lecture was given by Mr. Flacks the Assistant Curator, on the conflicts that took place at Fort William Henry and the surrounding area.

The next stop was the famous site of the Battle of Saratoga. There a short ten minute film was shown on the events concerning the battle. Before embarking on the tour of the battlefield the students relived this famous conflict only on a much smaller scale, half of them playing the British and the other half the Americans.

The students left Lake George very much impressed with what they had seen and experienced, and when the bus unloaded fifty-one tired and weary students at 9:30 that same night on the campus all agreed that they had had a wonderful time.

phantly picked him up and made him begin all over. The class broke into a standing ovation as the boy ran amuck and pushed chalk into the teacher's eye.

All accelerated classrooms are the same. There are no shades on the windows, the seats face the windows and the windows face the sun. The windows are rusted shut and the heaters are operating at full blast. The only time the door is opened is when the students carry out a fallen warrior.

In order to keep their morale up, the students resort to playing practical jokes on the teacher. One such example was when my class decided that ten minutes before the end of the class we would all stand up and laugh at the teacher. By the time we were ready for the joke, everyone was exhausted. The clock moved to "target" time and three students stood up and collapsed. The other students tried to laugh, but were only capable of a whimper.

To put the final touch on the year, our teacher tried to break us by bringing us to a play in New York. We left at 3:30 in the afternoon and returned to PSC at 2:00 a.m. We were told to be in class at 8:30 sharp the next day. When we got to class; the teacher passed out tests on what we had seen the night before. The only thing I could remember about the play was when one leaned out of his chair and fell from the balcony. When the teacher saw him fall, she took attendance and gave him a triple cut.

Before the semester ended, the students decided they had enough torture for a year. They emptied the swimming pool and

PSC Professor Publishes Book

Dr. James McCarthy, Associate Professor of Speech at P.S.C., has written a text entitled "College Level Speech". The book is an overview of the usual fundamental speech course given at most U. S. and Canadian colleges. The textbook is designed to be used by itself or as a supplement to other texts.

The book, available in the Bookstore, is published by Monarch Press and sells for $1.95.

nited States donated blood to the Viet Cong. Would you call this the internal problem Lincoln was talking about? I was never before so ashamed of being a college student. The United States leaders have tried to make the picture as clear as possible: COMMUNISM THREATENS US NOW AND MUST THEREFORE BE STOPPED NOW! If the pseudo-intellectuals that plague the Colleges and Universities today can't understand this now, damn it they never will!

filled it with boiling tar. When our teacher came in that afternoon for the faculty swim, she was surrounded by pillow-bearing mad-men. Now it can be told, students. That black, feather body you saw hanging upside - down from the water tower was the result of eight weeks of pain and distress.

To all teachers who will be teaching accelerated courses next semester I say, "Beware - it could happen to you."

Joann Greco

At the annual election meeting of the Beacon Board of Control, held on Thursday, October 28, Joann Greco, junior Social Science major from Hackensack, was named Editor-in-chief.

"I realize the responsibility which has been placed in my hands, and I hope to prove worthy of such a responsibility. However, a newspaper is not made up of only an editor, it also takes a good staff." The new editor also made the following appointments: News Editor, Angela Scalzitti; Assistant News Editor, Josephine Latzoni; Feature Editor, Linda Welter; Sports Editor, Ron Hoffman; Assistant Sports Editors, Phil Yourish and Bob Moore; Layout Editor, Janie Struble; and Copy Editor, Joyce Koplin.

Aside from her activities on the Beacon, Miss Greco is a member of the Leadership Planning Committee and the Society for the Social Sciences. Prior to the election, she was News Editor of the Beacon. Former Editor, Mary Ann Corradino, will assume the duties of Advisory Editor and Business Manager.

LETTERMEN
Tickets are now on sale for the Lettermen. Since the performance is in the Auditorium, tickets will be limited. They are $2.75 for guests and $1.75 for P.C.S. students.

The Paterson State soccer team is enjoying one of its best seasons since the sport was introduced to the Wayne campus. The team is now holding a 7-3-1 record with one game remaining against Marist College on Saturday, November 6, away. It would take half of this page to name all of the outstanding players on this year's squad. However, I feel that some mention should be made of the fine effort given the team by goalie Tom DeStefano. This is Tom's first year as a soccer player and he has constantly demonstrated his excellent ability in sports by filling a tough spot left vacant by last year's All-Conference goalie, Mark Evangelista. Ken Medeska, a freshman from Hackensack has provided a bright spot for Coach Myer's FUTURE teams. Another outstanding athlete at Paterson State is senior Bill Joosten. I have watched Bill playing soccer, basketball and baseball and have never seen him give up. He constantly gives his all and along with his team which has also given a one-hundred per-cent effort demonstrates the type of athletes produced at this small college.

Congratulations are in order for Coach Wilbur Myers who has never had a losing season in his ten years as a soccer coach.

Terry Baker, a new and welcomed member of the Athletic Department has proven his outstanding qualities as our new Cross-Country coach. The Cross-country team has finished their season and now faces a hard task in the two championship meets coming up in the next two weeks. The Pioneer Harriers have won 25 of their last 29 meets and 13 out of 14 meets at home since 1952. The last thirteen New York teams who have tried to defeat the Pioneer Harriers have not even come close. Captain Joe Dziezawiec has paced this year's squad along with Al Paganelli and Bill Hagman. Recently Joe recorded his twentieth win which should be a Paterson State record.

I feel that I should remind everyone at PSC that even though many of the team members don't play often and may not place first in the track events they are the most important on the teams.

If you happen to pass the gym some evening and hear the clatter of basketballs, do not be alarmed. Coach Ken Myer's hoopsters are working out trying to bounce into condition for the forth coming basketball season. It is a little early to venture any predictions about the team, but the boys are really making a valiant effort to rid themselves of the products of a long summer. From what I have seen thus far it appears that Coach Myer is developing his team into a well drilled machine. Only time will tell the fate of this year's Pioneer basketball team.

Pioneer soccerman tries in vain to penetrate Lions Goal. Trenton State went on to win a 1-0 thriller before a large crowd at Wightman Field last Tuesday.

Glassboro State Nips PSC, 3-1

Although the Orange and Black scored first, they went down to defeat in a conference game by a 3-1 score to Glassboro State College. This was only Paterson's second loss in ten contests with two games remaining to be played. Overall Glassboro posts a 6-2 record and Paterson 7-2-1.

Bill Joosten scored his fifth goal of the season unassisted in the first quarter of play. Glassboro scored two goals in the second quarter, the first on a direct kick outside of the penalty area. They again penetrated the goal in the final quarter on a penalty kick, his second such save of the season.

Games to come:
The Paterson State College soccer team will travel to Poughkeepsie New York to play Marist College in a non-conference encounter. This game is the final of the season for the Pioneers, from a twelve-game schedule. Game time is set at 1:00 p.m.

Baker's Boys Romp Again

by Bob Moore

On Wednesday, October 27, 1963, the P.S.C. harriers played host to New Paltz College of New York State. However, about 30 minutes after salutations were exchanged, the trackmen from New Paltz had met with the same fate that had befallen many of the Pioneers' rivals for 3 years; a defeat of the rugged PSC course. Paterson's harrier layout is tough enough to give any veteran of the Cross-Country wars the jitters. One's first impression of it, is that you will need an army survival but, a pup tent and a machete to take care of the bears. Upon running the course, the harrier finds it's really not that bad. You don't really need a machete; a cub scout knife is sufficient.

Getting back to Wednesday, Al Paganelli, alias the "Freshman Flash" came across the finish line a scant few seconds before Co-Captain Bill Hagman. The "Senator" ran his best race of the year with this second place finish. Co-Captain Joe Dziezawiec, who usually is PSC's first place finisher, was still feeling the effects of his illness and had to settle for fourth place. Soph sensation Ron Schoppert wasn't far behind Joe as he came over the line in 5th place. Freshman Bob Moore was in the 6th position, while Mark Pilipski came in 8th. Senior Tom Vitole was suffering from an illness, but managed to run a strong race as did Tom Dowd who recently recovered from a leg ailment.

The harriers are now preparing for the big prize of the state championship at Glassboro on Saturday.

Dziezawiec & Co. Travel South To Seek Title

Time has finally run out on the Paterson State Cross-Country Team. Tomorrow, Nov. 6, the harriers will put their work and sweat of the past six weeks on the start line at Glassboro, N.J. Here the Pioneers will be running against strong teams from Montclair, Trenton, Glassboro, Jersey City in a race to decide which N.J. State College is the best harrier team. Only one team can win. And PSC, or lose, will be pulling out all the stops to win their first NJSC Cross-Country Championship.

So far this season, the Pioneers have posted their best season ever. But Coach Baker's boys would gladly trade in every victory for the big one at Glassboro tomorrow. This is the one the boys have been looking forward to all season. The Pioneer's lone defeat of the campaign came at the hands of a powerful Montclair State squad at the Indian's home course. PSC can't wait for the rematch tomorrow which will be on neutral terrain.

One can almost feel the electricity generating in the Pioneer's locker room. For Joe Dziezawiec, Bill Hagman, Tom Vitole and Tom Dowd, this will be their last shot at the championship because they are all seniors. But the key to a possible victory rests with the underclassmen on the squad. Sophomore Ron Schoppert and freshman Bob Moore, Al Paganelli, and Mark Pilipski can make or break the team.

It will take an all out individual and team effort by our harriers to upset Montclair and Trenton, two of the leading contenders for the title. But our boys are fired up for this one. They are not going all the way down to Glassboro to lose.

The team will depart for Glassboro Friday night and will spend the night in a motel just outside of Philadelphia. With the race being Saturday at 11:00, the team would otherwise have to leave here tomorrow morning at 6:00 a.m. You could imagine how well they would run after a four hour ride and little sleep the night before.

The "Book-makers" probably won't even take action on tomorrow's contest. So far this year Montclair beat Paterson by 15 points. Montclair only beat Glassboro by one point. Following this reasoning, Glassboro should be 14 points better than Paterson. However, last Saturday Paterson beat Glassboro by 20 points. Trenton beat Glassboro by only 10 points, but also beat Paterson by 7. If you are still following up to this point, you can see what a dog race it's going to be. There are five teams entered in the race (Newark State doesn't have a team) and four of them are capable of coming home State Champs. The only team that is considered out of the running is Jersey City State. However, the Gothicks will probably have a lot to say about who does win it. All we can say about it is "Good Luck, boys! The BEACON is with you all the way."

Girls Lose To Upsala

by Obidia I. Schmeltz

The girl's hockey team traveled to Upsala College last Tuesday for the first hockey game of the season. Both teams played a good game with Upsala scoring the only tally late in the second half. With one game under their belts, the Paterson girls invade Montclair State University Tuesday to try and gain their first victory of the hockey season.

Maddy Brown, Connie Trifiletti, Carole Titus and Carol Alt played very well in the Upsala game and the Paterson elevens will be out to even the record on Tuesday.
